

ELEVATORS DANGEROUS

Many Are Now Flagrantly Violating the City Ordinance.

Some Declared to be Menace to Public Safety.

Nearly 150 freight and passenger elevators in the city of Duluth do not live up to the ordinance designed to insure safety in operation, and a score or more are in really dangerous condition, according to the yearly report of Deputy Building Inspector Adolph Anderson. Some of the elevators in question are veritable death traps.

Steps will be taken to bring all the elevators in town up to the requirements of the ordinance, and where proprietors refuse to comply with instructions, they will be arrested and prosecuted. The names of all firms which have been running dangerous cars, were turned over to Special Assistant Attorney Kennedy yesterday, and he will prosecute where failure to comply with the law is noted. In some cases the elevators may be condemned and ordered removed, making it necessary to install entirely new apparatus.

In the past it is said there has been only a few lax observances of the ordinance, proprietors of buildings failing to comply with instructions of the building inspectors department. One fault found with nearly all elevators inspected is the lack of a screen beneath the beams at the top of the shaft, to intercept the fall of any or bolts which might become unstayed and drop into the shaft. If a piece of metal should fall two or three stories through the top of the elevator, passengers might be killed or injured.

In numerous cases there is an entire absence of safety devices, such as hand stops, cable hooks and slack cable apparatus. All these are declared by the building inspector to be absolutely necessary to insure safety. Without the lack of safety devices on freight elevators, the car is moved from floor to floor, and in many instances employees in the building have a habit of jumping out of the car while in motion, a dangerous practice. The lack of safety devices has resulted in men falling into the pit when the elevator was moved without proper care, and lives of others have been endangered by some one on an upper floor starting the elevator unexpectedly.

Two of the leading hotels of the city, several factories and wholesale houses, downtown office buildings and department stores will be ordered to make changes in the construction of their elevator systems, and to put in the necessary safety appliances. The condition of an elevator in one of the large buildings of the city is such as to be a constant menace to the lives of people employed in the building.

Owners of the buildings containing elevators which do not come up to the requirements of the law will be notified, and a time will be specified when the changes must be made. When this time expires another inspection will be made, and if the orders of the building inspector have not been complied with, arrests will follow.

VACCINE IS SUGGESTED

Veterinary Surgeons Will Vaccinate Hogs to Prevent Cholera.

State Association Opens Its Eleventh Semi-Annual Convention.

Vaccine as a safeguard against cholera among hogs is advocated by the members of the Minnesota State Veterinary Medical association, who opened their eleventh semi-annual convention at the McKay hotel this morning.

The vaccination of hogs in districts where there is cholera infection was urged by the committee on infectious diseases, which made its report to the convention during the opening session. It is proposed to use the vaccine among the well hogs on farms where cholera threatens, and among those on nearby farms as well, and it is thought that if this is done, much of the loss of valuable hogs will be averted.

The convention approved of the committee's recommendations and the report was accepted as final.

Other committee reports were heard today and formed the principal business of the forenoon, after the reading of minutes and other matters which took up the first hour of the day.

Dr. W. A. Kuhn, of St. James, Minn., president of the association, presided, and after his report, Dr. C. A. Munk of Stillwater, secretary and treasurer of the association, made a report. This report, together with that of the finance committee, showed the association to be in good financial shape.

The election of officers and the hearing of a number of technical and professional papers comprise the business of the convention for the latter part of the day.

Dr. E. L. Twibby, M. D., of Duluth will read a paper on "Bladder," Dr. G. E. Leech, M. D., on "The Need of a Better Meat and Milk Inspection," Dr. J. McKeay, M. D., on "Local Dairy Inspection," Dr. C. C. Lyford on "Is It Something New?" Dr. W. A. Kuhn on "Septic Pyemia of Swine," Dr. H. C. Lyons on "Some Experiences of a Veterinary Surgeon in the West," Dr. L. Beebe on "John's Disease in Cattle," Dr. S. H. Ward and Dr. E. McKeay will read papers on topics which have not yet been announced.

A report of the work of the state examining board will be read by Dr. M. H. Reynolds before the convention adjourns. All of the business will be wound up today and the delegates expect to hold a session this evening. But tomorrow will be given over to pleasure. The visitors will enjoy a ride around the boulevard, a boat ride to Fond du Lac and trips to the Point and the different city parks.

The banquet will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the McKay.

About forty delegates answered the call at the session this morning but it is expected that the later trains will bring in many more. Most of the delegates brought their families.

MINING MEN BACK FROM WEST

Return From Tour of Arizona, Utah and Nevada.

Alfred Merritt, John E. Merritt, Louis H. Merritt, Lucien Merritt, James T.

Hale and Thomas Sandilands have returned from a three weeks' trip through the Southwest.

Mr. Hale did not visit the Nevada mines, having made that trip a short time ago.

"Rancho is somewhat quieter than it was two or three months ago," said Alfred Merritt this morning. "The mining on every location is being pushed forward at top speed, however. For a time there, the population had outgrown the development of the mines, but it looks now as if the mines would make possible the growth of a good sized city there."

DEMONSTRATION OF OVER ONE HOUR FOR BRYAN

BRIEF SESSION OF DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

ward the auditorium. All progress toward the building was, however, impeded by a great parade of the Tammany men, who, headed by a band and a number of gaudily-attired Indians, wound their way around the business section of the city. About 1,000 men were in line, among them Leader Charles F. Murphy.

With Tammany out of the way, the crowd was able once more to proceed toward convention hall, and by 11:30, a half hour before the opening of proceedings, all the sidewalks were choked and the police were struggling with the eager crowd.

While the day outside was very warm, the empty convention hall, when the doors were opened, was found to be 15 or 20 degrees cooler than the street temperature.

Bryan Men Cheerful.

The Bryan men came tramping into the auditorium with cheerful faces and much laughter. The events of the night and early morning in the committee on credentials were much to their liking, and they were more confident than ever of the ultimate success of their candidate. The Georgia men, anxious still in the face of apparently overwhelming odds, were late in arriving, as they had held another caucus early today for the purpose of establishing a rallying point for the fight against Bryan. When Georgia arrived, it became known that the Georgia delegation was unable to reach a conclusion regarding the Democratic candidate for president when they will support. Another caucus will be held tonight to further consider the question. As constituted, the delegation stands 23 against Bryan and 3 for him.

The seats of Pennsylvania were also sparsely filled. Col. Guflay and his friends being locked up at the Adams house, considering their best line of action in the face of the adverse report which the committee on credentials was preparing to bring against them.

Four times before the convention was called to order a gray-haired reading clerk, with stentorian voice, stood on the platform and requested to know if Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell or Mr. Duncanson were in the house.

Call for Gompers and Mitchell. They are requested to come forward," he said at first, but there was no response.

Next time the clerk announced that the trio of labor leaders were wanted by the committee on resolutions, and, lastly, he appealed that they report immediately at room 215, Brown Palace.

The reading clerk caused some merriment by announcing, in all seriousness, that if Mr. Jones is in the house, he is requested to call up telephone Main 4995.

Temporary Chairman Bell reached the rostrum just before noon, while the band was playing "The Star-Spangled Banner" and there were combined cheers for the patriotic selection and for the first officer of the convention.

"Dixie" came next from the band, and drew out the usual burst of cheers from the Southern delegates.

Clayton Arrives.

Among the early arrivals was Representative Clayton of Alabama, soon to be named by the organization committee as the premier chairman of the convention. He occupied a seat in the last row of chairs reserved for members of the national committee.

His eyes were covered by heavy blue glasses and he was somewhat less fashionably attired than was Temporary Chairman Bell, who spoke yesterday.

Col. Guflay walked down the center aisle to his place in the Pennsylvania delegation at 12:10 and got a cheer from a number of the delegates in his vicinity. He was also surrounded for some time by a group of friends, who apparently wanted to know what plan of action had been decided upon by the Pennsylvania delegation.

During all the time the delegates were finding their seats, the band kept up a constant stream of music.

That is, the music was not so much variety of selection were offered, and whenever the leader had a doubt, he turned on a new supply of "Dixie," and always got a cheering shout.

Marching Clubs to March.

At 12:20 o'clock, when the convention had not yet been called to order, it was announced that the marching clubs would be permitted to march through the hall as soon as the opening prayer had been delivered. Arrangements for the entrance and exit of the paraders were hastily carried out, under the direction of the sergeant-at-arms.

It was 12:25 when Chairman Bell began vigorously to rap for order and to direct that the congested aisles be cleared. "The convention will come to order," he called.

A VETERAN OF THE CIVIL WAR

Restored to Health by the Use of Wittman Medical Compound.

Wittman's success lies in the fact that he proves what he says. The Medical Compound have cured scores of cases of Rheumatism in this city and other cities where it has been introduced. Mr. E. Lloyd, who lives at 207 Reley street, West Duluth, has suffered with Rheumatism for five years; he had tried almost every remedy for Rheumatism that he had ever heard of, but had got no relief from them. This gentleman is an old army veteran, a man that has seen suffering of all kinds. When this man came to Wittman's office, he could not raise his hand any higher than his shoulders, but after two days' treatment, Mr. Lloyd's knee is now able to raise his hand way over his head. Mr. E. Lloyd states that this treatment is the only one that gave him permanent satisfactory relief. There is also one more on our list of cures. Mrs. Deutter, who has been a sufferer of Rheumatism for five years, was all broken down in health. After taking Wittman's Compound for two or three days her strength and health was again restored to her. Wittman and his experts are curing these cases every day. If you have stomach or kidney trouble and various other diseases that wreck the human body it would be well worth your time to go and visit them; their offices are located at the corner of Third and Avenue West and Superior street, at the Vincent block. The hours are from 11 till 12 and from 2 till 4. The night a big free show and band concert at the corner of Second and Third avenues west and Superior street at 8:30.

order," he shouted time and again, while the hum of voices continued.

"Gentlemen, be seated," called the chairman. "Gentlemen, please be seated," he repeated, and at last, "The officers of the convention will see that the gentlemen take their seats and clear the aisles," while the gavel continued its pounding. Inexpungible conferences seemed to be in progress in all parts of the delegates' section, and it was some time before the participants heeded the frantic appeals of the chairman.

Chairman Bell, after pounding his gavel for ten minutes, delivered a short address, demanding that order prevail in the convention, repeating for the fourth time:

"Gentlemen, take your seats."

Silence Prevailed.

While it was speaking almost absolute silence prevailed and his threat of "no business will be transacted unless quiet is restored" was made to the people who were making no noise of any kind.

The chairman finished what he had to say, however, and promptly seizing his opportunity introduced the Rev. Christian F. Reiser of Denver, the chaplain of the day, who delivered the invocation.

Rev. Mr. Reiser spoke in a strong, deep voice, and as he concluded was greeted with an outburst of applause, particularly from the Indiana and New York delegates, although it was general throughout the convention.

"The Milwaukee and other marching clubs will pass through the hall," announced the chairman, and as the strains of "Dixie" floated into the auditorium and their broken from the crowd at the first Bryan banner in line was swung through the door. The strains of "Dixie" as the marching band passed out of a door opposite the one by which it entered.

Parade Not Long.

The parade was not a long one and the convention soon returned to business. As was the last part of the parade passed, Chairman Bell again ordered that the aisles be cleared, and when this was done the chairman said:

"The chair recognizes Senator Grady of New York, chairman of the committee on resolutions."

Sensor Grady, mounting the platform, announced in a few words that he presented the report, the adoption of which he moved that the convention shall be governed by the rules of the Democratic convention of 1894. The report was adopted unanimously by a viva voce vote.

"Now, gentlemen," said Mr. Bell, "it appears that the committee on credentials is ready to report at this time, so the convention will dispose of some minor business. The chair recognizes W. H. Martin of Arkansas."

Mr. Martin presented, on behalf of the national committee, a resolution of regret and tribute to the late James K. Jones, former chairman of the committee on resolutions.

After the resolution had been read, Mr. Martin spoke briefly of Senator Jones' excellent service to the Democratic party. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Jones of Kentucky moved a recess until 8 p. m. The delegates evidently did not object, but the speaker shouted no. After a second trial the chairman was forced to ask the band to play to restore order.

"We will hear from Senator Gore," finally announced Mr. Bell amid great cheering.

"Now, gentlemen," said Mr. Bell, "it appears that the committee on credentials is ready to report at this time, so the convention will dispose of some minor business. The chair recognizes W. H. Martin of Arkansas."

Mr. Martin presented, on behalf of the national committee, a resolution of regret and tribute to the late James K. Jones, former chairman of the committee on resolutions.

After the resolution had been read, Mr. Martin spoke briefly of Senator Jones' excellent service to the Democratic party. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Jones of Kentucky moved a recess until 8 p. m. The delegates evidently did not object, but the speaker shouted no. After a second trial the chairman was forced to ask the band to play to restore order.

"We will hear from Senator Gore," finally announced Mr. Bell amid great cheering.

Senator Gore spoke, and when he presented the report, the adoption of which he moved that the convention shall be governed by the rules of the Democratic convention of 1894. The report was adopted unanimously by a viva voce vote.

circle about the New York delegation and cheered their lustiest.

Oklahoma Persistent.

A wildly enthusiastic delegate from Oklahoma clamored up on the press table to secure advantage from which to deliver a speech. He was dragged down by the newspaper men with scant ceremony.

After the platform once more, but Sergeant-at-Arms Martin stopped him. The galleries already had taken their seats, and the speaker was allowed to carry his argument.

The states of Idaho, Ohio and Massachusetts joined him, while the delegates of Kentucky, Kansas, and Nebraska joined in the chorus.

But one to some extent involving the intense excitement has been awakened over this all-night fight, which culminated at 10 o'clock this morning.

It means that the one rallying point of the anti-Bryan forces has gone to pieces; whereas, a Guflay fight on the floor of the convention would be the first show down of a roll call between the two elements—Bryan and anti-Bryan.

Here, then, is to be the first alignment of the anti-Bryan forces has gone to pieces; whereas, a Guflay fight on the floor of the convention would be the first show down of a roll call between the two elements—Bryan and anti-Bryan.

Guflay was fairly stunned when word was brought to him of the action of the committee. "Can it be possible," he said, "that this disfranchisement of men representing the sovereign state of Pennsylvania, men holding certificates under the great seal of the commonwealth, has deliberately taken place?"

The report of what had been done was laid before Col. Guflay by John Garman, former Democratic state chairman of Pennsylvania, and the Pennsylvania member of the credentials committee. All night he had stood at the door of the committee room—refused a place, owing to the pending contest, but always on guard, without food or relief, through the early morning hours, until the final action was taken. His summary of the situation to Col. Guflay was this:

"Eight of our Philadelphia men have been unseated and eight contestants put in their places. Prior to this action the Pennsylvania vote stood 32 1/2 for Guflay and 26 1/2 for Kerr. But taking off the eight Philadelphia delegates and adding the eight contestants gives Kerr 34 1/2 votes to Guflay's 32 1/2 votes, with Royal not voting, as he refuses to take sides. The selection of Col. Guflay as chairman of the national committee is referred to the Pennsylvania delegation, which means that if the credentials committee report is sustained by the convention, the anti-Guflay forces will make a new selection for a national committee man from Pennsylvania."

Immediate steps were taken to carry the contest to the floor of the convention, and Col. Guflay issued the following formal protest:

Issues a Protest.

"Pennsylvania's delegates came to this convention, elected under the statutes of Pennsylvania, their election being certified not alone by the commissioners of the district, but by the secretary of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Nor was any of the delegates made as to any of the delegates. This delegation was certified to the national committee by the chairman and secretary of the state central committee of Pennsylvania. Notices of contests in a few districts were filed with the national committee. A sub-committee of the national committee was appointed, and a full and absolute hearing given these contestants.

"The sub-committee reported unanimously in favor of the certified delegation. The national committee, as a body unanimously adopted the report and permitted Pennsylvania's delegation to make the right of the Pennsylvania primary organization absolute. Nothing could question their right to sit and participate in the business of the convention."

"The delegation, prior to the meeting of the committee convention, caucused for the purpose of organization, 47 out of a total of 68 participating."

"I was made chairman of the delegation and members of the various committees for the convention were appointed. I was elected member of the national committee. Notwithstanding all this regularity, the temporary chairman of the national convention refused to permit Pennsylvania's delegation to take part in the deliberations of the convention, or on its committees, thereby disfranchising the sovereignty of a great state."

Col. Guflay is prepared not only to contest for the supremacy of his delegates, but he is preparing to meet a probable attack on the floor, his ammunition bag being hastily filled with a full complement of heavy shot to meet the attack with all the force at his command."

This Pennsylvania fight, involving as it does the anti-Bryan proposition, is absorbing the attention of delegates, and is the main topic of discussion.

London Telegram: Two Vryburg men, Sidney Smith, a well known local farmer, and J. N. Bryner, have had a terrible experience in the Kala-hari desert, where they were three days under a blazing sun with neither food nor water and hardly came through alive.

They left home together in a Cape cart drawn by six oxen to visit Lennox of Kingstown, a farm some distance from the desert, where they were mainly relying for their water supply on the trammass, a species of wild melon which grows abundantly on the sand dunes and conserves its water for months, but they consumed by the flocks and herds of the nomadic natives of the Kala-hari. The meager stock of water they had brought with them soon gave out and after trekking for two days without a drink the oxen collapsed. The travelers were still about fifty miles from their destination.

Abandoning the cart and oxen they determined to make the rest of the journey on foot. Eight miles tramp through the heavy sand reduced Mr. Bryner to a state of exhaustion, and leaving him behind Mr. Smith trekked on with his native servant in the teeth of a scorching wind to attempt to make the nearest water. Mr. Lennox's farm, which was his only hope, in six hours he had become quite deaf, one eye was almost blind, his tongue had shriveled up and his palate and lips were covered with a thick skin. He had left Bryner at 9:30 at night. At dawn next morning his Kniffr boy threw up the spouse, and as at heart Smith had to push on with his colic dog as his only companion.

An hour or two later he was overtaken by two young Transvaalers, Messrs. Gerber and Le Roux on horseback. They had lost a horse and a mule from thirst, not far from the point where Mr. Bryner had been left lying on the yield. They had found Bryner still alive, but having no water themselves were unable to help, and had pushed on for the farm. Le Roux was in a state of collapse, but he was too exhausted to struggle for more. At this point his fine colic lay down and afterward succumbed to thirst.

Slightly invigorated by his meagre refreshment, Mr. Smith told on. The sun

SOUTH AFRICAN DESERT.

London Telegram: Two Vryburg men, Sidney Smith, a well known local farmer, and J. N. Bryner, have had a terrible experience in the Kala-hari desert, where they were three days under a blazing sun with neither food nor water and hardly came through alive.

They left home together in a Cape cart drawn by six oxen to visit Lennox of Kingstown, a farm some distance from the desert, where they were mainly relying for their water supply on the trammass, a species of wild melon which grows abundantly on the sand dunes and conserves its water for months, but they consumed by the flocks and herds of the nomadic natives of the Kala-hari. The travelers were still about fifty miles from their destination.

Abandoning the cart and oxen they determined to make the rest of the journey on foot. Mr. Lennox's farm, which was his only hope, in six hours he had become quite deaf, one eye was almost blind, his tongue had shriveled up and his palate and lips were covered with a thick skin. Le Roux was in a state of collapse, but he was too exhausted to struggle for more. At this point his fine colic lay down and afterward succumbed to thirst.

was now high overhead and the heat intense. He was following the course of an old river bed and fortunately was able to obtain some slight shelter from a few trees along its course. His method was to dash forward for a couple of hundred yards to the next tree, then he would turn down to recuperate for the next effort.

It took him a long time to get to the end of the desert. Thanks to the fact that he was able to talk rationally and walk about, the Cape mounted police, who had been sent to the farm with his camel, immediately made a dash for him. He was taken to the hospital and the lives of Mr. Bryner and his wife were saved, although the fellows who had been forced to remain in the desert were saved, although the fellows were in the last stage of exhaustion and presented a most deplorable sight when they were brought in.

FISH FIGHT FOR BAIT.

Denver Times: Did you ever see fish fight? Here is what I saw. The stream was narrow and swift and the ground from the banks nearly level. I selected a spot where the water was shallow and baited with a big fat grasshopper. It had no sooner touched the water than the common nearly deafened me. Thousands of fish gathered around my bait, and the fight was on. They gathered so fast that the water began to dim up and flow out on each side of the stream, and the banks were soon covered two feet deep with wriggling fish. When the dead

Store Hours:

"ARROW" RIDDANCE SALE!

During the past six weeks or two months the newspapers of Duluth have been teeming with so-called "¼ and ½ off regular price, sales"—not only from one house, but from several. Ponder a moment, how can such houses exist, and sell their merchandise at one-third and one-half regular prices during the two busiest months of the season—May and June? Think it over! Clearance Sales are a necessity to all up-to-date mercantile establishments in all departments where unstaple merchandise is handled—and particularly so in Millinery, Cloak and Suit departments. But there is a time for everything. Our usual Riddance Sale has always taken place after July 4th—and this year we will demonstrate to you just what a Riddance Sale means in this house! We couldn't have done this five or six weeks ago because then we were buying the New Suits and up-to-date Millinery and such other merchandise as come under this heading, and retailing them at a legitimate business profit. These much boomed sales have been of benefit to us, because they have enabled us to demonstrate that our regular selling prices were as low, and in some instances lower than the so-called one-third and one-half price sales which you have been reading so much about—and now, at the end of our season, just before our buyers commence leaving for the Eastern markets, we take what is left of this perishable merchandise and give you a sale, the like of which has never been even attempted in Duluth. A sale which will linger long in the minds of all our patrons. A sale in which former prices—yes—cost even, is ignored in the all absorbing idea of "clean stock!" Included with the perishable merchandise we will offer all broken lines, short lengths and odd pieces at proportionate reductions. Sale begins Thursday, July 9th, and will be continued for ten days—until including July 19th. Tomorrow will be the first day of the "Arrow" Riddance Sale—and as far as the presentation of extraordinary values in new, fresh, seasonable merchandise is concerned, it will elicit more enthusiastic response than has any sale ever attempted in Duluth! It's a short story! Every department in the store has contributed at least one item—(Some a half dozen or more)—to make this a sale thousands of women will long remember. There are hundreds of items, marked in many cases below cost. Quantities in some instances are not large enough to last through the day, so early selection is advisable. The Arrow on the green cards displayed throughout the store points to the goods on sale. This page contains a brief description of the items—the regular selling prices and "Arrow Riddance Sale Prices." There's a dollars' worth of purchasing power in a fifty-cent piece in most instances here, during this sale! A score of extra salespeople have been engaged and every care will be taken of the immense crowds of "Arrow followers," who will attend this sale. Extra teams and deliverymen go on duty tomorrow, every department throughout the entire store has been well looked after and the service will be prompt and efficient.

THE "ARROW" POINTS TO THE CLOAK and SUIT DEPT.

Very little introduction is necessary in mentioning these Women's Suits, Coats, Jackets, Skirts, Waists, etc. They are the balance of our regular stock—regular selling prices are plainly marked—and the difference between the former and the Arrow Riddance Sale price is real—not imaginary—the savings to our patrons are—as can be plainly seen—immense. There are only very few over a hundred suits in all—and the prices placed upon them will insure quick riddance.

STRANDED IN DULUTH

Cornell Students Had to Telegraph Home for Money.

Plan to Work Their Way Given Rude Setback.

To get free transportation west to the harvest fields so early in the season, was not as easy a matter as George Weed and Samuel Holliday, members of the junior class at Cornell University, thought it would be. They found no difficulty in working their passage from Buffalo where they both have homes, up the lakes to Duluth on the Juninta, as coal passers, but to make their way farther west, they found more of a problem. Confident from the success they had so far met with on their trip of adventure, they arrived in Duluth Monday. They were a little weary from the unexpected toll of handling buckets of coal, but they soon threw off the fatigue, and set out in search of a job that would give them free transportation as far west as the great farms of North Dakota, from where they hoped eventually to reach the Pacific coast. They inquired at all the employment agencies, but with no success, as it is not yet time for the orders for labor to come in from the harvest fields. Finally they were advised at one office to buy tickets to Cooperstown, N. D., as that place is on a side line and less likely to be overcrowded with idle men looking for positions. It was easy to advise the boys to buy tickets, but it was another thing for them to buy them, as it had been a part of their program to leave home absolutely penniless, so that when they returned next fall to college they could truthfully say that they had earned every dollar they had spent. It was a hard blow to their pride, but they could not hang about Duluth much longer on the small amount they had acquired on their trip up the lakes, so yesterday afternoon they were forced to seek a telegraph office and wire home for money, just enough to carry them to Cooperstown.

MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING.

New York, July 8.—As the result of a mysterious shooting today at Masspeh, L. I. Clausen Walbank, a wholesale grocer, lies dead at his home, and the police are searching for some clue for what they believe is a murder.

WAR CANOE RACE FOR GIRLS

A war canoe race between two crews of young women, captained by Miss Barbara Patrick and Miss Gladys Reynolds, respectively, will be the feature of an afternoon of aquatic sports at the Duluth boat club's main house on Park Point next Saturday afternoon. The girls have taken to the war canoes with great spirit and have developed rivalry that beats anything the sterner sex has shown. The "mixed" race at the boat club branch last Saturday afternoon only served to stimulate them and now they will go it alone.

The lawyers and wholesalers will also race in the war canoes Saturday afternoon.

The other big event on the card will be an eight-oared race between the regular crew, which will represent the club at the Winnipeg regatta this month, and a picked crew of veterans, who have represented the club in former years. The old timers are anxious to put it over the youngsters and they will put spirit in the chase.

The events are in the hands of a committee composed of Ray Higgins, J. E. McGregor, A. Skelton, George Burns, J. E. Horak, Ray Helm and W. S. Telford.

PICTURE IS CHOSEN.

"Late Sunlight" is Choice of Visitors to Art Exhibit.

"Late Sunlight," a painting by Charles Rosen, was the most generally admired exhibit at the art exhibit of the Minnesota State Art society here, as decided by the voting contest, and it will be purchased by the Duluth Art association. Just where the picture will be hung has not yet been decided.

DAYTON TO RETIRE.

Washington, July 8.—Rear Admiral James H. Dayton, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, according to orders issued by the navy department today, will be relieved of duty on the 31st inst., and ordered home to await his retirement on Oct. 25. Rear Admiral William T. Swinburne, commanding the second squadron, succeeds him as chief command.

BREAKS ANOTHER RECORD.

New York, July 8.—The swift Cunard liner Lusitania has broken another speed record by logging 64 nautical miles a day, according to information received today by the Cunard line officials in New York.

TWO LABORERS KILLED.

Dayton, Ohio, July 8.—Two Italian laborers were killed and three fatally injured when a sewer caved in today at North Dayton.

Busy Brains use up the phosphates in food—busy muscles use up the nitrates. Both of these body-building elements are found in and are made digestible by cooking, flaking, malting and baking. It is the life of the wheat combined with the soul of the barley. Gives vim and vigor to tired brain and worn-out body.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring ing into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "just as good."

DREDGING HAS BEGUN TO PIECES

"Old Hickory" Put on Work of Enlarging Harbor Basin.
Two More Dredges Will be Added Later in the Week.
The James G. Blaine Destroyed on Rocks Near Oswego.
Six Men and One Woman Saved by Life Savers.

The Duluth Dredge & Dock company's dredge "Old Hickory" was this morning put at work under contract to the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company on the dredging contract in the harbor basin, which has been recommended by Maj. Graham D. Fish of the local engineering corps to be let to the Chicago concern.

The contract is a big one and the company will put at work a force of work immediately. Another dredge will be added Friday and still another Saturday, and the three will be kept constantly at work. The contract is part of the plan for increasing the anchorage basin of the Duluth harbor, which is now considered wholly inadequate for the heavy traffic of the port. The entire contract entails an expenditure of about $500,000, but that upon which the Great Lakes company has accepted the work is only for about one-third of the total, and $150,000 now at the disposal of the local engineers will be expended.

Bids will be opened tomorrow by the engineer's office for the dredging of shoals in the harbor at Grand Marais, Mich., about 20,000 to 30,000 cubic yards of work to be removed.

TO RAISE MCINTOSH.

Capt. Baker Starts for Scene of Tuesday's Wreck.
Detroit, July 8.—Capt. H. W. Baker of Detroit has the job of raising the steamer McIntosh which was sunk at Port Huron yesterday and left last night with the wrecking steamer Snook.

John T. Webster has gone to inspect the freighter M. A. Hanna for the underwriters. The government steamer Hancock left yesterday with a black and red light to mark the spot where the McIntosh grounded. This is the same shoal discovered a few days ago when having rounded the ear ferry dock at Sarnia. It lies in Canadian water, but if it is not removed at once by the Canadian authorities, it will be removed by the United States engineer of this district.

BUSY AT MILWAUKEE.

Coal Cargoes Numerous and Grain Moves More Freely.
Milwaukee, July 8.—The most rapid unloading of coal in the history of Milwaukee harbor is proceeding this month. Eighteen cargoes are now being unloaded and many others are expected. They are coming in all shapes, however, that there is no bunching. The inability of the vessels to get ore cargoes to the lower lake has caused a boom this season in the local grain shipping trade. Nearly twice the number of grain cargoes have already been taken to the lower lake as were moved during the entire season of last year.

SITUATION IMPROVES.

Delay at Lower Lakes Helps Duluth Coal Docks.

The delays at the lower lake docks, where the light carriers are badly bunched waiting for coal cargoes, is relieving the local situation somewhat, and if the receipts during the remainder of the week are not too heavy, the situation will be relieved somewhat. The different coal companies are doing well in their efforts to help conditions. The Northwestern Fuel company, which has several docks, has two or three boats in at anchorage in the basin, and they will be assigned to the docks that clear first. Double crews are working around and good progress is being made on those boats now under the buckets. The ore docks are working along regularly with little delay in getting the boats away. The Milwaukee dock increased its ore handling forces somewhat in the last week, and quite a number of independent boats are being carried by the lumber cargoes are scarce, and what grain is moving is being carried by the line boats.

HOLLEY IS AGROUND.

Ore Laden Boat Goes on at Lorain.

Lorain, July 8.—While the barge Alex Holley was being towed in Tuesday night by the tug Kunkle Bros., the line parted and the barge went aground east of the east pier. The tug pulled on her for several hours, but were unable to move her. The barge is loaded with ore and is not damaged. The south wind had lowered the water and it is thought she can be released without much trouble when the wind shifts.

Plenty of Tonnage.

Cleveland, July 8.—Coal shippers have all the tonnage they can handle for early shipping, and before with the weather. The docks are pretty badly blocked at both ends of the route and there will be much delay this week.

Few Charters.

Buffalo, July 8.—The freight market is dull, with but few charters being made. Prospects are not promising for the remainder of the month. Today's contracts are the Armour and Taylor for Chicago at 40 cents and the Fitzgerald for Duluth at 38 cents.

Hebard Stranded.

Cleveland, July 8.—The steamer C. S. Hebard of the Wilson line bound south with ore is stranded at Whitefish point.

Port of Duluth.

Arrivals—Northern Queen, merchandise; Fairbairn, Hoover & Mason, light for ore; H. S. Pickands, salt; James C. Gilchrist, Hartwell, Oliver, Saks, W. Scranton, coal; North West, passengers; Ed Hines, Lake A. Law, limestone.
Departures—Harlow, H. G. Dalton, Alva, light; Russia, North Star, Troy, merchandise; North West, passengers; Junata, passengers and merchandise; J. J. Hill, D. Boughton, Thomas F. Cole, Ellwood, Presque Isle, Montague, Bransford, Holden, Livingston, Princeton, Bell, Stephenson, Marika, ore; John Pridgion, Jr., Argo, lumber.

Oswego, N. Y., July 8.—During a severe storm on Lake Ontario today the coal-laden barge, James G. Blaine, owned by the George Hall Coal Company of Ogdensburg, went ashore off this city and was pounded to pieces on the rocks. As soon as the old hulk went on the rocks, people ashore saw there was little hope for the barge and a tugboat and life-savers put out in their surf boat and had a hard time reaching the wreck on account of the heavy sea. After a hard pull their pluck conquered and they removed the crew of six men and one woman cook. The barge went to pieces within fifteen minutes after it had struck the beach, and the members of the crew were saved but in two.

The Blaine was a wooden schooner of 555 gross tons and was built in 1897.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SAYS BANKER INJURED HIM

Fisher Merchant Sues to Recover Large Sum for Slander.

Plaintiff Says Defendant Accused Him of Burning His Store.

Crookston, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first round in a sensational damage suit case was on before Judge Watts yesterday when Charles Loring argued a demurrer to the $15,000 damage suit of Ole Larson, a former hardware merchant of Fisher, who was burned out last winter, against Ex-Representative Gunder Krustue, the Fisher banker. The defendant demurred to the complaint stating that it did not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause for action. E. O. Hagen, representing the plaintiff in the case put up a guide fight and late in the afternoon Attorney Loring asked for further time to present arguments and cite authorities.

The complaint recites that after the Larson hardware store had been destroyed by fire, the defendant, Krustue, had made the statement before dividers and sundry parties that Larson had set the fire himself in order to collect the insurance which amounted to more than the stock was worth. The case will be fought and no matter who wins in the lower court, will be appealed to the court of last resort.

County Auditor Hoffman and Chairman Rindahl of the board of county commissioners have signed another issue of county ditch bonds amounting to $200,000 for the construction of three additional water ways in Polk county. A total of about $100,000 will be spent in Polk county on ditch work this year, not including the tile drainage that will be installed by the individual farmers, nor the laterals which will be constructed by them, which would swell the total ditch expenditure to over $200,000.

He was accompanied by a woman, who is evidently his partner in crime. Mrs. McAuliffe and "Kidnaped" Son Not in Duluth.

Boy Will be Kept in Hiding by the Mother.

"Mrs. McAuliffe and the boy are not in Duluth. What disposition is made of the boy will depend on future developments."

The foregoing statement was made this morning by a relative of Mrs. James McAuliffe, who yesterday afternoon took her young son from the office of his father in the Phoenix block and drove him away in a carriage.

The case cannot be held a kidnapping affair, for the reason that Dr. and Mrs. McAuliffe have never legally separated, although they have not been living together for a year or more, and the mother, it is claimed, had as much legal right to the custody of the child as the father.

Two men, said to have been in the employ of Mrs. McAuliffe, yesterday afternoon, shortly after 3 o'clock, coaxed the boy from his father's office in the Phoenix block and carried him into a carriage waiting at the Fourth avenue west entrance. McAuliffe is understood to have been in the carriage, which was driven rapidly to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Judd, at 122 East Third street.

Watched the House. Dr. McAuliffe, his brother John, and two or three deputy sheriffs watched the Judd home all night, ready to serve papers on Mrs. McAuliffe, if she appeared, but nothing was seen of her and occupants of the house declared she was not there.

Ten minutes after the boy's disappearance from his father's office, Charles Hanson, janitor, reported to the doctor that James, Jr., had been taken away by two men. Hanson himself did not notice the affair, but was informed of it by the occupant of another office on the same floor. The police department was immediately notified, as well as the sheriff's office. Dr. McAuliffe called the police and the sheriff's office, and that his only object is to recover the boy. At the time of the so-called kidnapping, the doctor was busy with a patient in his inner office, and the youth was playing in the waiting room.

Escape in Auto. There is one story to the effect that immediately after entering the house, Mrs. McAuliffe and her son went through a rear door and jumped into an automobile, which hurried them to the West end of Superior, where the machine and boarded a gasoline launch, which carried them to Superior, where they boarded one of the outgoing trains. The doctor does not believe the story, and says he does not doubt that his wife and son are concealed in the home of her parents.

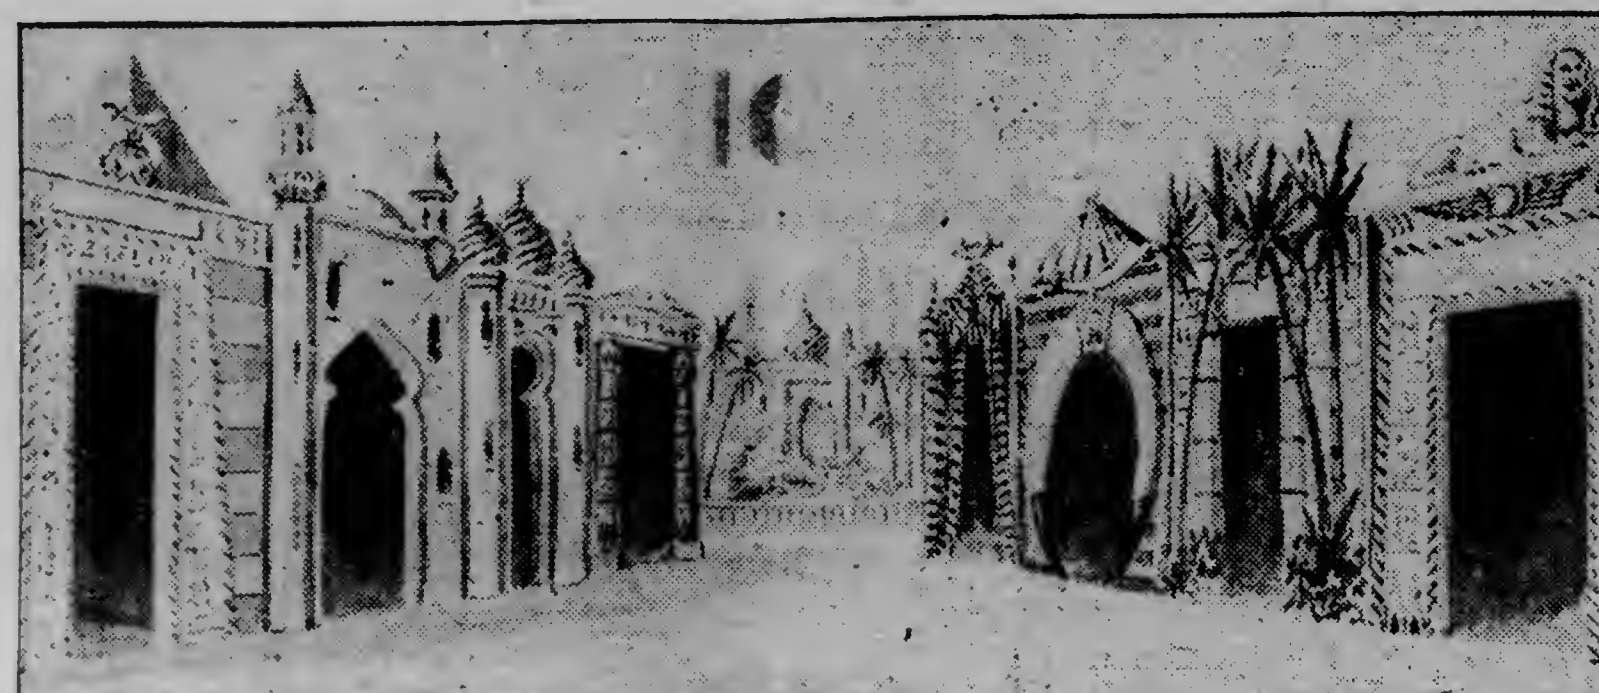

It is claimed that Mrs. McAuliffe had the privilege of calling upon her son at any time she desired, and that she made such a call at the home in the St. Elmo flats only a day or two ago. She is denied by her friends, however. James is fond of both his father and mother. Mrs. McAuliffe returned only recently from Chicago, where she has been for the past year studying vocal music, with a view of teaching it. Dan O'Donnell, a young man deputized by the sheriff to watch the Judd home during the night, took a notion that Dr. McAuliffe, who was driving up and down in front of the house, was a kidnaper, and attacked him, dragging him from the luxury to the street by the throat. The doctor broke away from his assailant, drove to police headquarters and soon was back on the scene with two policemen. Meantime the deputy sheriff himself went to the police station and gave a vivid account of a desperate battle with kidnappers.

quite as good, thus far, as any that Mr. East ever indulged into the life of a game, and the band wagon business is not to be despised. While the Johnson forces have by no means given up hope or ceased to work, and while there is little noticeable falling of the atmosphere of cheerful confidence that has permeated Johnson headquarters at the Albany, it must be confessed that hope is not quite so strong today as it was following the arrival of the

DULUTH DECORATING IN HONOR OF THE MANY VISITING SHRINERS

"THE STREETS OF MECCA."
Headquarters of Duluth Shriners in St. Paul.

The business houses of the city have begun to blossom out in decorations in honor of the thousands of Shriners and their families, who are expected to visit Duluth on their way to and from the national convention of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, that occurs in St. Paul next week.

Some of the visitors will begin arriving the latter part of this week, and for that reason the decorating business is being hurried a little. Immense emblems of the Mystic Shrine and gay streamers in the color of the shrine are being hung from the roofs of the stores to the pavement, and Superior street is fast assuming a gala appearance.

It was announced by the local Shriners yesterday that every merchant on Superior street has agreed to decorate in honor of the visitors, and the Shriners themselves are working on some very elaborate decorations at the Masonic temple, the home of Aad Temple, over the Second street entrance has been placed a huge camel, constructed of painted canvas and wood, underneath which hangs a large wooden sword and crescent, the emblem of the order. The interior decorations will, it is claimed, surpass anything of the kind ever before attempted in this part of the country.

The local Shriners are on the qui vive for the big celebration at St. Paul for the next ten days. The Shriners are talking, sleeping and eating "national convention," and the Duluth delegation to St. Paul will be one of the largest and the most enthusiastic that the Sainly City will entertain during the celebration.

And Temple of this city will furnish an Arab patrol of fifty-six men, under the command of Capt. John T. Black. With the patrol will be a band of twenty-five pieces. A special train will carry the aggregation to St. Paul, and the train will be used as the headquarters.

Next Friday morning, two divisions of the Minnesota naval reserves, comprising 125 men and officers, will leave by special train for St. Paul, to participate in the grand civic parade that takes place at 1 o'clock of that day.

A suite of rooms has been engaged at the Ryan hotel as the headquarters of Aad Temple of this city, and the corridors of the hotel have been transformed, by elaborate decorations, into "The Streets of Mecca," an illustration of which is given in the accompanying cut.

ship talk, but thus far the presidential nomination has been taking up most of the attention of Missions on the ground. There seems to be a sentiment that, if John Lind would consent, he would be nominated for governor

MARTIN O'BRIEN,
Minnesota Member of the Resolutions Committee.

On the Democratic ticket, with the accompanying sentiment that it is doubtful if he would take it, Congressman Hammond and T. D. O'Brien are also freely discussed for the nomination.

cratic national convention session here, yesterday, held first in the interest of the delegates when they gathered early today for the second day's session, called to begin at noon. In the forenoon, on credentials, which sat all night to hear the arguments for and against those who, from various states, had come to contest the validity of the certification under which groups of delegates held their places on the temporary roll, prepared by the national committee.

The importance of the night's work lies in the effect which the decision of the committee might have upon doubtful delegates, or upon those whose acceptance is controlled simply by specific instructions of the conventions which elected them, and who might welcome a pretext of evading these instructions. It was an open secret, late last night and this morning, that the elements opposed to the nomination of William J. Bryan for the presidency, based practically their last hope of success upon the rather remote possibility that drastic action of the credentials committee, more especially in the Pennsylvania cases, might prove to give them the one more than one-third of the convention necessary to prevent Bryan's nomination. Failing in that, it was all but unanimously conceded that Bryan's nomination has become, what many have never questioned, a certainty.

Idaho Case Important. There were other aspects of this matter which were freely discussed last night and this morning. One was the effect, either way, of the decision of the credentials committee and of the committee, in the Idaho cases. There, politically speaking, lay a very serious dilemma, as both sides in the controversy of the Idaho cases, the credentials committee, to say nothing of the probability of extended discussion on the convention floor today, on the report of the credentials committee. It was not a telling what the day will bring forth in this regard, or what the effect of the outcome, whatever it may be, upon the main business of the convention—the nominations for president and vice president.

While it is still the general belief that Mr. Bryan will head the ticket, and that this fall, that the state was essential change of sentiment in the convention to the election of a Democratic candidate for the presidency and that the constituency of Brooklyn, famously known as the "Buckeye delegation," an injustice to them, in a fashion which no leader, however powerful, would be able to forestall.

Color Attacks McCarren. On the other hand, former Congressman Bird S. Coler scathingly attacked McCarren, alleging that he and ex-Lieutenant Governor William F. Sheehan and National committeeman, a member of Pennsylvania were now in Denver engaged in a conspiracy to accomplish the nomination of William J. Bryan, under great personal obligation to them, and had himself brought about the defeat of William R. Hearst two years ago, when the latter was the regular candidate for the presidency of New York state. He further attributed effects upon the Chicago convention to the Chicago cases against the new elected committee-man, Roger C. Sullivan of Illinois, who was charged by the opposition with being the political ally of the Republican state leader, Senator Albert J. Hopkins.

The Guffey Case. The Pennsylvania cases, involving the membership of Col. James M. Guffey of Pittsburgh in the national committee, afforded a sensational episode in the opening session of the convention yesterday, when the case was referred by Temporary Chairman Bell by sheer power of the gavel, to the credentials committee, in spite of vociferous demands of Col. Guffey and his associates for a vote on the subject then and there. The denial of a roll call by the chairman was the subject of much discussion among the delegates after the adjournment of the convention, and it was made plain when the case comes before the convention on the report of the credentials committee, the outcome will be anything but a foregone conclusion.

Committees Meet. Meanwhile the committee on resolutions and later the sub-committee to which the platform was finally referred, was having a protracted meeting. The full committee remained in session until 1 a. m., and heard arguments in favor of many proposed planks; then it adjourned until 5 p. m. today, leaving the sub-committee to wrestle with the problem in detail. The feature of the sub-committee meeting was the reading by Governor Haskell of Oklahoma, chairman of the full committee, for more than an hour, of suggestions direct from Mr. Bryan as to planks on various subjects which he desired the committee to embody in the platform, or at least to consider for it. These suggestions cover practically every subject which the platform is expected to touch upon, from court injunctions against the right to the welcoming of Oklahoma as a sister state. It was broad daylight when the sub-committee at last took a recess until 9 o'clock a. m. It is hoped that its work will be finished in time to report the full platform to the whole committee at 5 p. m.

No Adjournment Thursday. Possible final adjournment of the convention, of which there had been a faint prospect, has been apparently rendered rather remote by the postponement of the report of the platform committee, to say nothing of the probability of extended discussion on the convention floor today, on the report of the credentials committee. It may be, upon the main business of the convention—the nominations for president and vice president.

While it is still the general belief that Mr. Bryan will head the ticket, and that this fall, that the state was essential change of sentiment in the convention to the election of a Democratic candidate for the presidency and that the constituency of Brooklyn, famously known as the "Buckeye delegation," an injustice to them, in a fashion which no leader, however powerful, would be able to forestall.

Clayton Will Deliver Address. On the formal program for today, the main feature is the address of Representative Henry D. Clayton of Alabama, who is expected to be chosen as permanent chairman of the convention. While yesterday's sessions adjourned at a late hour, the convention will adjourn today at an early hour, the adjournment being due to the postponement of action upon the platform by the committee on resolutions. Whether his or the delegates' address will be the feature of the day's session is not yet decided.

At today's session of the convention a gavel will be resorted to by Permanent Chairman Clayton, which came from the old home of Andrew Jackson, in Tennessee. It was sent to William J. Bryan by former Governor Benton McMillin of Tennessee, with the following letter:

Nashville, Tenn., July 1, 1908.—"This gavel was made from hickory obtained by me from the Hermitage, home of Andrew Jackson, and is for use at the Democratic national convention of 1908."

The gavel was sent by Mr. Bryan to Denver for the use of Mr. Clayton when he occupies permanent chairman of the convention.

Will Night in Denver. Last night was a wild night in Denver, the weather giving favor and vim to the growing enthusiasm of the convention crowds. The people of the Colorado metropolis are leaving nothing undone in the way of entertainment of their visitors, and a perfect summer evening, when even Denver never saw a lovelier, helped matters along. The crowds were on the streets, singing, laughing and full of good-natured fun, until far into the morning, and a half dozen bands, some of them traveling about in illuminated street cars, filled the night with music which some times got pretty complicated, as for instance when two bands, of sometimes three, within the space of a hundred yards, or even in the same hotel rotunda, plow through different tunes, in different keys, each oblivious of the other.

Cloudless sky again smiled upon the scene when the day opened, but it was not hot today, and the delegates will have an opportunity to see how a hot day in the Denver convention hall compares with the stifling, sweltering atmosphere, which well nigh smothered them four years ago at St. Louis.

PELTED WITH SNOWBALLS.

they began to stop the flying snowballs, with their ears and eyes, and then the fun died out of it.

A few delegates, who had received stingers in various parts of their anatomy, stopped on the sidewalk and shook their fists and advanced upon the snow drift. They were greeted with fresh fusillades. They wavered, fell back and fled from the field, vanquished by the snarl.

The rout was complete and cow punchers and messengers were mauling fresh supplies of ammunition, which to meet the next bunch of celebrities, when a sound of mounted police dashed up and dispersed the attacking party with their raw hide whips. It was St. Petersburg for all the world, with the Cossack soldiery clearing the streets of Nihilists with their knout.

The fun had barely started, when Col. James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, scattered gracefully by the snow, the colonel, who is accustomed to bouquet throwing, stopped short and made a graceful bow, imagining that an admirer had hit him with a bunch of roses.

The next, a well aimed sphere of dripping snow took refuge in the famous pink whiskers, and the colonel beat a retreat.

As he was turning a big snowball collided with the blue-ribboned panama, and the colonel, who is accustomed to the possession of his three children, the off-spring of his marriage with Miss Anna Gould. The step taken by the count yesterday, which generally has been misunderstood, is merely a preliminary skirmish. This was not a formal demand for the custody of the children, but an aftermath of the removal last week by the count of his son, Jay, from the residence of his former wife at Versailles.

Maitre Bonnet, counsel for the count, yesterday afternoon petitioned the court to remand his client's right to retain Jay temporarily on account of the child's illness and because of the insufficient care he was receiving at Versailles during the absence of his mother.

Maitre Bonnet told the correspondent of the Associated Press today that a decided move would be made in a few days when he would ask the court to grant the custody of all the children to the count on the ground that the Princess de Sagan was not a suitable protector for them, inasmuch as she is under the complete domination and control of Prince Helle de Sagan who is unworthy to hold the position of father to the children.

As proof that M. de Sagan was completely dominated by the Prince de Sagan we will offer her action in traveling in Italy. The Riviera and to England in company with the Prince de Sagan before she was married to him," Maitre Bonnet declared.

"The cases will proceed as soon as the Princess de Sagan returns and announces her readiness to defend her interests."

Ashland Woman Pulled Alarm Box Trying to Mail Letter.

Ashland, Wis., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The entire Ashland fire department was called out yesterday afternoon just because a charming young woman, residing in the vicinity of Ellis avenue and Tenth street, wished to mail a letter. The young woman walked up to box 46, which is located on the above corner and, opening the box, pulled the lever in an endeavor to find a suitable place to entrust her letter until the postman arrived. The entire fire department was soon on the scene, but the young woman fled before her name could be secured.

TOO MUCH CELEBRATION.

Young Man Returning From Blow-out, Sustains Serious Injury.

Crookston, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Strandquist, 20 years of age, was probably fatally injured the night of July 4, while driving home from Strandsburg, a small town on the Soo line, with a party of men he had been celebrating the Fourth. Several barrels of beer had been taken along for the celebration, but the young man, who was driving, had become so intoxicated that he lost his balance and fell to the ground, his head striking a sharp corner of a building. The young man was taken to the hospital, but his injuries were so serious that he is now in a critical condition.

VIRGINIA WILL DO ITS SHARE

City to Keep Up With Property Owners in Fixing Up.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last evening decided that whenever property owners on both sides of any street shall build cement sidewalks the city will build cement crosswalks, and the street commissioner was instructed to lay a cement walk along the east side of Main street, between the Fifth and Sixth streets.

The city attorney was instructed to draw an amendment to the ordinance requiring the owners to keep their sidewalks in good repair, and the city clerk was instructed to obtain prices on a street sweeper for the cleaning of Chestnut street, and the street commissioner was also instructed to put in steel culverts under the old wooden ones near replacing or wherever new culverts are needed.

FORFEIT RULE TO BE APPLIED
Eveleth Contractor is Mulcted for $85—Other Council Doings.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council last night decided to deduct the sum of $85 from the contract price with Zaehner & Co. as the health commissioner claims the work was completed in a hurry and the contractor called for and at a forfeit of $5 a day, makes $85.

The salaries for the month of June were passed, also the bills and labor claims of the health inspector were established at a salary of $10 a month. Nick Kell, the report from the municipal clerk shows that $91 were collected from the fines during June.

Supt. Vandell of the water works department reported receipts of $73.77 and expenditures, $2,020.20. John Warn, street commissioner, also sent in his report.

The special committee, composed of Aldermen Johnson, Anderson and Shedd, reported on the cement sidewalks ordered at a previous meeting, recommending that the city should not purchase the sidewalks, but that for the present the city should fix up the grading and the sidewalk, charging the cost to the property owners.

Some action was had regarding the ordinance which allows cattle to be put in the pound, and the action was taken about setting the hours that animals can be taken to the pound, and the ordinance was amended.

An amendment was made to the ordinance relating to the making of the penalty not less than $5 nor more than $10.

The necessary steps will be taken to learn the cost of one and two day work for the fire department, as some of the members thought that one horse would not be strong enough to pull the truck up the hilly streets. It is the intention to put the council on the book and ladder track.

The board of health was instructed to get a watchman for St. Mary's lake if they saw fit, as a number of boys have been known to go in swimming and rowing in the lake which supplies the city with water.

The city attorney decided in regard to the reconstruction of the water main that the city can do the work and charge the cost to the benefited property owners. The council will hold a special meeting next Tuesday to receive an estimate as to the cost of reconstructing the water main.

Assessor Murr was allowed to hire a man to help him the next four days and have his work done by Monday when the board of equalization meets.

REPORT IS BULLISH

Government Figures on Crop Cause Advance in Wheat.

Flax is Easier at the Close in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 8.—The government report on the condition of the wheat crop, issued before the close of the session today, was distinctly bullish, and this fact, coupled with the fact that rain was badly needed in Western North Dakota, caused a good rise in the American markets today. Minneapolis and Duluth particularly reflected the bullishness from North Dakota.

The government figures place the condition of spring wheat July 1 at 85.4, which is a deterioration of three or four points from last month, but the condition is placed at the time of harvest at 80.1.

Wheat Prices Fall Off, But Soon Rally and Remain Steady. THE CONVENTION PERFECTS ITS PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

JOHNSON IS LARGE FIGURE IN THE DENVER CONVENTION

Many Delegates Instructed for Bryan Would Prefer Johnson.

Minnesota Has No Reason to be Ashamed of Campaign.

Makes Johnson the Leading Candidate Four Years Hence.

(From a Staff Correspondence.)
Denver, Colo., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the urgent tide of Bryan enthusiasm attacking it on all sides, Minnesota's standard stood solid as a rock yesterday afternoon. So did the banners of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Delaware, and it took moral and physical courage to stick. At one time the attack upon the Connecticut banner tore the sign from the standard, and it disappeared, but later it was restored to its place. Several times, too, attempts were made to wrest the Minnesota standard from its position, but Frank A. Day, supported by Swan J. Turnblad of Minneapolis, hung on like grim death, and though the banner at its top, labeled "Minnesota," waved occasionally, it did not stir from its place. It was a great demonstration, it is true, that it only takes one man out of a delegation to carry a standard. It is true that standards of states are anxious to vote for Johnson, joined in the procession about the hall, into the galleries and upon the rostrum. It is true that the Bryan men set out to beat the Chicago record, and that they did it with the help of the band, as Chicago's prolonged demonstration was continued, but nevertheless it was a great and an exciting and wonderful display. Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, the blind statesman, touched the button when he said that Taft invited the human to go Republican and Bryan had invited it to go Democratic, and that Bryan's invitation was accepted.

A Preliminary Demonstration.
The Bryan record-breaking demonstration had been planned for today, and it was started prematurely, but it was carried out according to program just the same. More impressive even than the sea of Bryan enthusiasm was the calm determination of the delegates from Minnesota and the other states, which kept themselves immune.

JOHNSON WAS QUITE CALM

Attended Strictly to the Business of the State.

St. Paul, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Even though the crowd of the presidential fever was at hand, Governor Johnson attended strictly to the business of the state yesterday until 4 o'clock, when he went home to get ready to go to Lake City where he will review the first regiment of the National Guard in camp today. The fact that the delegates at Denver were cheering Bryan's name, giving the Johnson supporters stand chance to use their war whoops, didn't worry him. Considering the fact that this is the first attack of the fever the governor has gone through, he has had with more than commendable self control.

By six o'clock came from the telephone in Frank Day's room and go into his private room with a caller, no doubt a visitor to the reception room would have imagined that Governor Johnson was on the point of being nominated for the highest place in the gift of a people, as some of his friends seemed to hope. Of course, he kept track of affairs at Denver so that no one could come in suddenly and surprise him with the statement that he had been nominated. There was a telephone connection with the Denver convention hall, but it wasn't his the governor's private use. It was merely the service given several people in the city by a telephone company.

There was an absence of political waiting for the faithful summons from Colorado calling Minnesota's favorite who to lead the Democratic hosts to victory.

The governor himself had nothing to say. He never seemed more at home in the states head office, and he acted as if it was a rather comfortable place to occupy.

GIRL STRUCK BY LIGHTNING YET SHE IS ONLY STUNNED.
Jefferson, Wis., July 9.—A peculiar freak of lightning was recorded here yesterday when a bolt struck Miss Mary Gross, the 16-year-old daughter of Fred Gross, a farmer near here. The girl was alone in a hay field when she noticed the approach of a storm and hurried toward the house for shelter. She carried a pitchfork over one shoulder, and the lightning struck this, running down the girl's back, the bolt set fire to her clothes and tore her shoes completely off. The flames were extinguished by her father, and Miss Gross was taken to her home, where she was attended by a physician. She was stunned by the shock, but it is believed that she will recover.

CHARLES A. TOWNE, Who Missed Great Opportunity to Further His Candidacy for the Vice Presidency.

TOWNE MISSED A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY BY ABSENCE

Chairman Called on Him to Sound Tribute to Bryan.

Could Not Respond and Gore Was Given the Opportunity.

Denver, July 9.—There are in this world some men of destiny, but Charles A. Towne, formerly of Duluth but now of New York, is not one of them.

The opportunity of the former Republican senator's life came to him yesterday. It knocked at his door, appealing to him to sound the magic Bryan signal which instigated the most remarkable tribute to a man that history has recorded—a tribute heard around the world before it ended.

Towne, the most energetic of all the

Son of Wealthy Retired Manufacturer Caught in New York.

New York, July 9.—A youth of 20, who described himself as Nathan Levine, a student of languages, and the son of a retired manufacturer, and who told the people he had robbed nearly every first-class hotel in this city during the past few weeks, was captured in a room on the fourteenth floor of the Hotel Belmont, after he had bound a woman in bed and was about to loot the apartment. When the prisoner was searched, the police found one of the most complete outfits for use in sneak-thievery that ever came into their possession. It consisted of two revolvers, a box of red pepper, a dagger, two electric lanterns and a number of vials containing sleep-producing poisons. The police say the young man made no attempt to conceal his guilt, and told them frankly of a dozen other robberies in which he had been involved. He intimated that it was to raise funds to enable him to keep up his appearance before a certain young woman that caused him to turn to a career of crime. He refused to divulge the girl's name, however, and begged the police not to question him about her. "It will break her heart if she learns of my disgrace," he said.

Levine went to the Belmont yesterday and, after registering under another name, asked to be assigned a room near a fire escape. He was strikingly dressed in a cream-colored flannel suit.

JOHNSON WILL BE PUT IN NOMINATION BY HAMMOND

Minnesota Men Will Go Down With Colors Bravely Flying.

Vote on the Guffey Delegates Was Not Conclusive Test.

New Mexico Delegate Pulled Gun on Shouter for Johnson.

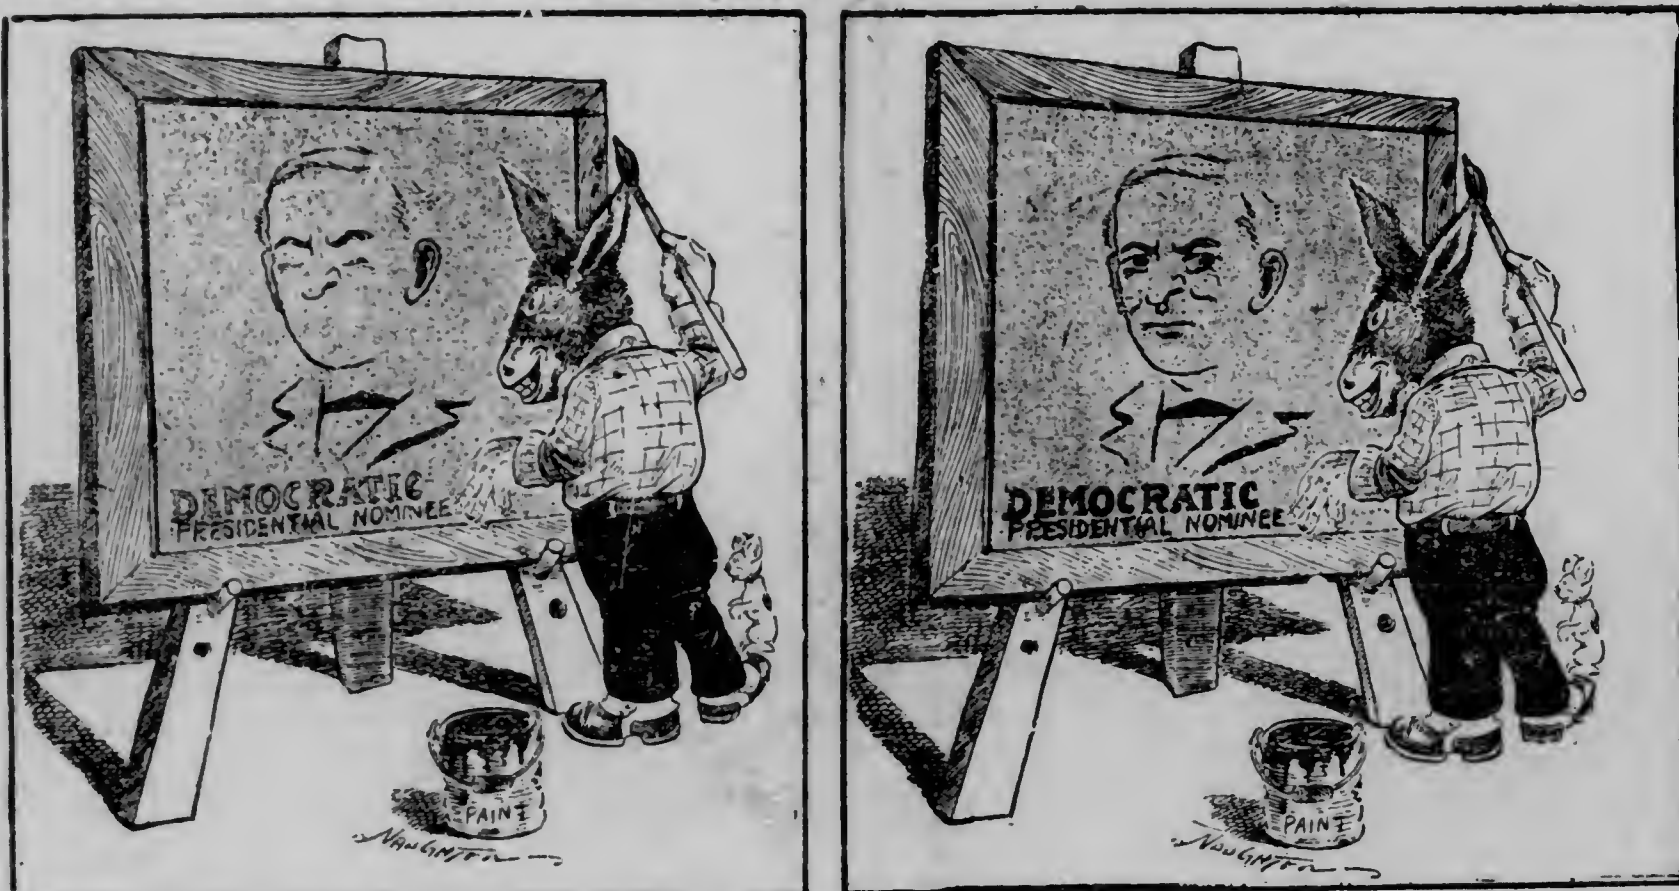

(From a Staff Correspondence.)
Denver, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though the steam roller and the band wagon are both alarmingly in evidence, as was shown by the action of the convention last night in unseating the duly accredited Pennsylvania delegates in favor of the men they defeated three to one in the primaries, Johnson's name will be presented to the convention by Congressman Hammond, and the nomination will be seconded by Attorney General Straus of Maryland. He will not be nominated, but he will go down with colors bravely flying and will not lose anything by the fight that has been made for him. It has been honorably waged, because of the belief of Minnesota that he would win and would make a real people's president. Minnesota voted for the Guffey delegates in last night's contest, not because it was friendly to Guffey, or even knew him, but because

COMING OF HITCHCOCK IS EAGERLY AWAITED.

Hot Springs, Va., July 9.—The coming of Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, was looked forward to today with interest by many members of the Republican political colony here. One of the duties of Mr. Hitchcock will be the appointment of an executive committee of eight members, who may or may not be members of the national committee. It is not expected that the committee will be announced immediately, as the selections for this duty are to be carefully made, with a view of harmonizing all elements of the party. Representative Cooper of Wisconsin and Alfred O. Rogers, national committee man for Wisconsin, left for their homes last evening, after delivering to Mr. Taft a personal assurance from Senator La Follette, confirming his former statement that he would support the Republican ticket.

NEW BRIDGE COLLAPSES

Many Workmen Killed in Disaster on the Rhine River.

Cologne, July 9.—The new bridge under construction over the Rhine at Cologne fell in today, and many of the workmen engaged on the structure lost their lives. Up to noon, fourteen bodies had been recovered, and nine men have been taken from the water seriously injured. The scaffolding supporting the powerful crane, used in the erection of the central span of the bridge, collapsed, and the crashing down of this section carried with it several other spans. Several workmen were thrown into the river. Some of them are still underneath the scaffolding, and there is no hope whatever for their lives. Immediately after the accident, boats put out for the scene and began the work of rescue. About a score of struggling men were quickly picked up. The police and brigades of Cologne were notified and hurried to the river to assist in the work of salvage and rescue. They secured more boats and succeeded in saving several workmen, who were laboriously swimming in the strong current. It is impossible to tell at the present time the number of victims.

IS APPROVED BY GOMPERS

The Proposed Injunction Plank Has Indorsement of Labor Leader.

Has Opposition From the Railway Trainmen's Organization.

Denver, July 9.—No injunction shall issue in a labor dispute in cases where the writ could not be employed in the absence of the existence of such dispute. This is the essence of the injunction provision which has been drawn by the subcommittee of three, consisting of George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, Alton B. Parker of New York and Jerry Sullivan of Iowa. It will be presented to the full subcommittee, and is declared to be contrary to the policy of the American Federation of Labor, and is understood to have been approved by him as drawn. Mr. Bryan was telegraphed last night in behalf of the protesting railway men and told that the provision as drawn was impractical and incapable of administration by any judge. The injunction provision is contained in the platform of the labor plank of the platform. This plank declares also for an eight hour day and for a comprehensive employers' liability act. When the committee met at 10 o'clock the subcommittee was still preparing to make full report. The labor and railway planks were still incomplete, but it was stated that they would be in shape to submit by noon or earlier. In the meantime the committee was expressing that the committee would be prepared to report to the convention early in the afternoon.

BAD FIRE AT CONEY

Hotels Burned and Luna Park and Dreamland Threatened.

New York, July 9.—Fire which caused a loss of a quarter of a million dollars at Coney Island early today destroyed two large hotels, and for a time threatened the destruction of Luna Park, Dreamland and Steeplechase park. Fire Chief Lally of Brooklyn made a flying trip from his headquarters in an automobile covering nearly ten miles in twelve minutes. He arrived as the flames leaped over to the tower of the Culver line station of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, and ordered into service the high pressure system using salt water mains. The system worked perfectly and greatly aided in checking the flames that were fanned by a strong east wind. Water was thrown on nearby buildings and Dreamland and Luna park were deluged to prevent further spread of the flames. The fire was under control in two hours and a big force of police were guarding the ruins from looters. Thousands of persons watch the fire rapidly devour the frame structures and saw many guests in scanty attire flee from the hotel windows. Mrs. Lilly Honesty was overcome by smoke at Vander's hotel and was rescued with difficulty by a policeman. The fire started in Palast's Loop hotel, which was totally destroyed. Mrs. Frank Clough, the proprietor, left several thousands of dollars in her apartments as she rushed from the building, and men later employed to search the ruins for the lost gems. After the firemen had been hard at work nearly an hour and a half, a heavy fire of the wind headed off the flames and Coney Island was saved from what threatened to be one of its worst fires. According to the manager of Palast's Loop hotel, the loss on that structure is $250,000 and Vander's loss is fixed at $250,000. The damage on the Culver station was not heavy.

SPEECH BY CLAYTON

Arouses Wild Enthusiasm Among the Listening Thousands.

Committee on Resolutions About Ready to Report.

Several Sessions Will be Held During the Day.

Convention Hall, Denver, July 9.—The Democratic national convention resumed its sessions at 11:30 o'clock today, with another vast assemblage present, eager and expectant and with the feeling prevailing that the culmination day was at hand on the platform. State delegations were busy during the morning, making their final counts at the coming ballots, and it was 11:40 before the session actually began. The feature of the opening hour was the speech of the permanent chairman, Congressman Henry Clayton of Alabama, a sonorous presentation of party aspirations and a severe arraignment of President Roosevelt. Frequent demonstrations of wild enthusiasm came from the listening thousands, suggestions of the name of Bryan being unfailing signals for tumultuous clamor. The platform is practically complete as an entirety and will be presented to the convention later in the day. REFUSED TO AID CHILD

Millionaire Father Sets Heart Against His Daughter.

Elgin, Ill., Belle Married Butcher Against His Will.

Chicago, Ill., July 9.—Deserted by her husband, for whom the police are now searching, on a charge of embezzling $1,000 from his employer, an Elgin, Ill., meat market proprietor, Mrs. Vivian Kuehnstedt-Woehlert, 18 years old, daughter of A. Louis Kuehnstedt, 2525 Southport avenue, a reputed millionaire, whose romantic elopement and marriage a year ago caused a big sensation in society circles, is penniless and without a home.

Last night, friends in Elgin, where she has been living since her marriage, cared for her and her young baby. Several times during the day she had made frantic appeals to her millionaire father to assist her, but her pleadings were in vain. She told him of her pitiable circumstances, but her pleadings fell on deaf ears. He refused to listen to her tale of misery and woe.

"She married against my wishes. Now she can look out for herself," said her stern father last night. "I have had nothing to do with her since her marriage. She married a man entirely out of our station. She can make the best of it."

But she is in destitute circumstances, he was told. "Well, I can't help that," retorted the father, coldly. "She made her choice; why should I help her?" Kuehnstedt was at his palatial home in fashionable Edgewater, where he is regarded as one of the richest residents. Every luxury that wealth can bring is at his command. As the head of the Gregory Electric company, he is regarded as one of the leading figures in the business world of the city.

In Edgewater, Vivian Kuehnstedt, before her marriage, was regarded as one of the leaders in the younger set. Pretty and vivacious and with her father's wealth at her command, she bade well to become a queen in society circles.

Several years ago her mother, now Mrs. Ernest Kohn, wife of a prominent business man of Elgin, obtained a divorce from her husband. Mrs. Kohn gave her the possession of the child part of the year.

It was while residing with her mother at Elgin that she met Woehlert, a delivery boy for a meat market at that place when the two became acquainted. It was love at first sight. On Aug. 19, 1906, while the mother was away from home, the daughter packed a box of her clothes and, with Woehlert, eloped to Chicago, where they were married by the Rev. H. P. Hood, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church.

THE CONVENTION PERFECTS ITS PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

JOHNSON IS LARGE FIGURE IN THE DENVER CONVENTION

Many Delegates Instructed for Bryan Would Prefer Johnson.

Minnesota Has No Reason to be Ashamed of Campaign.

Makes Johnson the Leading Candidate Four Years Hence.

(From a Staff Correspondence.)
Denver, Colo., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the urgent tide of Bryan enthusiasm attacking it on all sides, Minnesota's standard-bearer stood as a rock yesterday afternoon. So did the banners of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Delaware, and it took moral and physical courage to stick. At one time the attack upon the Convention rather tore the sign from the standard, and it disappeared, but later it was restored to its place. Several times, too, attempts were made to wrest the Minnesota standard from its position, but Frank A. Day, supported by Swan J. Turnblad of Minneapolis, hung on like grim death, and though the banner at its top, labeled "Minnesota," wavered occasionally, it did not stir from its place. It was a great demonstration. It is true that it only takes one man out of a delegation to carry a standard. It is true that standards of state are anxious to vote for Johnson, joined in the procession about the hall, into the galleries and upon the rostrum. It is true that the Bryan men set out to beat the Chicago record, and that they did it with the help of the local, as Chicago's prolonged demonstration was continued but nevertheless it was a great and an exciting and wonderful display. Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, the third statesman, touched the button when he said that "Bryan invited Oklahoma to go Republican, and Bryan had invited it to go Democratic, and that Bryan's invitation was accepted."

A Preliminary Demonstration.
The Bryan record-breaking demonstration had been planned for today, and it was started prematurely, but it was carried out according to program just the same. More impressive even than the sea of Bryan banners was the calm determination of the delegates from Minnesota and the other states, which kept themselves immune from the Bryan invasion.

Johnson Was Quite Calm.
Attended Strictly to the Business of the State.
St. Paul, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Even the sea of Bryan banners, the presidential fever was at hand, Governor Johnson attended strictly to the business of the state yesterday until 4 o'clock, when he went home to get ready to go to Lake City where he will receive the first regiment of the National Guard in camp today. The fact that the delegates at Denver were cheering Bryan's name, giving the Johnson supporters small chance to use their war whoops, didn't worry him. Considering the fact that this was the first attack of the fever the governor took good through, he has lived with more than considerable self-control.

To see him come from the telephone in Frank Day's room and go into his private room with a caller, the casual visitor to the reception room would have imagined that Governor Johnson was the kind of fellow who would not be disturbed by the most serious of people, as he of the service given several people in the city by a telephone emergency.

There was no discourse of political waiting for the future summit from Colorado calling Minnesota's favorite son to lead the Democratic hosts to victory.

The governor himself had nothing to say. He passed several hours in the states' head office, and he acted as if it was a matter of course to be there.

GIRL STRUCK BY LIGHTNING. YET SHE IS ONLY STUNNED.
Jefferson, Wis., July 9.—A peculiar freak of lightning was recorded here yesterday when a bolt struck Miss Mary Gross, the 14-year-old daughter of Fred Gross, a farmer near here. The girl was working in a hay field when she noticed the approach of a storm and hurried toward the house for shelter. She carried a pitchfork over one shoulder, and the lightning struck this, running down the girl's back. The bolt set fire to her clothes and tore her shoes completely off. The flames were extinguished by her father, and Miss Gross was taken to her home, where she was attended by a physician. She was stunned by the shock, but it is believed that she will recover.

CHARLES A. TOWNE, Who Missed Great Opportunity to Further His Candidacy for the Vice Presidency.

TOWNE MISSED A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY BY ABSENCE

Chairman Called on Him to Sound Tribute to Bryan.

Could Not Respond and Gore Was Given the Opportunity.

Denver, July 9.—There are in this world some men of destiny, but Charles A. Towne, formerly of Duluth but now of New York, is not one of them.

The opportunity of the former Republican senator's life came to him yesterday. It knocked at his door, appealing to him to sound the magic Bryan signal which instigated the most remarkable tribute to a man that history has recorded—a tribute heard around the world before it ended.

Towne, the most energetic of all the

Son of Wealthy Retired Manufacturer Caught in New York.

New York, July 9.—A youth of 20, who described himself as Nathan Levine, a student of languages, and the son of a retired manufacturer, and who told the people he had robbed nearly every first-class hotel in this city during the past few weeks, was captured in a room on the fourteenth floor of the Hotel Belmont, after he had bound a woman in bed and was about to loot the apartment. When the prisoner was searched, the police found one of the most complete outfits for use in sneak-thievery that ever came into their possession. It consisted of two revolvers, a box of red pepper, a dagger, two electric lanterns and a number of other contraband articles.

The police say the young man made no attempt to conceal his guilt, and told them frankly of a dozen other robberies in which he had been involved. He intimated that it was to raise funds to enable him to keep up his appearance before a certain young woman that caused him to turn to a career of crime. He refused to divulge the girl's name, however, and begged the police not to question him about her. "It will break her heart if she learns of my disgrace," he said.

Levine went to the Belmont yesterday, and, after registering under another name, asked to be assigned a room near a fire escape. He was strikingly dressed in a cream-colored flannel suit.

JOHNSON WILL BE PUT IN NOMINATION BY HAMMOND

Minnesota Men Will Go Down With Colors Bravely Flying.

Vote on the Guffey Delegates Was Not Conclusive Test.

(From a Staff Correspondence.)
Denver, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though the steam roller and the band wagon are both alarmingly in evidence, as was shown by the action of the convention last night in unseating the duly accredited Pennsylvania delegates in favor of the men they defeated three to one in the primaries, Johnson's name will be presented to the convention by Congressman Hammond, and the nomination will be seconded by Attorney General Straus of Maryland. He will not be nominated, but he will go down with colors bravely flying and will not lose anything by the fight that has been made for him, for it has been honorably waged, because of the belief of Minnesota that he would win and would make a real people's president. Minnesota voted for the Guffey delegates in last night's contest, not because it was friendly to Guffey, or even knew him, but because

COMING OF HITCHCOCK IS EAGERLY AWAITED.

Hot Springs, Va., July 9.—The coming of Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, was looked forward to today with interest by many members of the Republican political colony here. One of the duties of Mr. Hitchcock will be the appointment of an executive committee of eight members, who may or may not be members of the national committee. It is not expected that the committee will be announced immediately, as the selections for this duty are to be carefully made, with a view of harmonizing all elements of the party. Representative Cooper of Wisconsin and Alfred O. Rogers, national committee-man for Wisconsin, left for their homes last evening, after delivering to Mr. Taft a personal assurance from Senator La Follette, confirming his former statement that he would support the Republican ticket.

NOMINATING A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE.

(3) But by adding a few more lines— (4) And a little hair you have William J. Bryan.

Many Workmen Killed in Disaster on the Rhine River.

Cologne, July 9.—The new bridge under construction over the Rhine at Cologne fell in today, and many of the workmen engaged on the structure lost their lives. Up to noon, fourteen bodies had been recovered, and nine men have been taken from the water seriously injured.

The scaffolding supporting the powerful crane, used in the erection of the central span of the bridge, collapsed, and the crushing down of this section carried with it several other spans. Several workmen were thrown into the river. Some of them are still underneath the scaffolding, and there is no hope whatever for their lives. Immediately after the accident, boats put out for the scene and began the work of rescue. About a score of struggling men were quickly picked up. The police and brigades of Cologne were notified and hurried to the river to assist in the work of salvage and rescue. They secured more boats and succeeded in saving several workmen, who were laboriously swimming in the strong current.

It is impossible to tell at the present time the number of victims.

DAVID R. FRANCIS, Whom the Missourians Want To Run for Vice President.

IS APPROVED BY GOMPERS

The Proposed Injunction Plank Has Indorsement of Labor Leader.

Has Opposition From the Railway Trainmen's Organization.

Denver, July 9.—No injunction shall issue in a labor dispute in cases where the writ could not be employed in the absence of the existence of such dispute. This is the essence of the injunction provision which has been drawn by the subcommittee of three, consisting of George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, Alton B. Parker of New York and Jerry Sullivan of Iowa. It will be presented to the full subcommittee, and is declared to be entirely satisfactory to the labor way trainmen's organization. The plank further provides for jury trials as to the facts in all cases of injunction.

This plank is exactly what was asked for by President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, and is understood to have been approved by him as drawn.

Mr. Bryan was telegraphed last night in behalf of the protesting railway men and told that the provision as drawn was impractical and incapable of administration by any judge.

The injunction provision is contained in the platform. This plank declares also for an eight hour day and for a comprehensive employees' liability act.

When the committee met at 10 o'clock this morning, it was still under the impression that the labor and railroad planks were still incomplete, but it was stated that they would be in shape to submit by noon or earlier. In the meantime the committee took up other questions and confidence was expressed that the committee would be prepared to report to the convention early in the afternoon.

BAD FIRE AT CONEY

Hotels Burned and Luna Park and Dreamland Threatened.

New York, July 9.—Fire which caused a loss of a quarter of a million dollars at Coney Island early today destroyed two large hotels, and for a time threatened the destruction of Luna Park, Dreamland and Steeplechase park. Fire Chief Lally of Brooklyn made a flying trip from his headquarters in an automobile covering nearly ten miles in twelve minutes. He arrived as the flames leaped over to the tower of the Culver line station. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, and ordered into service the new high pressure system using salt water mains. The system worked perfectly and greatly aided in checking the flames that were fanned by a strong east wind. Water was thrown on nearby buildings and Dreamland and Luna park were deluged to prevent further spread of the flames. The fire was under control in two hours and a big force of police were guarding the ruins from looters. Thousands of persons watched the fire rapidly devour the frame structures and saw many nests in scanty attics from the hotel windows.

Mrs. Lally, heading was overcome by a strong difficulty by a policeman.

The fire started in Pabel's Loop hotel, which was totally destroyed. Mrs. Frank Clayton, who was in the hotel, was rescued from the building and later employed to search the ruins for the lost sons.

After the firemen had been hard at work for nearly an hour, a sudden veering of the wind headed off the flames and Coney Island was saved from what threatened to be one of its worst fires.

According to the manager of Pabel's Loop hotel, the fire started in the kitchen at 12:00 and the damage to the Culver station was not heavy.

SPEECH BY CLAYTON

Arouses Wild Enthusiasm Among the Listening Thousands.

Committee on Resolutions About Ready to Report.

Several Sessions Will be Held During the Day.

Convention Hall, Denver, July 9.—The Democratic national convention resumed its sessions at 11:30 o'clock today, with another vast assemblage present, eager and expectant and with the feeling prevailing that the culmination day was at hand on the platform. State delegations were busy during the morning, making their final canvases on the coming ballots, and it was 11:40 before the session actually began. The feature of the opening hour was the speech of the permanent chairman, Congressman Henry Clayton of Alabama, a sonorous presentation of party aspirations and a severe arraignment of President Roosevelt. Frequent demonstrations of wild enthusiasm came from the listening thousands, suggestions of the noise of Bryan being unfurling signals for tumultuous clamor. The platform is practically complete as an entirety and will be presented to the convention later in the day.

During the morning, John Mitchell, the labor leader, appeared before the Alabama delegation and firmly declared that he would not be a candidate for vice president.

The Missouri delegation called on ex-Governor Francis of Missouri and announced that they would support him as their candidate for vice president.

An Honest Doctor Advised Peruna.

We mention that of burnishing the face. The burnishing is done with the clean palm of the hand.

To burnish the face, wash your hands very clean and rub a little atar of roses on each palm. If you cannot get atar use a little oil of rose geranium, anything to make the palm redolent with perfume.

Now take and stroke the cheeks upward. This sends the fat flying toward the cheekbones and prevents the sagging of the cheeks. At the same time it keeps the skin from growing gray and makes the cheeks young and rosy.

The strokes should be very vigorous, so that the skin is literally polished. It does not grow shiny, but the vigor of health grows under the surface.

The burnishing of the ears is another pretty feature. The ears of American women are sadly neglected. Often they are ugly when they might be pretty.

The very delicate pinching of the lobes will do wonders for ear and ear that is out of sorts; it takes away the gray, makes the cheeks pink. Women with white or gray ears may be accused if they add a little rouge to them.

Nearly all nations paint the lips pink, and the American woman may be allowed to touch hers with fragrant oil to make the skin thin and sensitive.

The wise beauty expert never makes up her lips with French style. This calls for pale cheeks, red lips, pink ears and glowing nostrils.

A French woman goes on her drive with her nostrils dyed a bright red. Her lips are carmine and her ear lobes are rosy, but her cheeks are powdered until they are white as snow. This is supposed to make the face interesting.

It may be right in Paris, but it is interesting to the American man at home.

Household Hints.

With the return of fresh raspberries to the markets, fresh raspberry ice is again a possibility. Here is the rule used in one family.

Bring two cupsful of water and two cupsful of sugar to a boil, and when the sugar is dissolved, cool the syrup. Add a pint of the crushed berries, the juice of one large or two small lemons and a tablespoonful of lemon juice.

Freeze in the usual way. The stiffly beaten white of an egg is sometimes used in place of the lemon juice, but it is stiff in when the ice is about half frozen. In place of either ice or gelatin, the sugar and water are some times cooked to a syrup until it spins a light hair when dropped from the spoon, and when it is cool the fruit pieces are added. For still lighter and the gelatin, egg or for using the syrup is to give a body to the ice.

At a dinner the other evening, the vanilla ice cream was masked with strawberry frappe. The ice cream had been shaped into cones for the purpose, and after it went on the individual plates the frappe was turned over it. The cones of flavors was delicious and the dish was very attractive.

Tomato cups filled with shredded celery, dressed with mayonnaise and served on lettuce leaves, makes a delicious salad. Peel the tomatoes and put them on the ice until they are very cold and solid. Then scoop out some of the pulp and fill it with the celery. The success of this, as well as of most salads, depends upon its being very cold.

A woman who makes delicious claims is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. L. Whipple, of 1215 East Third street.

The hard parts of the claims are cut off, minced fine and put into the sauce pan. Cook the tomatoes and put them on the ice until they are very cold and solid. Then scoop out some of the pulp and fill it with the celery. The success of this, as well as of most salads, depends upon its being very cold.

For a little supper snack, drain the oil from a tin of sardines, put them into a chafing dish, with a teaspoonful of butter or of olive oil, and bring to a bubble. When they are heated through, mash them with a fork and add a little salt and pepper. Serve on biscuits. They should be served hot.

No, the dough doesn't stick to the pan. It is the surprising part about it. After you have carefully measured the flour a time or two, you will have no difficulty in getting the dough just right. It will lift right out of the pan and clean. Tomorrow is the last day of our demonstration. Kelley Hardware Company.

PASSENGER LINES BUSY

Tourist Trade Has Not Fallen Down This Year.

The Predictions Early in Season are Exploded by Facts.

Predictions that the passenger business on the Great Lakes would fall down this year on account of the financial depression and the lighter trade in all quarters have been exploded by the actual facts. Passenger agents for the boat lines are smiling and working like beavers to keep up with the rush.

Which has been so great and promises to continue so as in any season in recent years.

Regardless of financial conditions, the arrival of warm weather turning thoughts to vacations and trips and on all the world to trip like this on the Great Lakes. The Anchor line, Northern Steamship company, Northern Navigation company, Port Huron & Duluth line, and the Duluth & Superior line, all of which operate here, are sharing in the rush.

The freight business is not so good. The officials of boat lines, themselves, feared a slackening of trade during the season. The Anchor line postponed the opening of its schedule for a month and some of the other boats were backward.

As soon as the boats started to run, the freight business was a better one. The Anchor line boats are carrying full lists of cargo, and the other boats are not far behind.

The Anchor line, which carries most of the Canadian tourists, is traveling very fast. The Anchor line has enjoyed the business. The Anchor line is probably the most popular of the boat lines.

The Anchor line boats are drawing the trade there. From every part of the country, people are flocking to the Great Lakes and the boat men are not worried over the slack trade.

HE LEARNED A LESSON

A Duluth man of means, knowing it was fashionable to economize this year, ordered a MORRISON suit for the modest sum of $25.00, and this is what he says:

I've been easy pickings for years, $50 and $100 a year, but a MORRISON suit for nine after this."

At 1:30 p. m. today, H. W. Richardson of the weather bureau, reported that the thermometer on the hill had registered 87 degs., making this the hottest day of the summer.

The mercury reached 85 degs. at noon, and was still climbing the time, and Mr. Richardson said that there was every indication that it would continue up into the nineties before sundown.

At 7 this morning the thermometer registered 67 degs., at 8, 70 degs.; at 9, 72 degs.; at 10, 74 degs.; at 11, 75 degs.; at 12, 80 degs.; at 1, 82 degs.; at 2, 85 degs.

Mr. Richardson says that the hot wave that has been sweeping the East, and states has at least five times, and Mr. Taft favored it in his Cooper Union speech, and in reply to questions propounded by Mr. Lewis of Ohio."

RAILROAD MEN OPPOSE THE PROPOSED PLANK.

Denver, July 9.—The telegram sent Mr. Bryan last night, in opposition to the "No notice" injunction plank, by H. R. Fuller and H. E. Willis, representing railroad employees, follows:

"The sub-committee of the Democratic convention on injunctions is opposed to recommending plank requiring notice. As the duly authorized representative of the brotherhoods of locomotive engineers, firemen and trainmen, having a membership of 250,000, we respectfully ask your co-operation in having such a plank adopted, as we think it highly important. We cannot see how the Democratic party can be embarrassed at such a plank, as President Roosevelt has recommended such legislation at least five times, and Mr. Taft favored it in his Cooper Union speech, and in reply to questions propounded by Mr. Lewis of Ohio."

WITNESSES TELL STORY OF THE BRUTAL MURDER

Henry Wilson Sits Motionless While Horrible Affair is Detailed.

Little Son Willie Tells Story of His Mother's Death.

THE JURY.
J. A. Helfenstein, railway clerk.
Arthur C. Nelson, clerk.
James H. McDonough, Sr., engineer.
A. H. Vile, retired railroad man.
Carl Z. Diefelund, bookkeeper.
Fred J. Moushous, machanic.
S. M. Lester, public accountant.
Arvin Bagley, assistant state weighmaster.
Fred H. White, purchasing agent from Hange road.
William Young, buyer.
R. D. Mekercher, clerk.
William Dunn, Jr., fireman.

The above twelve men constitute the jury that will determine whether Henry Wilson, the West Duluth wife murderer, will pay the penalty of his deed either by hanging or imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

This morning the state began to introduce its evidence, the testimony of several witnesses to the dead tending to show that the killing of Mrs. Flora Wilson, a young married woman, by her husband, was one of the most cold-blooded and brutal murders ever heard in a court in this country.

The courtroom was pretty well filled with spectators, all the witnesses, including Wilson's mother, being excluded from the room while a witness was on the stand testifying. The exclusion of the witnesses resulted from a request by P. F. Fick, one of the attorneys for Wilson, who asked permission that Mrs. Wilson be permitted to remain. County Attorney Norton, however, insisted that the order be made to exclude in effect so as to include the defendant's witnesses.

The chief witnesses for the state this morning were George Otley, who attempted to prevent Wilson from injuring his wife, Mrs. Lottie Douglas, in whose house the trouble started, and the assassin, Mrs. Alda Lueck, a sister-in-law of Otley, who witnessed the assault and killing. Willie Wilson, the 12-year-old son of the accused who heard his mother's screams and saw his father's death at the hands of his father, and Alfred Sayburn, who witnessed the affair from a store window near the Wilson home.

The testimony was of a cumulative and corroborative nature and was given without dramatic effect. The cross-examinations did not shake the testimony of the witnesses in any material point.

This afternoon the state expected to conclude its case with the testimony of two other witnesses.

Witnesses Testify.
James A. Wharton, who is assisting County Attorney Norton in the prosecution of the case was the first witness called by the state. Mr. Wharton's testimony related to measurements that he had made to determine the relative locations of the Wilson home at 561 Grand avenue, the yard, walk, street, etc.

George W. Otley, who resided in the lower part of the building at 561 Grand avenue last March, at the time of the murder, said he saw Wilson on the morning of the murder, about 10:45 o'clock. The witness heard Mrs. Wilson screaming in the yard. He left the breakfast table and ran out through the kitchen door where he saw Otley.

Wilson threw his wife to the ground. The witness said he ran over and pulled Wilson off Mrs. Wilson, as Wilson was choking her. Mrs. Wilson screamed that Wilson had a revolver and the witness declared he saw it.

Wilson then tried to find a club to beat Otley but could find nothing so he ran to the nearest store and telephoned the police. When the witness returned to the house he saw Mrs. Wilson's body lying near the foot chest, while Wilson, who was bleeding at the mouth, stood about ten feet away.

Wilson Said Nothing.
The witness did not hear anything said by Wilson during the struggle. He said there were two other men present at the time of the trouble, standing outside the house, but they did not take any part in the struggle up to the shooting lasted about five minutes. The witness saw Otley throw it on the ground and shake it about the body of Mrs. Wilson.

Under cross-examination Mr. Otley said he was not strong enough to pull Wilson from his wife. He testified that Wilson had the revolver in his hand when the witness ran in from the kitchen and saw Wilson raise his hand, saw the revolver in Wilson's hand, saw the witness throw it on the ground and shake it about the body of Mrs. Wilson.

Mr. Otley said that after Wilson had thrown his wife he walked over to the street and began talking to Mr. Nelson, a hardware dealer, who was one of the two men said to have witnessed the tragedy.

Mrs. Douglas's Story.
Mrs. Douglas, who resided at 561 Grand avenue west, the house adjoining the Wilson home, on the date of the tragedy, said she was alone the morning of the murder. The witness and Mrs. Wilson were on very friendly terms and visited back and forth.

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Douglas went to Superior March 26 to see Mr. Douglas and get some money from him. They had supper at her husband's boarding place and returned home in the early evening. They reached home shortly after 10 o'clock and went to the Wilson apartment. Wilson was at home with his small son. He asked where they had been. Mrs. Douglas wanted Mrs. Wilson remain all night with her. Wilson consented.

About 5 o'clock the next morning Wilson awakened them. He returned a little after 9 o'clock to the Douglas house and remained until breakfast was ready. Wilson kissed his wife as he left the place.

The witness saw Wilson again about 10:45 o'clock in her house, previous to the shooting. Mrs. Wilson was reading. Wilson asked his wife to go home and Mrs. Wilson said she would as soon as she wiped the dishes for Mrs. Douglas. Wilson insisted and tried to lift her off the chair. Mrs. Wilson resisted and Wilson raised his fist, then placed Mrs. Wilson's hand on his revolver. Mrs. Wilson said she saw Wilson fire four shots. One hit the side of the house; the second shot struck Mrs. Wilson in the breast and head as she lay under his knee. The third shot hit her in the breast, and she seemed to stiffen out, her lips and eyes closed and she appeared to be dead.

Wilson then felt around in the region of his wife's heart, placed the muzzle of the revolver there and fired again.

Mrs. Douglas said she could stand no more and went into the house. The shots were fired close together. The witness heard Mrs. Wilson after the first shot, scream, "Help, people, help!" The witness also screamed for help.

Was Not Excited.
Under cross-examination, Mrs. Douglas testified that Wilson did not seem excited during the scene in her house, and Mrs. Wilson did not appear frightened until after she was outside the house. It seemed to the witness that Wilson was attempting to pull the revolver from his pocket, and Mrs. Wilson was attempting to hold his hand. When Wilson drew his revolver he gave Mr. Otley an ugly look, and the latter ran toward the door.

The witness said Wilson was a poor provider for his family. Mrs. Douglas testified that Wilson did not seem excited during the scene in her house, and Mrs. Wilson did not appear frightened until after she was outside the house. It seemed to the witness that Wilson was attempting to pull the revolver from his pocket, and Mrs. Wilson was attempting to hold his hand. When Wilson drew his revolver he gave Mr. Otley an ugly look, and the latter ran toward the door.

The Boy's Story.
Willie Wilson, the 12-year-old son of the accused, said he heard his mother scream and saw his father shoot her. The boy said he saw his mother on the ground and saw his father shoot her. The boy said he saw his mother on the ground and saw his father shoot her. The boy said he saw his mother on the ground and saw his father shoot her.

On cross-examination Willie said he was about five feet from his father when the shots were fired. He said he was so excited and frightened that he did not remember seeing any other persons present.

Mrs. Alda Lueck, who was visiting Mrs. Otley, her sister, at the time of the tragedy, testified that she ran out of the house after Mr. Otley and witnessed Otley's attempt to pull Wilson away from Mrs. Wilson.

The witness said Wilson had his wife by the throat during the struggle. Wilson declared that if anybody interfered he would shoot them. Mr. Otley, who was going toward Wilson, turned around and ran toward the woods.

Mrs. Douglas was striking at Wilson with the broom.

After Mr. Otley fell, Mrs. Wilson fell down and Wilson fell on her. He raised the revolver and she put up her hands, the second bullet going through her wrist. The witness saw all the shots fired in the house and saw Wilson spitting blood when he came out. Wilson said he had shot his wife near his wife's head. Wilson declared after the shooting that he had "done right."

While witnesses of the horrible affair were testifying, the morning of March 27, he heard a woman scream and rushed to the window in time to see Wilson throw his wife down.

The witness saw Wilson pick up the revolver from his wife's grasp. Mrs. Wilson broke away and ran, but fell with Wilson on top of her. Mr. Sayburn saw Wilson fire four shots at Mrs. Wilson, who seemed to be attempting to get the gun away from her husband. The witness ran out into the yard, but Wilson came into the house. He heard another shot and saw Wilson come into the house near his wife and made a statement that he had shot himself. Wilson said he had "done the right thing" in killing his wife.

Mr. Sayburn saw Mr. Otley attempt to pull Wilson killing his wife. The witness did not think Mr. Otley made much of an effort.

An adjournment was taken at this point until 2 o'clock.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET

In North Dakota as Nominated at the Primary Election.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald).—Enough returns of the Democratic primary election have been received to figure out the ticket that will go on the fall election ballot. The party has a full ticket, with a total of about 14,000 votes cast, with John Burke, candidate for governor, receiving the highest number. The following is the complete ticket nominated:

United States senator—J. L. Cushe, Grafton.

Congress—T. D. Casey, Grafton; O. J. Majors, Hope.

Governor—John Burke, Devils Lake. Lieutenant governor—H. D. Mack, Justice of supreme court—B. F. Spaulding, Fargo.

Secretary of state—Joseph Mann, Washburn.

State auditor—E. F. Brockhoff, Grand Forks.

Superintendent of public instruction—W. N. Godward, Hillsboro.

Commissioner of insurance—C. H. Anderson, Fargo.

Commissioner of agriculture—J. H. Harvey, Fossenden.

Commissioners of railroads—T. E. Dougherty, Valley City; J. Mitchell, New Rockford; Louis Schell, Grand Forks.

With the Democrats successful in nominating their ticket by bringing out the required 20 per cent vote, the proposed test of the constitutionality of the primary election law from that quarter is relegated, the only quarter from which a case can be started being from the Socialists, who recently held a meeting in Fargo, nominating a state ticket and stating that they would make an effort to have it placed on the general ballot this fall.

There are also numerous returns at hand now determining definitely the Republican candidates for the board of railway commissioners. They are O. P. N. Anderson, an insurgent, and W. H. Mann of New Salem, and W. H. Stutsman of Mandan, stalwarts. Anderson is the high man in the race, with Mann and Stutsman running about 1,000 behind. The combination of successful candidates is a very peculiar one, and further complicates the situation as to the half and half Republican ticket this fall.

GOPHERS ARE BEATEN.
Evelth Wins Second Game From the St. Paul Colored Men.
Evelth, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald).—In a slugging match here yesterday the Evelth team retrieved its defeat of the day before at the hands of the Colored Gophers by winning from the St. Paul blacks by a score of 9 to 6. Gatewood was touched for fourteen hits and the colored men hit Knutson safely ten times. Boone's sensational catch in the seventh inning was the feature of the game.

MONROE SIGNS.
Disgruntled Player Given More Money and Will Play.
R. S. "Mugsy" Monroe, over whom the Duluth and Brandon teams have an altercation, this afternoon signed a contract with Duluth and will be in the game today. As a result of Brandon's activity in attempting to take him from Duluth it was necessary for the local management to raise the salary they first offered. All has been smoothed over, however, and Monroe is worth the money.

MUST NOT MAKE PEAVY COMPANY ALLOWANCE.
Washington, July 9.—On the ground that the allowance is unlawful, the Interstate Commerce commission today ordered the Union Pacific Railroad company to desist for two years from paying any allowance to Peavy & Co. on their own grain received into any of their elevators at Kansas City and Council Bluffs, or on grain thus received in which they have any direct and indirect ownership or interest that is not shipped out of the elevators within ten days of its receipt. The order prohibits allowance to the Peavy company on grain belonging to them, or in which they have interest, that has been mixed, treated, weighed or inspected in any of their elevators at those cities.

The Big Columbia Sale Is On!

To judge by the language in many advertisements, merchants seem to have grave doubts as to the integrity of the sales conducted by their friends, the competitors. To do right and not merely talk righteously is the way to win a reputation. The ads of the poorest stores teem with golden rule assertions, but who will say that figures don't sometimes lie. For a change, it is really refreshing to hear not only the people generally, but also the merchants talk of Columbia Sales and of the spotless Columbia reputation. We value this confidence in our methods more than all the dollars on earth. It'll take us a long time to get wealthy, but we'll be able to look our money and customers in the face.

Come In Tomorrow Morning!

The Big Semi-Annual Clothing Clearance Sale Begins at 8 o'clock.

New Prices on Men's Suits

Our high-grade Stein-Bloch Suits are such as no other house in Duluth can show you at any price. If you are on and first, you will get the pick of all our $40, $35, $30, $27.50 and some $25 suits for $19.50

Staple numbers in full dress wear are the only suits excepted. Blacks and blues are included in the sale.

Although we announced about the same prices in former July sales, we have never offered such price reductions, for our suits average at least $5.00 higher this season than ever before. If you do not care to pay $19.50 you can take the pick of most of our $25, and all our $22.50 and $20 suits for $16.50

Raising of ready cash being one of the main reasons for such a sale as this, those who want things charged can have them at the regular price.

If $16.50 is a trifle more than you care to pay for a business suit, you can take your pick of our entire stock of $18 and $16.50 and some $15 ones at $13.50

To treat all equally and give no one undue advantage, we must refuse to lay garments aside prior to the opening of the sale.

For real good suits at a regular "shoddy" price, take your pick from our $12.50, $13.50—and also a number of our $15 suits at $8.50

These sales include our Brock Union Label Clothes.

Young Men, Take Notice!

On Friday morning you can take your pick of our entire stock of Society Brand Clothes, which you all know run from $20 to $27, at the uniform price of fifteen dollars. And this offer includes our Young Men's Suits, made by the famous Stein-Bloch tailors. $15

RAILROADS

OFFICIAL IS OPTIMISTIC.

J. G. Mitchell Says Big Crops Promise Heavy Fall Business.

J. G. Mitchell, assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific railway, was in Duluth yesterday on passenger business connected with the local Northern Pacific office.

Mr. Mitchell stated that the passenger business on the line of the Northern Pacific, and in fact upon the lines of the various Western roads, is very good.

"The crops along our line are looking very well," said Mr. Mitchell. "From the information that has come to us I have reason to believe that the rain has not damaged the crops to any great extent."

C. L. Townsend, district passenger agent for the Northern Pacific, was also in Duluth yesterday.

W. M. Hardin, traveling freight agent of the Minneapolis & St. Louis, who is here on business today, states that the crop outlook along the line of his road is also very good.

NEW MOTOR PLANT.

Union Pacific Road Will Build Large Factory at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., July 9.—W. R. McKeen has resigned as superintendent of motive power of the Union Pacific Railroad company, to assume management for E. H. Harriman of the McKeen Motor Car shops, which will be established in Omaha, with a capital of $1,000,000.

The manufacture of the motors at the Union Pacific shops here has been so successful as to create a demand for the cars that they cannot meet except by the establishment of an exclusive factory. Mr. Harriman and Vice President Mohler of the Union Pacific, with Mr. McKeen, who has been the manufacturer of the cars, have decided this new arrangement necessary. A new plant will have to be built in Omaha, in addition to the existing Union Pacific shops already here.

B. J. Fuller, who has been assistant to Mr. McKeen, succeeds him as superintendent of the motive power and machinery at the Union Pacific shops. The change becomes effective July 20.

CROPS GOOD.

President Hawley Reports Conditions Favorable in Iowa and Dakotas

New York, July 9.—Edwin Hawley has recently returned from an inspection trip over the principal divisions of the Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Iowa Central, of which two railroads he is president, and also over the Chicago & Alton, in which he is largely interested.

He found crop conditions in the territory covered by him much better than he had expected. Corn has been damaged to some extent on the low ground, but Mr. Hawley thinks that when the crop is harvested this damage will represent only an insignificant loss. He says that he has never seen the Central West and that part of the Northwest through which he journeyed, looking better than a week or two ago, when he was making his trip. Business men generally in the West, Mr. Hawley adds, are expecting better times soon.

Purchase Rumored.

New York, July 9.—Reports from Chicago that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul had purchased control of the Tacoma Eastern, a small road in the state of Washington, are said by officials of the St. Paul to be at least premature. It is not denied, however, that the purchase of this small road is being considered.

The St. Paul's plans for its Pacific coast extension call for an entrance to both Seattle and Tacoma, and the lines in those cities are well advanced. The Tacoma Eastern has a total of about sixty-one miles of line, the main section running from Tacoma.

Doctors Visit Coleraine.

A number of Duluth doctors, representing the St. Louis County Medical association, left this morning in a special over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern for Coleraine, where the doctors will be the guests of Dr. Keane of the Coleraine hospital, and John C. Greenaway, superintendent of the Western Mississippi range.

The regular monthly meeting of the association will be held at Coleraine, the doctors being entertained by Mr. Greenaway and Dr. Keane after the prompt business of the association. The delegation will return to Duluth this evening.

Texas Bankers Coming.

A special train over the Northwestern, carrying 125 representative bankers of Texas, will reach this city upon the afternoon of July 14. The bankers are making a tour of the country and

WITTMAN AND HIS EXPERTS ARE STILL PERFORMING WONDERFUL CURES!

Office at 21st Avenue West and Superior Street—Visited by Many Sufferers.

Another large crowd was on the lot at the corner of Twenty-third avenue west and Superior street last night to hear the famous orator and demonstrator, Dr. Wittmann, in one of his eloquent lectures explaining to the public how different diseases accumulate and what they are caused from. He also stated what his Medical Compound will do for people. It will remove tape worms, gall stones and blood trouble and many other diseases. Mrs. Clara Helleman, living at Tenth avenue south, came to the office yesterday afternoon and thanked Dr. Wittmann for what his Compound had done for her. This lady had a bad case of catarrh and rheumatism, but was relieved after taking five or six doses of the medicine. Another lady, who has cause to be grateful, is Mrs. Lyden. This lady was relieved of a large number of gall stones without the use of a knife or shedding of blood. This lady has highly recommended Dr. Wittmann to all her friends and neighbors, and has advised them to call upon him if they are suffering from any aches or pains.

Dr. Wittmann has stated that anyone who lives too far from town and are not able to get to the office they may send $1.00 and the medicine will be sent to them at once with full directions how to use it.

Tonight a large program has been arranged by the vaudeville company, including a number of fine selections by the Duluth Marine band, which has scored great success during the season. Don't forget the place, at the corner of Twenty-third avenue west and Superior street, at 8:30 sharp. Office hours are from 10 till 12 and from 2 till 4.

The bankers of this city will provide some of the information for the visitors. Some of the prominent men of affairs of the great Southwest will be among the visitors.

Conditions Good.

Robert McCune, general agent of the Wabash, is in the city today. Mr. McCune says that conditions are satisfactory on his line, and that passenger business has shown a commendable increase within the past two months.

Official Here.

W. L. White, Northwestern freight agent of the Pere Marquette, is in the city today. Mr. White is accompanied by Mrs. White. Like the other railroad men who are in the city today, Mr. White states that business has shown a commendable increase within the past two months.

Shriners Coming.

Two hundred Shriners will reach Duluth from Detroit, Mich., over the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, Monday, July 13. The Michigan Shriners will travel in a special and will stop over in Duluth for a short time.

Shriner Special.

A special of twelve coaches will connect Duluth with Detroit, Mich., over the city July 13 for St. Paul, over the Northwestern line. An observation, dining and club car, with six sleepers, will compose the train.

Tourist Rate.

The Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg has announced a summer tourist rate of $17.35 to Winnipeg and return. The rate will become effective July 15.

Traffic Man Here.

H. M. Pearce, freight traffic manager of the Northwestern line, is in Duluth today.

Bread kneaded in the "Universal" bread maker is more wholesome because there is less raw flour in it. You don't add any flour after you start kneading. Every particle of flour has an equal amount of moisture, so that there is no unwholesome flour in the bread. Much better for children—anybody. In fact, Kelley Hardware Company.

APPEAL TO BANKERS

To Restore General Railroad Credit Made by President Warren.

Frontenac, N. Y., July 9.—An appeal to all bankers to work together to restore railroad credit as a means of overcoming the effects of the recent period of financial depression was made today by Charles Elliott Warren, president of the New York Bankers' association in his monthly address to the annual convention of that organization. Public antagonism to corporations and particularly to railways must cease, said Mr. Warren. The credit of the railroads has been put in jeopardy. For the welfare, not only of the railroads, but of the whole country, all should work to strengthen railway credit. Capital invested in railroads is today performing the greatest service in the United States and is receiving the least return for it.

Mr. Warren said he regarded all the signs of the times as pointing to a general revival of business.

Overworked.

Fast living, fast working, fast thinking, bring their reward—sickness. Life's struggle becomes more and more intense as the twentieth century advances. To equip yourself for the test you must have sleep, good digestion, steady nerves and a clear mind. These can be secured and maintained by the daily use of golden grain belt beer, the ideal table beverage. Being brewed of pure barley malt and hops, it furnishes nourishment in predigested form and acts as a tonic. Order of Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Company.

Hamburg, July 9.—The consul general here of the republic of Salvador has received the following cablegram from President Figueroa: "The revolutionary outbreak in Honduras is very insignificant and will be easily suppressed by the government of that state. MANY PROSPECTIVE DOCTORS. Grand Forks, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-one persons are taking the North Dakota medical examination which is being held here. It will last three days. Dr. H. M. Wheeler,

Has Commenced.

Ashland, Wis., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work has been started on the extension of the street car line of the Ashland Light, Power & Street Railway company from the present eastern terminal to Lake Side park, and it is thought that the cars will be running through to the park inside of a week, and possibly by next Saturday night or Sunday. A new cinder path is also being built from the pavilion to the street and the cars will go to the end of this cinder path.

Work will be begun on the Prentice park extension of the line just as soon as this east end work is completed, not later than the early part of next week. The ties and rails are already purchased and the ground, and it will only be a few days now before the cars are again running to Prentice park.

J. Feeley of Swan River for $40 per acre. There were more than 200 bidders for the land.

Eveleth Events.

Eveleth, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Father Bilban of the Holy Family church has returned from an extended trip through the west and has resumed his duties which have been taken care of in his absence by Father Verhuc. Rev. Father Bilban is visiting in the Hibbing, Minn., where he has a couple of weeks for Europe. Father Bilban is well known in the Finnish Lutheran church and is enjoying a visit from the latter's parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Holikka of Crystal Falls, Mich., who are celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage July 10.

Rev. J. E. Rankin who has been away on a trip for a couple of weeks is expected back in time to have services next Sunday morning and afternoon.

FAVOR DIFFERENT SITES.

Virginia Commercial Club Not Unanimous on Subject.

Virginia, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the Commercial club last night there was a large attendance, because the important subject of selecting a site for the federal building was coming up for discussion. Congressman J. Adam Bede was in the audience and urged the selection of a site that would admit the enlarging of the public building to be placed there. He said the federal inspector would be here soon and reach a definite conclusion. A vote of those present was taken upon the proposed sites. Twenty-five favored the Manganese site, twenty-three voted for the Central school site, four for the Pay hotel site and the other votes were scattered. A good many second votes were in favor of the Pay hotel site. A motion to select what is known as the "corner" was voted down by a large majority. It is probable that if sufficient ground can be obtained on the Pay hotel site that the new building will be located there.

The club selected the following to represent the organization at the meeting of the Commercial club of the county to be held at Eveleth Saturday: President, Hanson Metcalf; Frank Hughes, A. C. Osburne, J. W. Murphy and F. B. McGary. Secretary Hughes of the club will speak upon "Farming at the meeting."

HIBBING ELECTS DELEGATES.

Those Who Will Attend Eveleth
Commercial Club Meet.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club has selected the following delegates to attend the meeting of commercial organizations at Eveleth July 11: J. J. Cox, T. F. Brady, E. F. Freeman, J. A. Healy and Robert Shulton. The club has also decided that Hibbing should join with the delegates from the Hibbing, Chisholm and Aurora schools in requesting the commissioners to submit to the people at the next general election a proposition to establish a school for the Hibbing, Chisholm and Aurora schools. A committee composed of J. J. Cox, T. F. Brady and W. C. Barrett was appointed to draft resolutions favoring the school and forwarded same to the county commissioners. The matter was taken up a few weeks ago by County Superintendent Giffin. Mr. Giffin's duties take him into all parts of the county, and to him, perhaps more than to any other man, has become apparent the need of a school for the Hibbing, Chisholm and Aurora schools. The majority of the school are from the Hibbing, Chisholm and Aurora schools, and are acquainted with the peculiar conditions of the Hibbing, Chisholm and Aurora schools. Mr. Giffin believes that an agricultural school and experimental station would be of great benefit to the farmers along practical lines and would soon result in a more rapid development of the country, with largely increased earnings. It is estimated that the establishment of such a school would cost the expenditure of about $20,000 to begin with, but that within a few years it could be made self supporting.

It was started in 1907 and has since that time been producing a large amount of ore. It is now one of the most modern on the range and is rapidly forging to the front.

The matter of the Aurora club, John Johnson, the Federation of Commercial Clubs of the Hibbing, Chisholm and Aurora schools, met with the approval of the members. the contagion of excitement and clung persistently to the standard. Georgia's delegation surrounded his stand, and just as many of its members as could get their hand upon the star clutched it with grim and set faces, impervious to the appeals made to them to join the demonstration. The attacks upon street-fair delegates were generally good natured, though at one time the Georgia men were pelted with programs and magazines to an extent that became a little rough. The same thing happened to the Minnesota men, but no tempers became mislaid. Minnesota lost nothing by its firm stand for its favorite son.

"A man that can create a loyalty like that must be all right," said a red hot Bryan man from Oklahoma, as he marched by the Minnesota standard. "You're all right," yelled another, and the cry was taken up on all sides.

We can't do anything for you this year," yelled an Ohio man, "but just wait until 1912. We'll be Johnson men then."

A New York man, during the demonstration, pointed out the states that stood out, and said: "Minnesota, New York, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia and New Jersey; Johnson can carry every one of them, and Bryan can only carry Georgia."

"He can't carry Georgia, either," yelled an excited Georgia man, whose hands were fastened around the Georgia standard with an iron grip. "It was a great exhibition of what the enthusiasm of a crowd, properly stimulated and encouraged, will do. Chicago thought it had accomplished wonders when it broke the record with forty-five minutes, but Denver has doubled that, with an hour and a half. The only question is whether or not it did not occur too so, and whether the unpleasantness arising out of the convention might not later obligate the strong rule that has gripped the convention might not later obligate the effect of yesterday's epidemic of Bryan enthusiasm."

dacy in the voting on a nomination for the presidency, Johnson is a large figure in the convention, probably larger than the vote will show. At one time the Johnson force lacked just seven votes to block the Bryan nomination on the first ballot. These votes largely were contingent upon the securing of enough additional votes to carry the fight through that fateful first ballot. New York was typical.
New York is the Johnson state.

His delegates believe he can win, swear he would carry New York, Connecticut, Delaware and Georgia, and are being pelted with telegrams and petitions from home to stand out against Bryan and stick for Johnson. Yet, if the proper showing cannot be made, New York will probably vote for Bryan, and the other tentative votes will follow, with the exception of a possible sixty, who promise to be faithful to the finish. And what ever the result of the building, Johnson is recognized as a vote-getter, as a dependable man and good citizen and as of presidential size. The repeated assurance as to 1912 are encouraging enough, although they would have been more pleasing if they could have been discounted for votes in 1908. The Johnson managers, as everybody must have realized, have had 1912 in mind, without losing at any moment their vigor in the fight of 1908. Recognizing the fact that any man or any section daring to oppose Bryan was certain to incur the resentment of certain of Bryan's followers, the Johnson management has done nothing to prejudice his chances for 1912. One thing that would have done this would have been the encouragement of those instructed delegates who felt now that they are upon the ground, that their instructions were a mistake and would like a chance to change their minds. Johnson supporters to have encouraged these would have hurt Johnson's standing, and it cannot be said that they have done this in a single instance.

No Reason to Be Ashamed.

The most that has been done is to solicit second ballot support from those whose instructions were not of the first, last and all the time order, and this was perfectly fair. Minnesota has no need to be ashamed of her stand, even were she to lose the fight for her favorite son. She has offered the Democratic party a candidate who would Celery, muskmelons, onions—any vegetable or fruit, butter, and the like (in open vessels), in the same Bohn food compartment. Proving absence of dead air. Milk will remain fresh, sweet and of perfect nourishing quality for at least 72 hours in the Bohn, proving absence of germ life.

Matches will light freely after a day or more in the Bohn food compartment—the supreme test of dryness.

A given quantity of ice will keep the Bohn Syphon Refrigerator 6 to 15 degrees colder than any other of equal size, and the ice lasts longer. Proving economy.

The food compartment of the Bohn Syphon Refrigerator is as large as that of any refrigerator for size.

A lighted match will almost flicker out in the active current of live air from the base of the ice chamber, proving perfect circulation.

Remember—You prove these statements in your home.

There is no refrigerator so beautiful in finish, symmetrical lines, interior spotlessness and daintiness, as the Bohn Syphon Refrigerator.

who would carry states which Bryan cannot hope for and who would make for the United States a splendid president, whose official actions in behalf of the people's interests would do credit to the nation, the party and the state. If the party does not see fit to accept a winner, provided the steam roller's career was not so ruthlessly arrogant as to explode the mine of revolt, ready to break forth on any fair provocation. And this is a fact which must be apparent to anybody on the ground. The Johnson men will be better losers, if they must lose, and will be more loyal to the winner than the Bryan followers, if it were their fate to meet defeat.

TOWNE MISSED A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY BY ABSENCE

aspirants for the vice presidential nomination, was called upon to speak in the convention hall before the blind senator from Oklahoma, whose mention of Bryan electrified the delegates and spectators.

Never in a political way was such a demonstration of hero-worship, and the credit for it will go down in history as belonging to Senator Gore. It might have gone to Towne, personal friends of the Nebraska commoner who wished that he might have secondary glory on the ticket in this campaign. Had Towne been present to respond to a call for a speech when it was made, it is the general belief that the enthusiasm of the demonstration would have stamped the convention for him for vice president.

His fondest wish would have been realized, his political ambition crowned in the glorious furor of that memorable hour and a half. But Towne was not there to hear the message from the golden land of opportunity. He was late to the feast of chance, delayed by a feast of the appetite.

While the convention was calling for Towne, and Temporary Chairman Bell was sending escorts to the New York delegation to lead him to the platform, the ill-fated man was entertaining luncheon with Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, daughter of his friend and idol, the real man of destiny.

"Towne, Towne, Towne," was the cry from scores of throats in the convention when the announcement was made that representative Democrats would be called upon to speak.

"We will now hear from Senator Towne," said Chairman Bell, "a sterling friend of the party who came to us from the enemy because of principle."

The band was playing. Men and women were cheering. The scene was set for the emotional drama that was to follow. But the chief actor was absent.

"What an opportunity!" said the men of wisdom on political con. "How did he work it?" they asked.

"Bryan wants Towne for vice president," they said to one another, "and he has set the stage for him."

But they were mistaken. Bryan had not done so. Bryan did not know what was about to happen. He was ready to rise before that waiting tumultuous multitude to share with Bryan its torrent of laurels.

At that time Mr. Towne, with Bryan's daughter, Mrs. Ruth Leavitt, as the guest of honor, was seated in the dining room at the Brown Palace hotel, and with them, also, were Former United States Senator Patterson of Colorado, George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, and United States Senator Owen of Oklahoma, colleague of the man whose opportunity found ready to respond when Towne had failed to answer to the call.

The New York friend of Mr. Bryan and his guests were enjoying themselves, eager, however, to hasten to the convention hall, and they did arrive just as Senator Gore was beginning his address. As Towne hurried to his seat in the New York delegation, Senator Gore was uttering the sentence which aroused the record-breaking uproar of tribute.

"Oklahoma re-elected rejected Taft and accepted Bryan," said he, "and the uproar of praise was on."

"What is happening?" said Towne to delegates seated near him.

"You missed it," a friend replied. "Why were you away? They called for you to do this, and when you could not be found they asked for Senator Gore. He said 'Bryan,' and that is the cause of it all. You might have said it, and, if you had, you would have been the next vice president of the United States."

"It was the opportunity of a lifetime," declared several of Towne's friends after the demonstration. "If he had made that speech instead of Senator Gore, he would have been nominated. Now he might as well abandon hope."

Mr. Towne admitted his regret that he had not been present when called upon to speak, but he refused to challenge the statement of the late Senator man destiny, knocks but once.

And Mr. Towne had his inning at the night session. While the convention was waiting for the report of the credentials committee, the time was filled with speeches by Congressman Hobson, Col. Holdmann of Kentucky and others. Finally Chairman Bell called for Mr. Towne, saying: "This afternoon I appointed a committee of the New York delegation to escort to the platform, Senator Towne."

This was as far as Mr. Bell was allowed to proceed. The convention broke into loud applause, and Mr. Towne took the rostrum, amid an enthusiastic demonstration. He kept strictly to the promise he made at the opening of his speech, when he said that he would occupy but little time. His address was brief, and he left the platform with the distinctly expressed good will of the convention, thus partially recovering the chance he missed in the afternoon.

Many at Joyland.

Joyland, the amusement park on Park Point, formerly known as the White City, was a merry place last evening, as a large crowd was on hand, taking in the sights or dancing.

Wednesday was a popular dancing night with the campers and others who are in the habit of taking in the hops on the point, and a great many were on hand last evening.

Others who were merely taking in the entertainment found much to interest them in the free attractions, which were given on the stage immediately in front of the main band stand. The Ohjee Brothers, comedy acrobats; Hassan Ban Mohammed, the man of mystery, and O. L. Jeancon, vocalist, give an outdoor program that is well worth seeing and hearing.

All the attractions at Joyland are now running full blast, and every twinkling electric light is in place.

PARK BOARD UNWILLING

Opposed to Public Playgrounds in Any Local Parks.

Playground Association Runs Against an Unexpected Snag.

The indications are that the public parks of the city will hereafter be barred to the Duluth Playground Association, so far as the establishment of playgrounds in them is concerned. It is understood that at the next meeting of the park board a resolution will be adopted prohibiting any part of the parks being used for playground purposes, the contention of members of the board being that such amusement resorts should be placed in locations where there is not already a park.

Yesterday members of the association received their first intimation that the park board was opposed to playgrounds in the parks. Until this week they appeared to favor such a plan, and even went so far as to put apparatus for the children in some of the parks, without the assistance of the association. The fact that no attendance was in charge of the grounds resulted in failure with the Portland square project, discouraged the board from making any more ventures in this direction, but it was believed the board was still sufficiently interested in the plans of the association to allow the use of the parks. It was understood all along that Lincoln park was to be used, anyway, but yesterday the board refused to let men go to work there for the association, and suggested that the plot of ground opposite the Bryan school be used for the purpose. A meeting of the executive committee of the organization will be held within the next day or two, and the matter will be finally disposed of one way or another.

ATTORNEYS WILL DINE

Members of Board of Eleventh Judicial District Plan Banquet.

Affair Will be Given at Spalding Hotel July 18.

The attorneys comprising the bar of the Eleventh Judicial district will come together in a banquet to be held at the Spalding hotel Saturday evening, July 18 at 7 o'clock for the purpose of having a good time; to reorganize the old, or perfect a new organization of Bar association, and to provide a method of procedure and entertainment for the members of the State Bar association, which will hold its annual meeting in Duluth Aug. 13, 14 and 15.

The banquet will be an important event for the reason that it will be the first time in over twenty years that the members of the bar of the Eleventh judicial district have come together.

There are a great many young attorneys in the district who have begun practice within the last year or two that are scarcely known to the older members of the bar, and the banquet will give all the opportunity of becoming well acquainted.

Since July 6 there have been 210 invitations sent out by the committee in charge of the banquet, comprised of Judge W. A. Cant, John G. Williams, H. B. Fryberger, C. O. Baldwin, Howard T. Abbott and Alfred Jacques. Mr. Abbott had, up to this noon, received fifty acceptances and but one regret.

The committee in charge is a self-constituted one, and its sole object is to get together, in the first instance and in this way, the attorneys in this part of the state.

The plates will cost the attorneys $1.50 each, and all who intend to be present are requested to notify Howard T. Abbott, 405 Lonsdale building, Duluth, on or before July 15. Those receiving invitations are expected to notify all other attorneys of their acquaintance so that the notice of the banquet will be well spread.

The meeting of the State Bar association next month will bring to Duluth about 600 prominent attorneys from every part of the state, and it is the desire of the local members of the bar to see that the visitors are well cared for and entertained.

There will probably be a good program of toasts at the banquet Saturday evening, July 18.

Young men, take notice! Swellest "Society" clothes, $15, at the Columbia sale tomorrow.

D. R. FRANCIS FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Missourians Propose to Put Former Governor in Nomination.

Convention Hall, Denver, July 9.—John Mitchell, the former head of the United Mine Workers of America, today made a personal appeal to the Alabama delegation not to present his name to the convention for the vice presidency. Alabama, being the first in the alphabetical roll of states, could give the Mitchell movement impetus by presenting the name of the leader in advance of other candidates. When Mr. Mitchell heard that the delegation had planned such a step, he lost no time in trying to head it off.

The Missouri delegation today called on Former Governor David R. Francis and announced a decision to put Mr. Francis in nomination for the vice presidency. The Missourians expect to secure for Mr. Francis the support of Eastern Democrats, because of the fact that he was a member of the Cleveland cabinet. If Judge Gray of Delaware is eliminated from consideration, the Missouri delegation believes that Mr. Francis would be the beneficiary.

MACK ELECTED COMMITTEEMAN

New York Delegation Re-elects Man From Buffalo.

Denver, Colo., July 9.—The New York delegation held another caucus this morning, but the only action taken with reference to the attitude of the delegation toward the nominations for president and vice president was the formal adoption of the "Unit rule," under the operation of which the entire 78 votes of the state in the convention will be cast in one block.

Norman E. Mack of Buffalo was unanimously re-elected member of the national committee from New York state.

G. F. Ketchum of Warwick protested against the adoption of the unit rule, on the ground that it placed the entire vote of the delegation into the hands of one man.

JOHNSON WILL BE PUT IN NOMINATION BY HAMMOND
cause the only arguments advanced were in behalf of the Guffey delegates.

No attempt was made to submit a real argument as to the merits of the contestants' case. There was not even a real hearing of the case. Governor Haskell's appeal for them, which carried the day, was not on the ground that they were legally and morally entitled to the seats, but on the ground that they would not be good company, because of Guffey's corporation affiliations. In short, it was a successful appeal to prejudice overriding the right.

Not a Conclusive Test.

The vote was not quite so conclusive a test of anti-Bryan strength as had been expected, on account of the wave of sentiment set afloat by Haskell, some Johnson delegates voting with the contestants and some Bryan men voting from a sense of fair play uninfluenced by prejudice, for the regular delegates. However, it showed the power of the Bryan organization, and forecasted the outcome of the voting on the presidential nominations, which will probably take place tonight, though possibly not till tomorrow. Frank A. Day is authority for the statement that there were a couple of votes, including his, on the delegation against the Guffey delegates, but under the unit rule the delegation voted solid. One indication of the temper of some of the Bryan men was given last night when a delegate from Southern Minnesota, in shouts for Johnson, was informed by a delegate from New Mexico that unless he quit talking Johnson he would shoot him. The Minnesota man promptly responded with a louder cry than ever for Johnson, whereupon the New Mexico man pulled his gun, which was taken away from him by bystanders.

DEATH TRAP FOR BIRDS.

York Transcript: One of the keepers who came ashore from Bon Island recently tells the story of the strange death encountered by thousands of the migrating birds every spring. Flying along the coast at night they are instantly attracted by the powerful light from the watch tower, as moths are drawn to a candle. Thousands of these birds in their passage north fly with full force against the thick glass of the brilliantly lighted lantern. Stranded to death they fall to the rocks below or scale away a little distance and flutter helplessly into the water. The light of morning sometimes reveals the crows covered with the little creatures whose journey to their summer homes has met this sudden and fatal termination. Hundreds of species are found among the unfortunate little tourists. Most of them are easily recognized as belonging to the various common classes of song birds. But very often large birds of beautiful plumage come to their final resting place in this manner upon the bleak rocks of Bon Island. On one occasion several years ago the thick glass of the lantern was shattered to atoms by the impact of some strange bird of powerful bill.

ORDINANCE APPROVED

Council Committee Will Recommend Adoption of Amendments.

Only Change in Milk Ordinance Relates to Temperature.

The new milk ordinance will in all probability pass the council at the meeting next Monday, without any very material changes, despite the protests of the milkmen. Mayor Haven, Health Commissioner Patton and Aldermen Tesson, Shariel, Gethell, Kennedy, McKnight and Philbrick held a meeting in the health commissioner's office to discuss the new measure, and decided to recommend the adoption of the ordinance as it stands with the exception of the section which requires that the milk within forty-five minutes after being drawn must be reduced to a temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit or lower. This particular section was not approved because it was believed that it would prove a hardship to some of the smaller milk dealers, who would be forced to erect ice houses in order to be able to reduce the temperature to 60 degrees. It was explained that this provision was so drastic that they might eventually drive some of the milkmen out of business. "We want some tangible ground to work on," said Dr. Patton, "and without this ordinance, we are unable to get a clean milk supply in Duluth." The doctor was opposed to a change in the clause regarding cooling, but the

Methodist Minister Shows Up "Spirit Portrait Painters."

Discovers Bangs Sisters Process in a Dream.

Chicago, July 9.—The famous Bangs sisters of Chicago, "spirit portrait painters," whose wonderful portraits of persons who have died, have puzzled the scientific world, have been exposed by the Rev. A. T. Osborn, a Methodist minister in Kansas City. The preacher read the secret of the medium sister's process in a dream. His sub-conscious eye, according to a remarkable statement he issued yesterday, solved a problem that learned scientists had studied in vain. The Bangs sisters are known as Elizabeth and May Bangs, one of whom is the wife of Jacob Henry Lesher, recently sued by Miss Belle Scramlin, who claimed to be his common law wife. They have just concluded a successful visit to Kansas City, where they painted many "spirit portraits" for prominent people and cleaned up handsomely in a financial way. Mr. Osborn is a prominent psychic and an exposé of mediums. He attended the seances of the Bangs sisters and was impressed by their skill. He became convinced that the "spirit paintings" were a hoax and planned to learn the secret of the trick.

Found Proof in Rooms. After he had dreamed out the results, he and Mrs. Eldridge visited the apartments occupied by the Bangs sisters in Kansas City and found proof of the trick. The explanation was correct in chemicals and empty vials in a closet in which stereoscopic pictures, it is claimed, had been developed.

According to Dr. Osborn the famous "spirit portraits," the production of which has made the Bangs sisters wealthy, are merely solar prints enlarged from photographs of living individuals and painted by hand. "The photograph between the slates," said Dr. Osborn, "is extracted by a well-known trick. A reproduction is instantaneously made and the photographs returned. Then solar print of the enlarged picture is removed and painted on the canvas by hand. A magic lantern slide is made also. When the slitter returns the picture on a black canvas with a dissolving view. If the slitter says the picture has eyes too big, the eyes are removed, brown paint added to the eyes and the picture appears again.

"The trick is lowered and placed on the table. When the covering is removed the picture that had been painted before the slitter is removed, brown paint added to the eyes and the picture appears again.

"I recognized the fruitlessness of attempting to reach a solution of the mystery of the 'spirit portraits' through any process of reasoning, as many of the most scientific men in America had sought, reasoning from very possible hypothesis without success.

"On returning home from my interview with Mr. Eldridge I determined to seek the information through the sub-conscious mind. Accordingly I forced myself to sleep with the suggestion to this mind that the next morning I would be made aware of objective consciousness on my awakening.

"I slept and awoke six different times with no success. On forcing myself to sleep the seventh time I became more determined and I would succeed. At 4:30 o'clock on the morning of July 4 I awoke and I called to my wife and told her that I had it. To the minutest details I unfolded the process, after which I demonstrated, by actually painting a picture, that I had all the details."

EAST BOSTON HAS A $1,500,000 FIRE. Boston, July 9.—A fire, believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, or a locomotive spark, and fanned by a brisk northwest wind, swept nearly a quarter of a mile of the harbor front of East Boston, late yesterday, causing a property loss estimated at nearly $1,500,000. Much of the loss falls upon the Boston & Albany railroad. One person is reported missing, and it is thought that he perished in the flames. He is Daniel Sullivan, a watchman at the Cunard line pier. The fire was the biggest and most destructive that has broken out along the harbor front for many years.

TO HAVE REAL MARRIAGE. Participants in Mock Ceremony to be United for Life. New York, July 9.—One of the romances of the sea came to light with the arrival here of the President Lincoln of the Hamburg-American line, when the announcement was made that there will be a marriage between Miss Eibling Steinbrück and John Holzeck, both passengers on the steamship. Miss Steinbrück is a native of West Prussia, while her fiancé owns and cultivates a farm near Edwardsville, Ill. The young woman went to Passaic, N. J., to stay with friends until the marriage.

On Monday last there was a carnival on the President Lincoln, one of the features being a mock marriage between Miss Steinbrück and Mr. Holzeck. Following the ceremony, Mr. Holzeck became very attentive to his mock wife, with the result that their real marriage was arranged.

Miss Steinbrück learned to speak English in Germany.

CHANCE FOR POOR ONES

Agricultural Authority Praises Opportunities of This Section.

Prof. Moore of University of Wisconsin Lauds Northern Minnesota.

Bemidji, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. R. A. Moore, assistant dean of the department of agriculture of Madison, Wis., and Col. W. J. Anderson of the same place, spoke to a large crowd of farmers and settlers in the Deer Lake schoolhouse Tuesday evening.

Prof. Moore and Col. Anderson have been the guests of Roger C. Spooner at his beautiful home at Deer Lake for the past six weeks, while looking over lands in the townships of Lion, Neving, Buzzard, Dudley, Sinclair and Leon and lands near these places.

"This is, without doubt, one of the very best countries, from an agricultural standpoint, that I have ever traveled through," said Mr. Moore. "I predict a grand future for this part of Northern Minnesota, and unhesitatingly say that dairying should become more general. I know of no section of the country which offers such opportunities for the poor man than these lands. It goes without question that this is one of the best dairy countries in the United States."

Mr. Moore said that it is his opinion that, in a majority of cases, the farmers who have already settled this section of the country have practically rubbed the soil.

He believes in a rotation of crops, and he continued, "I have never seen a country so adapted to the raising of clover as this."

The conclusion of the meeting it was the unanimous vote of those present that another meeting should be held Saturday, July 11, at which time the settlers will endeavor to have A. J. McGuire of the Northeast experimental farm at Grand Rapids, present to talk to the settlers on dairy lands.

LEADING MASTERS MEET. Deny There Will be Any Attempt at Raising Prices.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A party of sixty leading masters of the United States, members of the United States Association of Masters, are in Milwaukee for the purpose of holding the annual meeting of the association. These masters are the ones referred to by one Adolph Kettel, a former mail buyer of New York, as "the band of scoundrels."

The annual meeting opened with a dinner at the Deutscher club, where the visiting party of the local masters, following the dinner, the members were in session at the Deutscher club. B. F. Heales, president of the association, presided. Other officers and members present included: R. W. Caldwell, Chicago, secretary; C. E. Remer, Kenosha, treasurer; and P. J. Sweeney, Minneapolis, A. Hauser, St. Paul, and J. P. McGowan, Milwaukee, all of whom are members of the association.

S. C. Spooner, Grand Rapids, Mich.; W. K. Neill and B. F. Stonehocker, New Haven, Conn.; and C. W. Zwickel, Buffalo, N. Y., New York City; Louis Hochman, Cincinnati; W. H. Fritz, Chicago; and C. Fuchtwanger, Pittsburgh, Pa.

It was denied by leading members, who are, however, decidedly secretive in their reference to the matter, that there is any intention to advance the prices on mail, as alleged in the circular sent out by Kettel.

SHOT DURING SCUFFLE. St. Paul Saloonman Probably Fatally Injured Early Thursday.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Belmont, the proprietor of a saloon at St. Peter and Exchange streets, was shot, probably fatally, early this morning, while in a place kept by Margaret White, at 247 East Seventh street. Whether it was accidental or not has not been determined.

According to the story told at the place, Belmont was there, with four other men, and they were scuffling. During the scuffle a pistol was discharged, and Belmont was shot in the abdomen.

The police were called and Belmont was taken to Bethesda hospital, where it was said the wound probably is fatal. By the time the police got to the place the other men had been there, had left, and early this morning the police had not been able to find them to get their version of the affair. Belmont is about 28 years old. He has a wife and family.

DEER EATING HIS CROPS. Upper Michigan Farmer Faces a Perplexing Problem.

Munising, Mich., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—John McNally, who is conducting the McDougall farm, five miles east of Munising, is in a perplexing predicament. He reports that deer are raising hob with his crops. Fences offer no barrier to the animals. McNally is tempted to shoot the deer as the only means of ridding the farm of an annoying pest, yet if he does he is liable to arrest for violating the game laws. One yearling deer is in particular a persistent predator. It has become so bad that it continually lurks in the vicinity of the farm, and it can be driven out of the fields with difficulty.

LIKED TRIP ON LAKES. Fargo Man Praises Journey to Head of the Lakes.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—William H. Wright, president of the Red River Valley

Land & Mortgage Co., who has been spending the past few months in the New England states, returned home Tuesday and will spend the greater part of the summer in the vicinity looking after his interests here.

"Fargo and immediate vicinity look good to me," said he. "I have been spending the past four months in the Eastern states, and while conditions there are not what they ought to be, a large number of the mills and factories have recently opened up, and thousands of the old-time employees have been added to the payroll. More and everybody looks for more prosperous times in the future."

From Buffalo to Duluth, made the trip across the Great Lakes on the North West, one of the most palatial steamers known, and I certainly enjoyed every minute of the trip. The many sights that are witnessed on a trip of this kind is certainly a great incentive to a person that is out with the excessive heat of some of the Eastern states, and is one that is not easily or quickly forgotten."

A LASTING EFFECT. This Evidence Should Prove Every Claim Made for Doan's Kidney Pills in Duluth.

Relief from the pains and aches of a bad back is always welcome to every backache sufferer; but to cure a lame, weak or aching back is what's wanted. Curo it so it will stay cured. It can be done. Here's the strongest evidence to prove it:

J. Vaughan of 523 First street west, Duluth, Minn., says: "In the summer of 1898 I sold the people of Duluth, through our local newspapers, of the splendid results I had obtained from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. My trouble was a kidney and bladder disorder, that was painful and annoying, and had clung to me for a considerable time. The kidney secretions were quite irregular and contained a sediment which would not come out in urination. There were dull, heavy pains through the loins, and I was very restless at night, being unable to remain in one position for any length of time. The trouble was becoming worse, when I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I continued taking them until entirely relieved of the affliction. I am glad to say that the cure has been permanent, and will always be pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Says There Was Nothing Sensational About the Affair.

Jacob J. Schulte, who was arrested last Sunday morning in a lonely shack on his brother's claim in Lake county, seventeen miles from the terminus of the Alger-Smith logging road, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment for forgery in the second degree, before Judge Emsign, yesterday afternoon. He will be sentenced later.

Schulte is accused of passing several forged checks in this city last winter and the authorities were looking for him several months before he was finally located on the claim.

Schulte claims there have been some misrepresentations in the accounts of his capture and his previous record. Especially does he criticize the morning paper for its account of his arrest, the story being characterized by Schulte as sensational in order to get a sale for the papers.

Schulte says: "My arrest on Sunday, July 5," says Schulte, "was accomplished in a quiet and respectable manner. I did have a rifle in my cabin and the officers did not come in until I was ready to let them in. They rapped on the door in a respectful manner and told me there were six or seven men outside. I told them I did not care if there were that many dozen."

"When I first woke up I heard a noise like something scratching on my door. I took down my rifle and pumped a cartridge into it. The officers, who were outside, heard the noise and retreated to the brush."

"Sheriff Nelson started to talk to me and, after about a half hour's conversation, I concluded to submit to arrest, knowing who the officers were by name. 'Sheriff Nelson said, 'For God's sake, open the door. The men outside are eating us up alive and it is raining.' This was about 7 o'clock in the morning. I told the officers to wait until I dressed. They waited and I opened the door and let them in. We sat talking for a while, and then they came over to my brother's for breakfast."

"There was no such thing as a dug-out or a tunnel running from outside the cabin, for the purpose of getting out. That statement in the morning paper is false. Neither was I ironed from section 27, 9-24 to Duluth, as that paper stated. I carried about thirty pounds in my pack, and we had as pleasant a time as we could, considering the weather Sunday."

"Nobody along the line was told that I was under arrest. The paper is entirely wrong in stating that I was so near the railroad and kept heavily armed to watch the line. I was heavily armed. As a matter of fact, my cabin was nine miles from the railroad, so I did not need to watch my trails."

"I was never arrested in a barn at Woodland with my wife, after holding a squad of police at bay all day, with a rifle pointed out through a loophole. I was never arrested at any other place in Woodland. The morning paper has done nothing but throw shams at me, and has purposely magnified things and made false statements to help sell papers."

ARE STIRRED UP.
West Enders Hotly Reply to Communication in the Herald.

To the Editor of The Herald:
An article appeared in Tuesday night's Herald, signed by a West end taxpayer, which is so full of absurdities and false statements that we take the liberty, through the columns of your valuable paper, to correct some of the most important ones.

Said taxpayer starts out with praising the school board in its efforts to serve the greatest number. We will neither praise nor criticize the board, but will state the plain, unvarnished truth, and the public can draw their own conclusions.

He says: "At the edge of a sparsely settled district on Tenth street, adjoining Lincoln park is located the frame building of the school board, which is any city but Duluth would be called a good building." Now, Mr. taxpayer, this building has been condemned by all authorities competent to judge of its merits. The health inspector, the fire chief, the health commissioner and the committee of the school board itself have condemned it. It is being used for the housing of school children; it is so cold that it is dangerous to the health of the children to attend there in average winter weather, and on very cold days it cannot be heated at all, and the children have to be sent home. But this taxpayer does not seem to have any confidence in the judgment of our public officials.

This taxpayer does not seem to be well informed as to where the most densely populated section of this district is located, when he states that there are only fifteen houses above Tenth street. He must have traveled at a great speed and in a straight line, when he failed to rub against any more than fifty houses, when, as a matter of fact, there are fifty-three houses between Tenth street and the boulevard and twenty-one above the boulevard, making a total of seventy-four houses above Tenth street in the Mann district, and all these houses, with but few exceptions, contain from one to six children of school age.

At the last meeting of the school board was presented a petition signed by 132 heads of families, this being all the residents of the present Mann district, and not a few of them as this taxpayer claims, representing 200 children of school age, asking the board to erect a building on the present site, and not one asked for a change of location, but, on the contrary, were perfectly satisfied with the present site, but the board, in their great anxiety to serve the greatest number, seemed inclined to favor some location farther down the hill. Perhaps they would follow the suggestions of this one taxpayer and change the location down where sewer and city water could be obtained, which would be at Fourth street, and now the people of the Mann district would be served then can readily be seen. On the present site is a good well with plenty of good water, costing nothing, and the school is connected with the Mann sewer in twenty-third avenue. If moved one or two blocks farther down, it would bring it away from this sewer and another city sewer not any other water could be obtained without great expense, because the location is all rock.

The site picked by the school board, this taxpayer states is an excellent one. We are entirely in the dark as to what size he means. If it has all the necessary requisites as to water, sewer and fire protection, we would be very glad to agree the board to obtain it.

And now, Mr. Taxpayer, next time please sign your name in full and receive all the credit due you for your good suggestions to the citizens of the Mann district. We are also taxpayers, but do not hide ourselves behind anonymous signatures, and we do not state anything but what is borne out by the facts. We have all lived in this district from six to twenty years, and will be glad to furnish all the necessary information which we do not seem to be looking for in the WEST END HILLSIDE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

PASSING OF THE "HORSE DOCTOR"
Name No Longer Applied to the Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. M. H. Reynolds, head of the department of veterinary science at the University of Minnesota, and secretary of the Minnesota state sanitary board, who is in Duluth attending the convention of the Minnesota State Veterinary association, says that horses and cattle are beginning to be considered almost like humans, when it comes to practice of surgery, and that today a veterinary surgeon must be thoroughly learned in medicine before he will be permitted to practice his profession.

"The term of 'horse doctor' has passed," says Dr. Reynolds. "Today a veterinary surgeon must have a three years' college course, must be thoroughly informed in pathology, physiology and medical science as applying to the animal. He is a physician and surgeon and his standing in society has advanced with his advancement in medicine."

"He used to be a horse doctor; today he is a veterinary surgeon. I believe that veterinary science has advanced relatively more rapidly than has medical science."

"We are treating animals today in a thoroughly scientific manner. A man must pass the state board and must be thoroughly informed in his profession before he is allowed to practice. We are holding meetings for the purpose of informing ourselves of the latest theories and securing information on diversified subjects. The meeting of the association are in the interest of scientific research and the advancement of its members in their professions."

NO REVOLUTION IN SPANISH HONDURAS.
Mobile, Ala., July 9.—W. H. Fordyce, one of the leading residents of Spanish Honduras and one of the largest growers of fruit in the country, arrived in the city yesterday after a three and a half days trip from Puerto Cortez, Honduras, and when shown the dispatches from the Central American country, said there is no revolution in Honduras now.

Fordyce says that the people are well pleased with the present government and that ex-President Bonilla is not getting his friends to start an insurrection. Fordyce says that the trouble at Granada, where there are not more than 300 people, is liable to break out at any place, as the people are excited by revolutionists who desire to pillage.

NO SERIOUS OUTBREAK BY SNAKES EXPECTED.

Muskogee, Ok., July 9.—Dana H. Koloway, United States Indian agent, left yesterday for Henrietta, where he will go overland to Hickory Ground and make a federal investigation into the alleged Snake uprising. He will confer with Crazy Snake who, in a measure, is responsible for the uprising and try to induce him to break up the Snake uprising. Up to the present time no overt act has been committed and government officials say that reports are widely exaggerated.

It is not believed that any serious outbreak will occur.

FIRE AT COLLEGE POINT.
New York, July 9.—A loss, estimated at nearly $200,000 was suffered yesterday at College Point, L. I., by a fire which destroyed Zeldens hotel and casino, Dondras' casino and a number of small adjoining buildings. The big factory of the American Hard Rubber company was on fire once, but was saved by the company's own fire brigade.

MAY ENTER THE ST. PAUL RACES

Columbia Aeronauts Not Discouraged by Their Rough Trip.

Chicago, July 9.—Declaring that they may yet decide to start the balloon Columbia in the St. Paul aerial races, July 18, although they are somewhat battered up by their first hard conflict with the barbed-wire fences of the province of Ontario, Charles H. Leichter and Capt. Martin Peterson reached here yesterday. The Columbia, although one of the smallest in the race, proved a staunch craft, and it was her unwillingness to quit that transformed her crew into hospital patients.

Mr. Leichter, the pilot, brought back a ragged scratch along one jawbone, a ripped hand and a foot badly lacerated by barbed wire. Capt. Peterson had a rib fractured and suffered numerous minor cuts and contusions.

In crossing Lake Michigan, the balloon was kept at a low altitude. The course of flight lay almost directly above Benton Harbor, on the Michigan shore, and as they passed over the city, the aeronauts entertained lively apprehensions lest one of the spluttering skyrockets or balloons ignite the gas in their bags.

At Battle Creek, Mich., a message was dropped at 11 o'clock, and half an hour later the ground rope was dropped. They were still sailing low, and on two occasions the drug rope swept the tops of trees. The early morning found them skimming over Lake Huron, at an elevation of approximately 540 feet. The heat of the sun expanded the gas in an alarming fashion, and it became necessary to relax the pressure six times by juggling at the valve. It was this necessity they experienced of sacrificing their buoying power that made it necessary to land. Their first encounter near the earth was an apple tree. They brushed over the first, struck a second and swooped down at an angle of forty-five degrees, straight into a barbed-wire fence.

ENCOURAGING FEATURES

Apparent in the Summer Volume of Iron and Steel Trade.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 9.—The Iron Trade Review says: Although the iron and steel industry is now passing through what is usually regarded the duldest season of the year, trade conditions are not without their encouraging features. The volume of new orders especially for bars and kindred products, is larger than any time since October, and specifications in all finished lines are being more freely received by the mills. Pending the taking of annual inventories and for making repairs, the list of idle plants has temporarily been increased. An exception to the regular summer closing policy has been made in the tin plate trade, owing to the large tonnage booked and the leading interest is now operating 90 per cent of its mills.

The most interesting development in the ore trade is the adoption of a new penalty system on iron ore contracts by several of the leading shippers. The clause which will be incorporated in this season's contracts provides for a concession to the furnace, and a bonus to shippers if the guarantee is exceeded. Ore shipments for June from upper lake ports amounted to 2,585,682 tons, a loss of 3,747,678 tons as compared with June last year. To July 1 the total shipments have been only 2,870,997 tons against 12,655,624 tons during the same period in 1907, a decrease of 9,814,627 tons.

THE TAFT BANNER AT LINCOLN, CUT DOWN.

Lincoln, Neb., July 9.—The Taft banner, stretched across "O" street, near Twelfth, and which has excited the wrath of many Bryan supporters here, was cut down at midnight. The news of the occurrence caused no particular surprise, as threats of such action had been freely made.

The occurrence was not accompanied by any demonstration, as few people were on the streets. The work is believed to have been that of a single person, or at most two, operating from opposite sides of the street.

The wreckage of the banner caught in the telephone and telegraph wires, and is suspended in a limp bundle about ten feet above the street.

SWISHER FOR GOVERNOR.
Charles, W. Va., July 9.—Charles W. Swisher, secretary of state, was nominated for governor on the first ballot by the Republican state convention last night. After the nomination for governor, the convention adjourned until 9 o'clock today, when the nominations for state officers will be completed.

CONVENTION PERFECTS
PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

announced their intention of presenting his name to the convention for vice president. In view of the unwavering refusal of the Gray forces to permit the Delawarean jurist to be considered for second place and ex-Governor Francis' prominence as one of the conservative forces remaining of the Cleveland cabinet, there is a growing sentiment toward substituting his name for Gray as the leading vice presidential candidate. Governor Francis, however, told the delegation he would not run for vice president.

The convention is likely to hold several sessions during the day, with the probability of a night session if necessary for the adoption of the platform, and, in all likelihood, the nomination of presidential standard-bearer.

Delegates Appear Slowly.
Denver, July 8.—Yesterday's stormy proceedings at the morning session of the convention and the late session of last night had a marked effect on the delegates today as they were slow in reaching their seats.

At 11 o'clock the hour set for convening scarcely 100 delegates were in their places.
The hall began to fill more rapidly after 11 o'clock, each entrance pouring its hundreds into the auditorium, which already had begun to feel the effect of the midsummer heat outside. Anticipating a long session, many of the delegates doffed their coats soon after arriving, and a shirt sleeve convention was in prospect.

During the wait for Chairman Bell to call the assembly to order before relinquishing his gavel, Congressman Henry D. Clayton of Alabama, the permanent chairman, the cowboy band, both for endurance and for the quality of its music, kept up a lively fusillade of music.

Bell Begins Hammering.
At 11:30 o'clock Chairman Bell began the ten minutes of hammering with his gavel, which he has thus far found necessary in calling the convention to order. He kept up a monotonous hammering like that of a cooper driving a hoop on a barrel, but, after a time he saw it up and retired. Then he came back to the front on another hoop and followed this with a third and fourth.

A third period of rapping, however, began to produce some effect, and the chairman was able to make himself heard.
At 11:40 the convention was quiet, and prayer was made by Rabbi Samuel Koch of Seattle, Wash.

When the prayer was concluded, Senator L. S. Overman of North Carolina, who favors Johnson for President.

For the privilege of presiding over its deliberations, he declared with emphasis:

"This is a Democratic year."
When he came to that part of his address dealing with the trusts, Mr. Clayton omitted a large paragraph covering a message sent to congress by President Roosevelt on the subject of trust regulation.

"I will not weary you by reading this," he said. "You can read it in the newspapers."
The task of delivering his address was telling somewhat. He is a speaker of emphatic delivery, and his face was streaming with perspiration and his collar was rapidly wet with sweat.

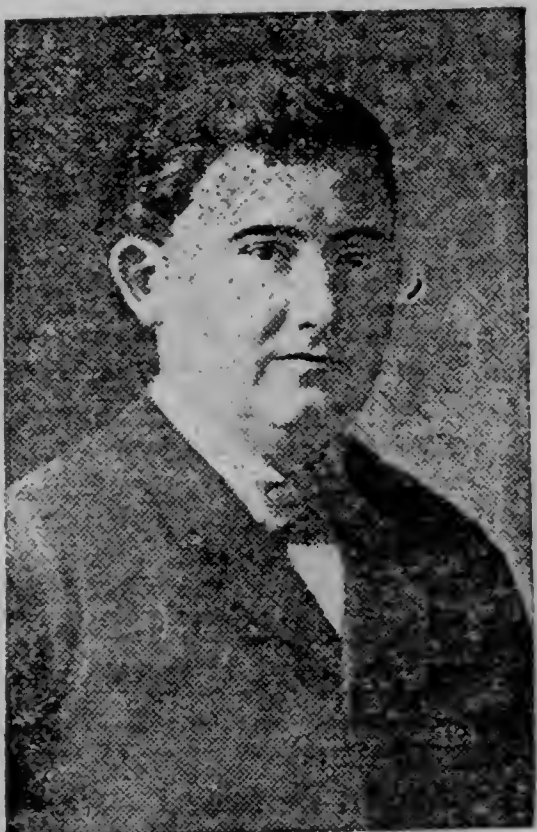

Under the constant flow of the perspiration that drenched his face, his energy, however, was unimpaired and he continued steadily save for occasional periods during which he wiped his eyes glasses and mopped his forehead.

As he approached the end of his speech, Mr. Clayton read more and more rapidly, with the result that he was unable to deliver his address as he had planned to do.

This was due, however, to his own desire, and was not caused by any sign of inattention on the part of the convention.

Loud cheers of approval greeted Chairman Clayton as he concluded, and the applause was continued for several minutes.

After a speech by Martin W. Littleton of New York, the convention adjourned until 11 a. m. today, after an hour's acrimonious debate over the report of the committee on credentials, one snag had been removed from the channel through which the candidacy of William J. Bryan must pass on the way to his nomination for the presidency of the United States. By a vote announced as 615 to 387 the convention rejected the minority report from the committee on credentials and adopted that ator McCrory of Kentucky presented the report of the committee on permanent organization. It recommended Henry D. Clayton of Alabama for permanent chairman, Urey Woodson of Kentucky for secretary, and John I. Martin of Missouri as sergeant-at-arms. In other respects the temporary organization was made permanent.

BIRD S. COLER.
Prominent New York Democrat.

The report was adopted.
Chairman Clayton, as soon as he was seen advancing toward the platform, was cheered to the echo, and the uproar was redoubled as he was introduced to the convention.

Three little girls in red, white and blue dresses were lifted to the platform before Mr. Clayton began to speak. In their arms were large bunches of American beauty roses that almost smothered the little tots.

The roses were presented to the permanent chairman amid great cheering, and then one by one the children were lifted to the desk and kissed by the speaker.

Cheering and laughter continued during the pretty little ceremony, and a gale of incense swept the hall when some one, in the midst of the kissing, called out: "Hobson, Hobson."

The little girls were Misses Irene, Catherine and Ada Smith, all of Denver.

Mr. Clayton called out first applause when, after thanking the convention of the majority of the committee, the principal practical result of which was to unseat the group of contested delegates from Philadelphia hostile to the candidacy of Mr. Bryan, and, more particularly, to the interests of National Committeeman James M. Guffey of Pittsburgh. In addition to this, the report as adapted added four to the representation from Oklahoma and thus four to the total strength of the convention. These four are Bryan's.

To how great an extent this vote really represents the ultimate anti-Bryan strength in the convention was the interesting and highly important question debated on this morning. It requires a two-thirds vote to nominate, and 387 is comfortably more than one-third, 1,008. The supplanting of the ten Guffey men by ten Bryan men makes a net difference of twenty and the addition of four Bryan men from Oklahoma would increase the gain to twenty-four, but even that would leave the anti-Bryan strength more than the one-third necessary to prevent his nomination if this vote had been on the question of nomination.

Much Uncertainty.
There was therefore enough uncertainty about it from any point of view to intensify the interest.

The platform was still unfinished when the weary subcommittee, having it in charge, went to bed close to midnight, expecting to resume work on it at 8:30 this morning. Consideration of the various planks was subdivided yesterday and subcommittee worked all day on the several subjects with the result that at midnight, while the text of the platform was to be returned to the committee on resolutions by the subcommittee, the general times having been decided upon, several of the most important planks were in final form, so far as the subcommittee is concerned, and it seemed likely that the platform in full could be reported to the convention sometime, perhaps late today.

With the division of strength in the convention between the Bryan and anti-Bryan people the subject of so much speculation, the discussion of vice presidential candidates continues in the background.

Every indication in the early hours today promised, or rather threatened a very hot day. There was a bite to the heat, even before the sun was fairly above the horizon, that made the shade of buildings grateful. Ventilation and comfort in the convention hall will have a real test this day.

Good Bread
And How It Is Made

HAVE you had one of the little sample loaves of bread Miss Bishop is making at our bread-making demonstration?

If you will call we will take pleasure in presenting you with one.

And at this demonstration you will learn many things about the Universal Bread Maker that will be of value to you. How simple the machine is in its construction—how it mixes and kneads the bread in three minutes without touching the hands to the dough—how thoroughly and quickly it does its work—and how easy it is to clean.

And one of the machines will have dough in it so that you can see for yourself how easily it turns.

Several hundred loaves will probably be baked tomorrow. Come in and get one of them and see what really fine bread it is.

Program for Tomorrow and Saturday:

9 a. m., 10 a. m., 11 a. m.
A quantity of dough equal to 10 or 12 regular 5c loaves will be mixed up in a No. 8 "Universal" Bread Maker. This will make 50 of the little souvenir loaves.
Everybody should see it from the time the water and flour, yeast, etc., are put in until it is set away to rise, about 3-5 minutes.
Everybody should turn it a little just to convince himself that it turns easily.

3 p. m.
The "Universal" Cake Maker will be demonstrated in a very unique and interesting way. The following are the chief ingredients that will be put into the cake maker and turned for 1½ minutes: 6 eggs, ¼ lb. butter, 1½ cups sugar, 2 cups flour.
No beating separately. When baked in about 25 minutes you will be glad you are there.

4 p. m. to 6 p. m.
The demonstrator will be busy doing up the souvenir loaves and explaining the various points about the "Universal." You will be surprised that there is nothing to clean up. She uses no bread board.
About 200 or 300 little loaves are baked daily. The new No. 2 Bread Maker is now ready, $1.35 only.

It was to have a trolley line, a pathway for pedestrians and roads for every conceivable variety of vehicle except automobiles, so that nothing would get in the way of the speed of the train, and the pleasure of those who wished to travel in more leisurely fashion.

But this road still exists in dreamland, the home of many other projects of freak laws.

CORN AT $10 AN EAR.
In Iowa They Raise That Kind and Buy It in Themselves.

Ten dollars seems a pretty big price to pay for just one ear of corn which even Iowa farmers raise corn which brings even more than that. It is not uncommon for a man out there to raise corn which he cannot afford to own.

Impossible as this sounds, it is true, and the explanation is that prize ears of seed corn, become the property of the agricultural courses where they are exhibited. They are then sold at auction, and the man who raises them can afford to bid them.

That was precisely what happened to an Iowa farmer named McCulloch not long ago. He entered a good many ears of corn in the competition held at Marshalltown under the management of the state agricultural college. Over 3,000 ears were entered and one of McCulloch's won first prize.

The prize was a $150 water supply system, so the farmer probably felt that he would afford to bid in the prize ear for $150. But when it came to buying back eighty other ears which he had entered he had to let them go to others.

Those eighty ears brought $24.50, so that, provided he could get a good many ears of corn for what he actually brought, $25, he could have bought his water supply system and had $6 left.

G. F. Howard won $100 with a single ear of corn in the same competition and paid $10 for the ear to get it back. For ten other ears which he entered he had to bid up to $14.75 for the lot to get them.

Thirteen bushels of the corn, that was entered brought an average of $39.50 a bushel. Iowa farmers have waked up to the importance of improving their crops by improving their seed.

The consequence is that Iowa raises the finest corn in the country and is constantly improving the quality and the quantity to the acre.

IN TERRA HAUTE.
There is just one city in this country where new guests in the two leading hotels drink water, just for the fun of it. That is Terre Haute, Ind.

It is the joy of life of the initiated to invite an unsuspecting visitor to the hotel to eat. There is always an expectant look on the face of the host as the guest settles himself, and the host who does not get his looked for laugh is sure, says the New York Sun.

As the guest settles himself suddenly there descends by his ear a stream of water like a shot a stream of water. Most people jump, according to the custom, originated nobody seems to know, but Terre Haute always refers to it with something like pride.

For the colored gentleman who is the stream always safely hits the drinking glass, and as the guest rallies and looks up for the source of the stream there is a grinning colored gentleman holding high something like a small tea kettle with a pretty long spout. The high-spirited person looks the more gratified the person looks.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION NAMES BRYAN AS PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE ON FIRST BALLOT

JOHNSON IS GIVEN A GREAT TRIBUTE BY THE DELEGATES

CONGRESSMAN WINFIELD S. HAMMOND,
Who Made the Nominating Speech for Governor Johnson.

HAMMOND NAMES JOHNSON Governor of Minnesota Placed in Nomination for the Presidency.

Denver, July 10.—The speech nominating Governor John A. Johnson for president was made by Congressman Winfield S. Hammond of the Second Minnesota district. Mr. Hammond said:

From each of the great galaxy of commonwealths constituting the Union, come the delegates of an earnest and impatient people—earnest in their determination that public wrongs shall be speedily righted, that corrupt practices shall cease and that civic righteousness shall prevail—impatient at the policy of delay and postponement pursued by the political party now in control of all departments of the Federal government, and impatient at the frivolous excuses and apologies of the Republican party for its inaction and its neglect to perfect necessary legislation.

The power to defeat progressive and reformatory measures favored by the great majority of the men of the land has been lodged in the hands of a coterie of reactionary politicians who exercise it to further partisan ends and to serve special interests, regardless alike of the needs of the nation and the demands of the people. Against this deliberate delay in the performance of public duty, against political corruption, against the entrenchments of lawless wealth and against the deliverance of the rights of the people and of their chosen representatives into the possession of a triumvirate out of sympathy with the people, the Democratic party sets its face and prepares for a mighty conflict. Again proclaiming for all equality, for none, special favor, it enters upon the contest with the consciousness of being right and with the assurance of being victorious.

THE PROPER CANDIDATE.

Here in this beautiful city of the mountains have assembled the delegates who are to select the leader in this campaign of the people to recover their rights and privileges.

Whatever dissensions there may be in our ranks, whatever differences of opinion may prevail, to be worthy of the task before us we must choose our leader with calmness and deliberation, and when he is chosen we must follow him with zeal and with strength, mindful only of the great purposes we seek to accomplish. If there is one in our party great enough and good enough to be made our candidate, upon whom all within our ranks can agree and around whom no internal strife has raged, one who can better than any other unite all the factions and all the divisions of the Democratic party upon a platform enunciating the demands of the people and dedicated to them, it is wise and it is our duty to name him as our candidate.

A MESSAGE AND A RECORD.

The great North Star state, midway between the two oceans and at the head of the great valley of the Mississippi, comes here with a message to deliver and a record to disclose. She has a son whom she loves and has signally honored, and she cannot better aid in the great work that lies before us than in offering to us as a leader that honored citizen of the state.

Thousands upon thousands of the men and women of this country were born in other lands and under other flags. The opportunities to be found in this land, the broad principles upon which our form of government rests, the

STATEMENT BY BRYAN

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 10.—The following statement was made by W. J. Bryan, when at 4:34 a. m. he received the announcement of his nomination as the candidate of the Democratic party for president:

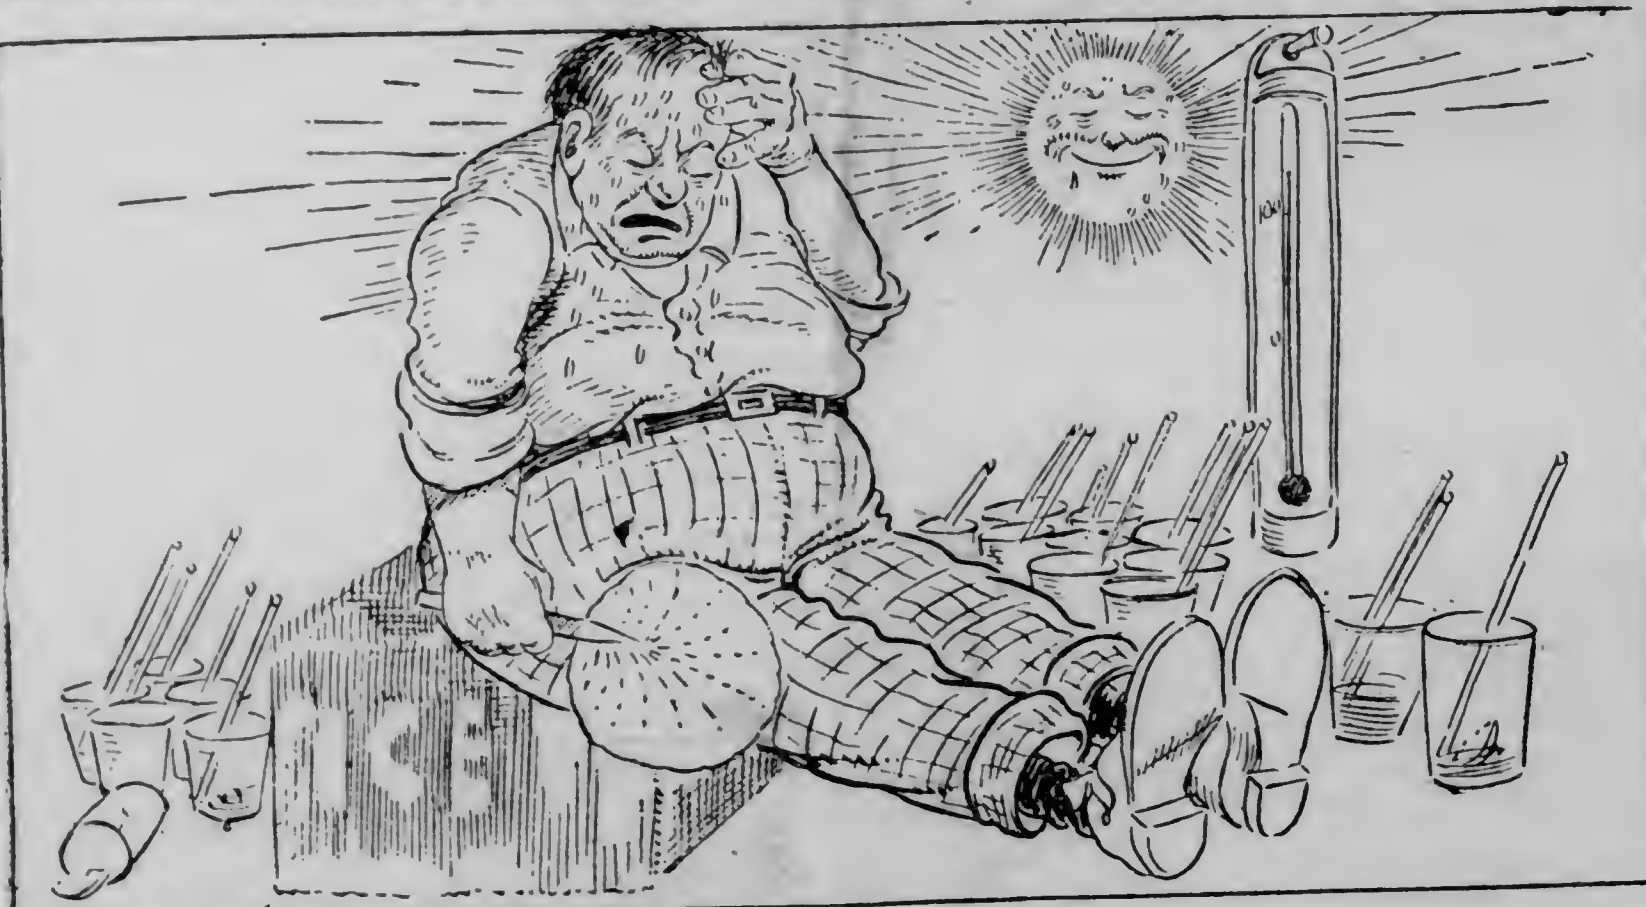

"The presidency is the highest official position in the world, and no one occupying it can afford to have his views upon public questions biased by personal ambition. Recognizing this responsibility to God and his obligation to his countrymen, he should enter upon the discharge of his duties with singleness of purpose. Believing that one can best do this when he is not planning for a second term, I announce now, as I have on former occasions, that, if elected, I shall not be a candidate for re-election.

"This is a nomination as purely from the people as can be and, if elected, (Continued on page 7, sixth column.)

EXTRA! KERN OF INDIANA VICE PRESIDENT

Denver, July 10.—John W. Kern of Indiana was nominated for vice president, by acclamation.

Convention Hall, Denver, July 10.—The Democratic convention was called to order at 1:40 by Chairman Clayton, and the nominating speeches for a candidate for vice president began at once. On the call of states, Alabama yielded to Indiana, and Delegate Marshall nominated John W. Kern of that state. He was followed by Governor Thomas of Colorado, who presented the name of Charles A. Towne of New York. J. J. Walsh of Connecticut presented Archibald McNeill, Delegate Hill of Georgia presented the name of Clarke Howell.

Fred Kern of Illinois stated that, at John Mitchell's request, he would not name Mitchell.

State Senator Lee of Maryland seconded the nomination of Towne. Minnesota seconded McNeill, Nevada seconded the nomination of Towne. M. A. Hildreth of North Dakota seconded the nomination of Kern.

Irving L. Handy of Delaware read a telegram from Judge Gray, declining to permit the presentation of his name. The chair then recognized Charles A. Towne, who took the rostrum. He thanked his friends and released them from any further obligation on his behalf.

Convention Hall, Denver, July 10.—At 1 o'clock, the hour at which the convention adjourned this morning, not one-fourth of the delegates were in their seats, and they were coming in slowly into the hall.

Today the heat was even greater than yesterday. The public, however, seemed to have as much interest as ever in the convention, and the galleries were packed long before any considerable number of delegates had arrived.

Among the first delegations to reach the convention was that of Texas, and when L. Irving Handy of Delaware, who last night placed George Gray in nomination, walked into the hall, the Texans, who had prepared a banner bearing the words, "Texas is for Gray for vice president," pounced upon him.

It was arranged that Charles S. Ball of the Lone Star state should make a speech in favor of Judge Gray.

The Virginia delegates, after their arrival in the convention hall, declared that they would cast a complimentary vote on the first ballot for William G. Conrad of Montana. There was, however, a strong feeling among the Virginians in favor of Charles A. Towne of New York, when it came to serious work.

Insist on Judge Gray.

The Texans, in their enthusiasm for Judge Gray, encountered strong discouragement when they met Josiah Marvel, the campaign manager of the Delaware man. He gathered a number of them about him in the aisle and urged them to cease their work in behalf of Judge Gray.

"I beg of you," he said, "that you will not make it necessary for me to get up in the convention and declare that Judge Gray will not take the place. He will not do it. I tell you positively that he will not take the nomination if it is offered to him and, in my opinion, he will not take the place if he is elected."

The Texans, however, remained unconvinced and refused to discontinue their efforts to bring about the nomination of Judge Gray.

Denver, Colo., July 10.—William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska was nominated for the third time for the office of the president of the United States by the Democratic national convention at 3:40 this morning, amid scenes of frenzied enthusiasm. The result came after an all-night session, which was kept in a constant state of turmoil up to the culminating moment, when the Nebraska leader was proclaimed the choice of the convention as the Democratic standard-bearer.

The nomination was made on the first and only ballot, the vote standing—William J. Bryan, 892 1/2; Governor J. A. Johnson, 46; Judge Gray, 59 1/2.

Absent or not voting, 8.

Wild Enthusiasm.

The announcement of the vote was the signal for a wild demonstration, equaling in turbulence, if not in duration, the record-breaking display on Wednesday afternoon, greeting the first mention of Mr. Bryan's name in the convention.

The scene within the amphitheater at the moment the nomination was made was one of stirring animation.

One saloonkeeper, who paid up yesterday, claimed that he has been losing money right along, but so long as he has his license fee up he is bound to stick and see whether business improves or not.

WOMAN BRANDS SON
AS THE MESSIAH.

New York, July 10.—Asserting that her 6-year-old son, Charles Goodsell, was the Messiah, his mother, Mrs. Grace Goodsell, branded his forehead and throat with a red-hot iron. The child was rescued early today from the religion-crazed woman, and both were taken to the Bellevue hospital, where the mother told the police and hospital authorities that she had branded the boy, whom she believed to be the long-looked-for Messiah, so that he would be known, marked distinct from others for life. The police charge that the woman also tried to kill her mother, with whom she lived, and herself. The little boy, though terribly burned, will recover. The two women were placed in the psychopathic ward for observation.

ITALIAN POLICE RAID DEN OF AGED SORCERESS.

Perugia, Italy, July 10.—In a house hidden in a maze of alleys in a suburb of this city strange ceremonies, it is reported, take place and mysterious rites are celebrated. Each case was frequented by women of the suburb and now and again by some daim who had been crossed in love or some wife who was jealous of her husband. The police heard vague rumors of the proceedings, but had not until now succeeded in probing the mystery. This week a chauffeur, who was accompanying a group of women, stopped his automobile opposite the mysterious house, the doors of which were closed. The car had, apparently, broken down. The chauffeur and the group, who were actually police agents in disguise, left their machine and knocked on the door to ask for a bit of fire. The door was opened by a woman, who, suspecting nothing, was going in search of the desired implement, when the two men held her back, entered the house and shut the door in her face. Strange and terrible was the aspect of the interior. The walls were hung with mysterious symbols, human skulls and crossed bones; bottles, large and small; swords of strange shapes, heads of dogs, cats and other animals; and, in fact, all the traditional implements of medieval witchcraft. A thorough search was made and several books were found containing a quantity of various incantations to the evil one. The sorceress, a woman 50 years of age, with the money she had wheeled from her credulous clients, was arrested and carried away in the motor car. Her trial will give rise to some interesting revelations with regard to the dark doings of witchcraft in Perugia.

SOCIALIST MINERS

Trying to Gobble Up All Offices in the Union.

Pottsville, Pa., July 10.—Notwithstanding that many among the leaders of the United Mine Workers are making concerted efforts to suppress the movement among members of the organization who are allied with the Socialist party to put up candidates of their political faith for the offices of this, the Ninth district of the union, the project, it is said, goes on with the determination to succeed. Some few weeks ago the names of a number of Socialists were mentioned in this connection, and there followed an immediate denial in public print that any such movement was in progress.

But that the Socialists are actively at work along that line is known to many inside and outside of the union. At a meeting of Ashland local, No. 1517, United Mine Workers, the name of Edward J. Lowrey, a member of the local, and the candidate said to be slated by the Socialists for district president, was presented for the office now held by John Fahey, and the endorsement was given to Lowrey.

There was opposition to his endorsement, because of his pronounced Socialist views, but it was important, and his friends succeeded. Lowrey is now working among other locals for that purpose, and if he succeeds in securing the endorsement of five locals in the district, he will be eligible for the nomination and will oppose John Fahey for the office.

Contractor Johnson Must Move Barker Flats
Before Evening.

Puts Up $800 Bond as Guarantee of Good Faith.

John A. Johnson, the local contractor, who bought the Barker flats, at the corner of Fifth avenue west and Second street, must have the building moved off the courthouse site by 7 o'clock this evening or forfeit $800.

The courthouse contractors and the contractors who are changing the sewer system refused to permit Mr. Johnson to move the building west from its present site, on Second street, unless he would put up a certified check and sign a contract to be off the grounds by 7 o'clock Friday evening.

Mr. Johnson has put up a certified check for $800 with Mr. Erickson, superintendent of the work on the courthouse for Langquist & Lileley, and a surety bond for $800 with the sewer contractors.

The courthouse contractors wanted Mr. Johnson to move the building up Fifth avenue to Third street, but he refused to go out that way. He could not move the building in any other direction, on account of the work in progress, unless the other contractors would stop operations, so they were in a position to require a bond as a guarantee of his good faith in getting the building out of the way.

It is claimed that the delay in the removal of the Barker flats has cost between $5,000 and $8,000 already. The sewer contractors are also said to be likely to take a loss by reason of the delay in the removal of the building. Mr. Johnson paid $1,000 for the building. He has removed the brick veneer and cut the building in two parts. The eastern part is partially turned around and ready to be moved out on Second street.

Most contractors, it is said, with $800 up as a forfeit, would have worked night to get things started, but Mr. Johnson did not worry. He believes that he will get the old structure off the courthouse grounds well within the time limit today, and he probably will unless some accident occurs to cause further delay. House owners are rather uncertain and slow process at the best, and there is the possibility that Contractor Johnson may lose his $800.

Langquist & Lileley are removing the dirt from the site at a rapid rate, and it will be necessary to do some blasting before satisfactory progress can be made on the northwest corner. The building on that location has thus far prevented the blasting, and the sewer contractors are unable to uncover the water and sewer pipes there until the building is out of the way.

The last will and testament of Frederick W. Riesland has been found and offered in probate court for filing. The estate has been in the probate court ever since Mr. Riesland's death, the heirs being unable to find the will. The instrument is a rather unique one in part. The decedent wants his son at Spokane to be appointed administrator, "without bonds or action of the court or the interference of any other person." The decedent has a son residing in this city, D. W. Riesland, a chiropractor.

CITY WILL LAY DUST WITH TAR

The Experiment Will be Tried on First Street.

The city is to experiment with tar as a means of laying the dust. The government has carried on many experiments along this line, and has learned that a very thin coating of tar keeps the dust down for weeks, and also hardens the surface of the road. The tar will first be tried on First street, where there is macadam pavement, and if it proves successful, it probably will be placed on all the macadam streets of the city. A half gallon of tar is used to the square yard, and it is declared that one application lasts a year. It is applied on a hot day and the tar is heated first to a temperature of 200 degrees.

FOREST FIRES IN MAINE.
Portland, Me., July 10.—Serious forest fires are raging in various sections of this state and last night much property was menaced by the flames. The woods are dry from lack of rain and all efforts to check the fires seem fruitless. There is an irregular circle of fire and smoke about Brunswick. At Wells the front of the fire is five miles in length, and thousands of acres have been burned over. Still other fires last night seriously threatened the town of Newcastle. The fire line there was fully three miles long and extended over 1,000 acres.

PLAYS FOR BIG STAKE

Wherein Senator Owen Figures.

Goes Back to Time of Original Choctaw Allotments.

Muskogee, Okla., July 10.—Residents of Oklahoma having knowledge of the transaction are watching with interest the outcome of litigation between Senator Robert L. W. Owen and the heirs of late Charles F. Winton, which will come before the United States court of claims. If Senator Owen should be successful it is estimated that he would be a beneficiary to the amount of several million dollars. The United States department of justice, however, will endeavor to defeat the claims of Senator Owen.

The prize at stake is a portion of the per capita tribal wealth of certain Mississippi Choctaw Indians. These Indians did not move to Indian Territory with the main body of their tribe when the latter migrated westward beyond the Mississippi. They remained in the South, where they retained a per capita share of land. When the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribal lands in Indian Territory were divided for allotment and the tribal wealth apportioned, these Mississippi Choctaws made inquiry to learn if they would be entitled to a per capita share and found that they would. It is estimated that the value of these per capita holdings is close to $15,000 each.

Where Owen Enters the Affair.
It is here that Senator Owen appeared. He formed a partnership with Charles F. Winton, and together they represented to Mississippi Choctaws living in South Carolina that for one-half the value of their per capita share of the tribal wealth in Indian Territory they would undertake to obtain allotments without requiring these Mississippi Choctaws to emigrate to Indian Territory. A contract was made with 168 Mississippi Choctaws, to whom allotments of rich land were finally awarded.

The federal government never sanctioned these contracts, nor conceded to them any validity.
Winton died, and in 1895 or 1896 his heirs got remission of Congress to have their claims against the Mississippi Choctaws adjudicated in the United States court of claims.

Aided Nobody Except Owen.
Subsequently Owen purchased the Winton interests in these claims, as shown by his evidence in the department of Washington. At the last session of Congress certain persons were allowed to intervene in the suit in the court of claims. In the conference committee these claims against the Mississippi Choctaws were made a lien upon both their lands and such moneys as were due them from the tribal estate.

This provoked much remonstrance from the Indians, but they were unable to divest Owen of this advantage. Department officials, who knew nothing of the granting of this lien until it appeared in the bill, were displeased. One of them asked Senator Owen why the provision was inserted, and the latter is quoted as having said that it was done without his knowledge, a statement not altogether satisfactory to the official, who looked upon Senator Owen as the only person who would derive benefit from its insertion.

Got Rich Out of the Indians.
Senator Owen has been highly successful in his dealings with tribal governments. A year or two ago he obtained a fee of considerably more than $50,000 from the Cherokee government, for whom he appeared in the capacity of attorney. The court of claims was criticised by members of Congress in Washington last winter for its liberality in allowing large fees in Indian matters. Senator Owen defended the court in a speech in the senate.

BRIDEGROOM IN HANDCUFFS.

Bids Bride Farewell and Goes to Serve Out Sentence.

Paris, July 10.—An extraordinary scene at a wedding where the bridegroom married in handcuffs has just been witnessed at St. Martin, Ile de Re. Theophile Fray, aged 34, had recently been caught in burglary and sentenced to ten years' hard labor. His fiancée, Alexandrine Sadelman, aged 19, was heartbroken at the news and declared that nothing would induce her to give up her sweetheart.
She accordingly petitioned the authorities to allow the marriage to take place at once. Her request was granted, and the prisoner was conducted by four detectives to the mairie, where his bride and her friends were awaiting him.
After the ceremony he bade her farewell for ten years, and was taken back to his cell, while the bride returned to her parents' home.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Crabbe in Lawsuit.

Chicago, July 10.—Hugh Crabbe, formerly confidential secretary of the Leiter heirs, opened his case before Municipal Judge Heap, with a hot cross-fire at Joe Leiter, who recently married Miss Williams in Washington, and is now abroad on his honeymoon.
It is the contention of Crabbe, and the basis of his suit for $3,800 wages, due from the Leiter heirs, that he was dismissed at the instance of Joe Leiter, who was charged for personal and private reasons.
Crabbe wants to show that Mr. Leiter charged the estate with bills spent for private purposes, and that he discharged him because he (Crabbe) had to stop the alleged wrong actions.

WEST END ARE READY TO REPORT

School Directors Have Investigated Horace Mann Site.

Matter Will be Finally Settled at Special Meeting.

The dispute over the Horace Mann school at Twenty-third avenue, west and Tenth street, seems in a fair way to be settled finally, as Directors Moe and Stevens, who were instructed by the board of education to make a thorough canvass of both the Mann and Lincoln school districts to ascertain whether the people really want the new schoolhouse located on the present site or not, have notified the other members of the board of education that they are ready to report and are willing to have the special meeting of the board called at any time.

The school directors will meet either late this afternoon or some time tomorrow to discuss the question that has been causing so much agitation among the residents of the West end hillside district and the members of the board.

Alfred Peter Olson and other members of the West End Hillside Improvement club are bitterly opposed to the erection of a new schoolhouse on any other site but that occupied by the present building, with which they are so much dissatisfied.

It was to give the West end school directors an opportunity to interview every voter of the Mann district and those in the Lincoln district whose children would go to the new school, that the board deferred action at the last regular meeting.

What the report of Directors Moe and Stevens will be will develop at the board session tonight or tomorrow, and it is quite likely that upon what they think will depend the location of the new Horace Mann school, which is to be built this summer at a probable cost of $25,000 or $25,000.

STAMPS OUT SMALLPOX

Only Cases Now Are in the Detention Hospital.

Outside of the detention hospital, there is not a case of smallpox in Duluth, and other contagious diseases have been almost entirely stamped out. The last quarantine sign was taken down yesterday, and Health Commissioner Patton has issued orders saying that no more smallpox cases will be allowed to remain in Duluth except in the detention hospital.

Hieretofore it has been the custom to quarantine houses where the occupants desired to have the sick remain there, and the patients were not compelled to go to the detention hospital if they did not want to. The process of establishing quarantine has proven unsatisfactory. The number of cases at the detention hospital is smaller now than for several months past, and it is believed the disease will be entirely stamped out in Duluth within the next two or three weeks.

Yesterday was a good day for the health department all the way through. Quarantine was lifted in five diphtheria cases, five smallpox cases and one scarlet fever case. Diphtheria is now well under control, and the number of cases is decreas-ing night and day. The same holds true of scarlet fever. Only a few cases of the latter disease are now under quarantine in the city.

NEW CAPTAIN ENDS LIFE.

New Haven, Conn., July 10.—A cablegram received here brings word of the suicide in the Philippines of Capt.
James Wallace Broatch, U. S. M. C., and a Yale graduate, class of 1891. No particulars have been received, but acquaintances here say that Capt.

Broatch had long brooded over differences with brother officers, growing out of his efforts to put an end to hazing at West Point, together with the solitude and monotony of service in the Philippines.

$30 black suits, now $15. "Fitwell."

GRAY SENDS CONGRATULATIONS.

Wilmington, July 10.—Upon being informed of the nomination of Mr. Bryan, for president, this morning, Judge George Gray, sent the following telegram: "Hon. W. J. Bryan, Lincoln, Nebr., 'Accept my hearty congratulations. George Gray.'"

INDIANS WITHDRAW GUARDS.

Washington, July 10.—Reporting on an investigation by himself and Mr.
Wright, the commissioner to the five civilized tribes, Agent Kelsey at Muskogee, Okla., today advised the Indian bureau that the crazy Snake Indian faction in session at Henrietta, near Muskogee, have withdrawn their armed guards.

SLASHES THROAT AND CUTS WRISTS

Herman Nelson of Hal-lock Kills Himself in Crookston Jail.

Crookston, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—This morning, at the city jail, Capt. Vonderbeck was notified by Sever Cliffgard, a prisoner in the jail, that another prisoner had committed suicide and, upon entering a rear cell, found the dead body of Herman Nelson of Hallock lying on the bunk, with his throat slashed from ear to ear and the arteries in both wrists cut.

He had been dead about three hours.
Nelson applied for a bed at the jail at 9:30 o'clock last night. He complained of being ill and was taken to a physician, who did not believe there was much the matter with him. His brother at Hallock was telephoned to, but replied that he could not help him and would not go good for his hospital bill. Nelson was looked up again. He made no outcry or struggle. It is supposed he was recovering from a spree.
He was single, 30 years of age and had been a well-known resident of Hal-lock for years.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

OFFICER IN RACING BAG

Uncle Sam to Have Representative in Big Balloon Flight.

Lieut. Meade of Marine Corps Going in St. Paul Contest.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States government has notified the Aero Club of the Northwest that it will send an officer to St. Paul to attend the big international balloon race, which will be held at Lexington park on the afternoon of July 18. Lieut. J. J. Meade, United States marine corps, who was in one of the balloons that competed in the Chicago races on July 4, will be Uncle Sam's representative at the local meet, and will probably be a passenger in the basket of the United States, of Minneapolis, Dick Ferris' big racing bag.

Some trouble was experienced in inducing the Canadian authorities to allow the United States, of Minneapolis, to be returned from Canada.

The Ferris bag landed in Canada after its flight from Chicago, and the Canadian customs officers immediately pounced upon the balloon. Yesterday, Mr. Ferris and L. N. Scott were compelled to go before a local notary, and formidable looking documents were signed and forwarded to Canada for the benefit of King Edward's officials. The balloon is now on the way to St. Paul, not in the air this time, but via a railroad train. Word was received by the local Aero Club yesterday that the monster ship of the air will surely be in the big race, if not more.

The fact that both St. Paul and Minneapolis have entries in the flight has aroused much local interest in the meet, and there is keen rivalry between Mr. Scott and Mr. Ferris as to the respective merits of their air racing machines. Unusual preparations will be made to accommodate a big crowd at Lexington park on July 18.

MADELINE ISLAND BERRIES.

Nice Luscious Ones Grow Along Lake Superior.

Ashland, Wis., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. C. Chambers, a well-known pioneer farmer of Madeline island, has within the last day or so picked 100 quarts of strawberries on his farm near La Pointe. They are the finest looking berries that have been seen in this county. Mr. Chambers is developing a farm on the island, which will, within the next few years, be bringing him in very satisfactory returns from the fruit. The Press has tested a sample of these same berries, and knows that they are good.

FRIEND AND MONEY GONE.

Tourist on Freight Train Gets Rude Shock.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Jackson, colored, made complaint to the police last last night that he had been robbed of $22 while aboard a Northern Pacific freight train which arrived in this city shortly after midnight. Tuesday, he asserts that the theft was committed by a man named Alex Johnson, also colored, who has been his friend for several years. Jackson was unable to give any information as to the whereabouts of his friend. The two got onto the train in Northeast Minneapolis, and were bound for the West. Shortly after, Jackson fell asleep. When he awoke in this city he found both his friend and money were missing.

STAGE HOLDUP DRAWING CARD

Limit of Thrillers Proposed at Grand Forks Coming Fair.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Probably the greatest attraction ever introduced at a fair in the entire Northwest has been engaged for the North Dakota International exposition, to be given in Grand Forks July 23, 29, 30 and 31. The feature number a daring holdup of a stagecoach by the Indians, with a rescue performed by cowboys, which will take place each and every evening of the exposition, on the race track directly in front of the huge grandstand.

A great herd of cow ponies, right off the ranges of the Black Hills, will be at the fair for the use of the cowboys in putting on this big attraction, and Indians of the first blood will also be there to take part in the number.

The holdup takes place on the wide race track, just in front of the stand.

The stagecoach will be seen tearing along at a high rate of speed, when suddenly a band of Indians appear on the scene, bringing the coach to a stop and ordering all occupants out.

In the meantime a party of cowboys loom in sight, attack the bandits and rescue the stagecoach and its treasure.

CHEESE WAS VERY SHARP.

It Contained Pin Which Lodged in Woman's Throat.

Moorehead, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Robert Tufts came near being the victim of a rather serious accident Tuesday, and she was saved from it by the merest chance. Mrs. Tufts ate a small piece of cheese that lay upon a plate on the sideboard. Shortly afterward she experienced a little difficulty with her throat. As the day progressed the pain increased, and in the evening while Mrs. Tufts was in the kitchen, she was suddenly seized by a sharp pain in her throat, and she was unable to breathe. She was immediately taken to the hospital, where it was found that a pin had lodged in her throat.

CAMPBELL KEEPS CHILDREN.

Grand Forks Man Wins in Fight Over Control of Offspring.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. F. Templeton has decided that Mrs. T. W. Campbell is not a fit person to have possession of her two children, and that the father, T. W. Campbell, a piano tuner, who recently created a sensation by splitting the children away from the mother, and taking them to Cavalier, N. D., is the proper person to look after them. The court made this ruling in denying the application of the mother, who sought an order of the court compelling Campbell to surrender the children. The brief filed by Campbell's attorneys in the case was full of sensational accusations, the woman of having improper relations with more than one well known Grand Forks man.

It was after a sensational row with his wife that Campbell, who found her in an ice cream parlor with another man, kidnapped his two children and took them to Cavalier. His wife had the police and authorities of towns all over this section of the state, ham before they were located at Cavalier.

Papers were served on Campbell in an action for divorce, and action to recover the children was commenced. In denying the claims of Mrs. Campbell, Judge Templeton directed that Campbell keep her informed as to the whereabouts of the children.

SIX ENGINEERS INTERESTED.

Throttle Men on Great Western Await Important Decision.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—Whether six engineers, who have the best runs on the Mason City and Fort Dodge division of the Chicago Great Western, shall be put back on other divisions of the road or shall remain where they are is a question which the United States court will have to decide in the near future. The Great Western engineers, who have been fighting over the matter for the past five years, have concluded the presentation of evidence and arguments before Albert R. Moore, master in chancery on the Chicago Great Western under the receivership.

The case affects the standing and chances of promotion of between 200 and 300 engineers. The case was originated at the time of the leasing of the Mason City & Fort Dodge road by the Chicago Great Western in 1903, and involves interpretation of the rules of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers regarding seniority, and of the agreement with the railroad company on this point. The point at issue is whether the Mason City & Fort Dodge is to be regarded as a new or an acquired line.

MANY HOLLANDERS STUNG.

Failure of Wisconsin Banker Falls Heavily Upon Friends.

Deperre, Wis., July 10.—"John Smith, bankrupt," means a great deal to many Hollanders in and around Deperre, for they hold his notes to the amount of $25,000, without security.

"Perseverance Overcomes All Difficulties"

The Glass Block 'Arrow' Riddance Sale

For nearly two months many of the stores along the street have been exploiting, so-called, cut-price sales!

OUR merchandise was ORIGINALLY priced sufficiently low to counteract even the lowest of these "cut sales," and we persevered, as in past seasons without resorting to a single line of cut-price advertising.

How well our Perseverance overcame all difficulties is plainly evident to all! Our customers were better satisfied with our merchandise at regular "Glass Block Prices" than were those of some of the one-third and one-half off regular price howlers! And we are absolutely within the bounds of truth in saying that we gave more real value for the money expended than did any other store in Duluth.

Consequently when our season is over, we find ourselves with but a hundred tailored suits, where this spring there were thousands! And now, when some of the lines are broken, when some of the goods are getting down to short ends, when we want to thoroughly clean house preparatory to the incoming of the new fall goods, we have inaugurated a sale that is more than a sale in name. A sale in which prices are so tremendously smashed that it is almost beyond belief—and we have the confidence of the people!

Thursday, the first of this ten-day "Arrow" Riddance Sale, the crowds were so great that even with the extra help in each department, we were sorely taxed at times to stem the tide of shoppers.

Each department has contributed its quota of items—two hundred in all—at cost, and in many instances, away below cost! The Arrows on the green cards throughout the store point the way to the bargains. Come early tomorrow and your money will stretch double distance. Extra sales-people, and an extra force in the shipping room and on the wagons—make possible prompt and efficient service.

DECREASE IN POPULATION

Of Ireland Shown by Figures of the Railway Commission.

Dublin, July 10.—The declining population of Ireland and its effect on the prosperity of the country are the features of the report of the viceregal commission on the Irish railways, which has just been published. The evidence given by the representatives of the railways showed that from 1891 to 1906 the population of Ireland decreased by 232,370, while that of England and Wales increased by 5,691,197, and that of Scotland by 699,825. There are, however, it was stated, hopeful signs of an improvement in the condition of the country. Emigration is steadily decreasing, and even migratory Irish labor is diminishing in Great Britain, while the revival of agriculture is providing more work for Irishmen at home.

In spite of these adverse conditions, however, Irish railways have shown a wonderful record of growth. Taking the revenue for five-year periods during the last fifteen years, it showed the following increase in each period: $1,760,000, $1,780,000 and $1,847,500, or a total increase of nearly $5,000,000 for the fifteen years ending 1906, compared with a like period ending with 1891.

"Willie John," the Derry "Capt. Koo-pernick," whose exploits I have mentioned from time to time, has at last overhauled the mark and landed in prison. His latest exploit was to obtain several days' entertainment in Limavady by posing as a wanderer in Derry jail. He presented himself to the landlady of a public house, whose husband was spending a term of imprisonment in the Derry institution for a trifling difference of opinion with the excise authorities. He brought many affectionate messages and also hinted that he might be able to smuggle a few luxuries into the imprisonment publican. He was entertained royally for more than a week, when a police sergeant, who knew him, met him on the street and made inquiries which resulted in his arrest. "Willie John" was tried at the crown sessions in Derry.

He conducted his own case so ably that the jury reported that it was unable to agree. The judge, however, having ascertained that it stood 11 to 1 for conviction, remarked: "I can't order a bail of hay for the twelfth gentleman, but I think he had better try again." True enough, the jury returned on a verdict of guilty, and "Willie John" will spend six months as a guest in the institution of which he posed as a wanderer.

Logue Opposes Universities Bill. Now that Cardinal Logue has returned home a definite pronouncement on the attitude of the Catholic hierarchy toward the Irish university bill is expected. The bishops have been holding their hands until they obtained a lead from the cardinal and he gave it almost at once by condemning the bill in its present shape. The general opinion is, however, that the bishops will do their best to secure its improvement, and falling in that accept it as a good deal better than nothing. The chief objection to the bill as it stands now is the refusal of the British government to affiliate Maynooth college—the Catholic training school for the clergyman—as a constituent college of the new university.

CLEMENCEAU IS CALLED.

French Premier's After Dinner Speech Accepted Literally by Women

Paris, July 10.—M. Clemenceau, the premier, in the warmth of an after-dinner speech at Rennes, in Brittany, recently, remarked that, though he was himself a Vendean, he would always be glad to see his handsome lady cousins of Brittany when they came to Paris. This was not intended to be taken literally. During a heated debate in the chamber last Friday, three young women of the Breton type called at the Palais Bourbon, and asked for their cousin, M. Clemenceau. The premier was greatly annoyed at the interruption and did not know the women's names. Suddenly remembering his speech at Rennes he was enlightened and vowed, after saying he was too busy to see any one, to be more careful in the future.

TRAIN ROBBER TELLS IT ALL

Confesses to Minneapolis Robbery and Gives Whole Snap Away.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the testimony of the wife of one of the men who held up the Northern Pacific passenger train in Minneapolis on the night of April 16, one of the men has been arrested, while the other, this husband, has been located in Leadville, Colo., where he is held on a charge of murder.

The man under arrest is Owen Barrett, alias Bail, who is now on the Minneapolis & St. Louis road, and Detective Edward J. McFetridge of the Northern Pacific railway, who is now on the Minneapolis & St. Louis road.

Barrett was arrested Wednesday night at Marshalltown, Iowa, upon information from Des Moines, wanting him for larceny. In his pocket was found a love letter from Mrs. Shercliffe, written in endearing terms. Mrs. Shercliffe was taken into custody by the Des Moines police and confessed to the detectives that Barrett told her that he and her husband held up the Northern Pacific train and shot a man whom they were trying to hold up in a St. Paul drug store on the night before the robbery. The drug store referred to was the store of Karl L. Fissler, in St. Anthony park, whose clerk was shot through the arm while resisting the highwaymen.

When confronted with the evidence the detectives obtained, Barrett broke down and confessed to the entire affair, implicating Shercliffe in each one. Arrangements were then made to bring him to Minneapolis, and they will arrive today. The Des Moines authorities waived their rights to him, and he will be tried in Minneapolis on a charge of highway robbery.

FORMER AUDITOR

Must Account for $28,000 That He Collected Illegally.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—On the strength of reports made by the experts employed to make an investigation of the books at the courthouse, a demand has been made on Cyrus J. Clark, former county auditor, for the return of $28,000 he is charged with having collected illegally during his four-year term. About $20,000 of the money is for money Clark is said to have obtained from platbook contracts he made with the county commissioners. The receipt of the retention of various fees the experts claim did not belong to him. Suit is threatened.

BERRIES ARE VANISHING

The Season for Them is Practically Over in Duluth.

Receipts of Fresh Fruit and Vegetables Are Heavy.

This is the last week of the strawberry season. By Monday they will have disappeared from the local produce market, not to return again until next season.

Few berries were offered this week. Some were coming in from Wisconsin the first of the week, and there is a firm demand for it, not only from Duluth, but from the surrounding towns, for which this city is a distributing center.

However, the consumers need not worry over the passing of the strawberry, because there are plenty of other fruits in the market to tickle the palate. Fresh fruit is arriving in large quantities every day, and there is a firm demand for it, not only from Duluth, but from the surrounding towns, for which this city is a distributing center.

Peaches have started to come in and will be in the local market from now on to the end of their season. Peach receipts are still light, and the fruit is not as rich and ripe as it will be next week, but it is getting better every day.

Georgia peaches are selling at $1.25 for six basket crates, and California peaches are to be had at 80 and 90 cents a box, according to the grade.

Bananas are getting cheaper. They are quoted at 4 cents now, which is a decline of a quarter of a point from last week. The fruit trust curtailed shipments for several weeks before the Fourth of July, and the market took on a very firm tone, but now it has eased off. Some sales of bananas on Michigan street were reported yesterday at 3 1/2 cents, but that price is not the market for them, as the commission men or dealers who sold them at that price robbed themselves of a profit by the cut.

It is expected that bananas will be offered very freely from now on.

Raspberries and blueberries are arriving daily. Raspberries are selling at $3.00 to $4 per case of twenty-four quarts. These are red raspberries, the black ones selling at $2.25 to $2.75 per case of twenty-four quarts.

Blueberries are $2 for sixteen-quart cases. The market will be well supplied with both raspberries and blueberries for several weeks, and those who care for them—and who does not—will be jubilant.

Cantaloupes are much more plentiful than they were a week ago, and prices have eased off considerably. Instead of $2.75 to $3 a case, they are selling at $1.75 to $2 a case. The melons are getting better every day, and are better flavored now than at any time since they first began to come in.

Water melons are also plentiful, but the demand for them is very firm. Prices are unchanged from a week ago.

A few new apples are coming in, but receipts are very light as yet. When they were to be had this week the new apples were selling at $4.50 to $5 a barrel.

Receipts of green vegetables have been good and so has the demand for

TO PARENTS OF PALE GIRLS

How the Tonic Treatment Helps to Insure Healthful Womanhood.

What anemia is, how to recognize it and the value of the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be known by the mother of every growing girl.

Anemia is simply lack of blood. It is the cause of all the dangerous diseases with which growing girls suffer.

It is common, because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls are too frequently allowed to over-study, over-work and suffer from lack of exercise. It is dangerous because its presence is recognized, and because of its tendency to grow so steadily worse, it is not promptly checked, that it may run into consumption.

The success of the tonic treatment is well illustrated in the case of Mrs. John McClelland of 286 Thirty-eighth street, Pittsburgh, Pa., who says:

"After suffering a year with anemia and getting no relief, I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was cured. I was weak, had no color and my blood was thin and watery. I had no appetite and food distressed me, for I was a constant sufferer from indigestion. There were dull aching pains across the small of my back and had occasional headaches and severe pains in the back of the neck. On going up stairs I would get short of breath and would feel weak in the knees. My feet and legs were sore to the touch and swollen, so that I could not put on my shoes."

"The doctors said I had anemia, but did not help me, and I decided to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I had read about in the papers. I noticed an improvement after taking a few boxes and so kept on with them until cured. I am in the best of health now and feel that I owe it to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Send today for a copy of our "Dis-eases of the Blood." It gives further information about anemia and is free upon request. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent postpaid, upon receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The big storage houses of the coun-who held that Albus had not used

The case was heard fought during the son began a system of annoyance, play-

Brandt Holds League Leaders to Three

Dahlgren's Wildness and Timely Singles Win for Duluth.

Artie O'Dea's hoodum was on the job again yesterday. He pitched on Bill Brandt's shoulder, whispered in his ear, and the proud Brandt slingers couldn't hit what he sent them. But with three strikes to their credit, the league leaders were defeated again, 3 to 1.

Both pitchers dealt mostly in free transportation to first. Brandt started out as though the plate were the proverbial needle in the haystack, and in two innings three men took first by the four-ball sign. He settled after that, and his three other passes were badly scattered. The placing of the ball in the rise of the opposing batsmen was Dahlgren's specialty, and he mixed in a few wild pitches and passes on four balls to draw the victory.

FIVE KILLED IN COLLISION

Two Engines Come Together Near Medicine Hat, Sask.

Medicine Hat, Sask., July 10.—Five men were killed and three injured in a head-on collision at a crossing a mile east of this city yesterday morning, between a Spokane flyer engine, on its way to Cole Ridge, and a Crow's Nest passenger train. The dead: Engineer James McWilson, Fireman Harry Gray, a baggage man, W. J. Archambault and Messengers J. Shaw and D. McEachern.

Fireman Leonard Black was injured and has a broken jaw. His condition is serious. Fireman Thompson suffered a badly scalded arm. Expressman Vickers was slightly injured. A number of passengers were badly shaken up, and some were injured. Among the seriously injured passengers are Samuel Abuda of Lethbridge, leg broken, and Philip Menge, a rancher of Taber, who was badly bruised and may have internal injuries.

The Crow's Nest train was on its way to the city when the Spokane flyer engine, James Nicholson, pulled out of the local yards with orders to meet the eastbound Spokane flyer at Cole Ridge and make the run from that point to Moosejaw. The light engine and the Crow's Nest engine met head-on, and a dense pall of smoke and steam settled over the wreck.

The Crow's Nest engine was forced back off its track, and the whole front of the boiler bent over.

The express car on the Crow's Nest train had been partly telescoped by the engine. Itself telescoped through the mail and baggage cars and a tourist car. All three cars rolled to the ditch, while the locomotive was reduced to scrap iron by the impact.

Engineer Nicholson and Fireman Gray died shortly after being taken from the wreck. Baggage man Archambault was also instantly killed when his car was telescoped.

Engineer Nicholson had received his clearance papers from Operator J. H. Gray at Medicine Hat. It is believed he had been seen since the accident occurred.

TRAIN WRECKED IN YARDS.

Wild West Show People Seriously Hurt, One Perhaps Fatally.

Bismarck, N. D., July 10.—Miller Bros. Ranch and Wild West show, billed for Bismarck yesterday, was wrecked in the Northern Pacific yards at Bismarck Wednesday night just after the show was loaded.

The train had been made up for Bismarck except for seven sleepers, which were over on the cut-off track. These sleepers were to be attached to the train when it was about ready to pull out. A switch engine backed down the track to switch the sleepers over.

As the switch engine was not guarding the engine, or, instead of going over on to the main line, the sleepers ran down the cut-off track till the engine hit a train of ballast cars at a speed of about thirty miles an hour. The switch engine was between the sleepers and the ballast train, but the sleepers were not cleared.

Henry Nitzsche had both legs and arm broken. He was left at the Dickinson hospital and is not expected to live.

Howard Coptan, a cowboy, received internal injuries.

Jack Grant, a drummer in the band, had his foot crushed, and it may be necessary to amputate it. He was also left at the Dickinson hospital.

George Hooker, another cowboy, had his ankle badly crushed, but came here with the show. Blaine for the accident is laid to the yard crew. The train was several hours late reaching here, but the company had its regular parade and performance yesterday afternoon.

CANNON FALLS WINS.

Stands Highest in Cheese Scoring Contest for June.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state dairy and food commission has announced awards in the June cheese contest under the auspices of the commission. The percentages of the contests are unusually high and Commissioner Slater is pleased with the interest which dairymen are taking in the monthly contests.

Those making the highest scores were: Iron, Duluth, Cannon Falls, 58; Charles Hastings, Murdock, 57; H. Clement, Torvels, 57; G. H. Scott, 56; Theodore Fairer, Wyle, 55; W. L. Barkin, Northfield, 55; C. Miller, Manitowish, 55; J. S. McCarthy, West Concord, 55; and W. W. McKelving, Phelps.

The awards in the butter contest will be announced within a day or two. The number of entries making the judges' task a heavy one. There are over 200 tubs of butter sent in for the butter contest, and all of the highest quality.

In all these contests the dairy and food department places the products sent in for the contest directly at the contest and sends back to the contestant a check for his entry, together with any criticism that may be due him and advice as to how to better the product.

It is by these state and county food commissions that Minnesota has earned its reputation as the bread and butter state. Of the seven banners for highest awards that have been given out by the National Butterfarms' association annually, five have gone to Minnesota, one to New York and one to Illinois.

The next butter and cheese contests will be held August 1.

CHRONIC STOMACH TROUBLE

Another Case in Which Wittman Medical Compound Was Successful After Other Methods Had Failed.

A very delicate stomach requires easily digested food, but nature never intended that the food should be digested before it is eaten. The stomach must be strengthened to perform its own work, and what it needs is not food already digested, but a tonic. The processes of digestion are controlled by the blood and nerves, and medicine has produced no better digestive tonic than Dr. Wittman's Medical Compound. This is shown by the statement of Mrs. McCormick, the wife of a prosperous farmer of Indiana. In her letter which she sent to Dr. Wittman, she says:

"I was a sufferer with stomach trouble for many years and was only able to eat liquid food. I tried all kinds of medicine and the most skillful doctors, but they did not help me. One doctor said I had cancer of the stomach, and other doctors, and others said it was my heart. During a visit to relatives at Owatonna, Minn., I was surprised to find the great benefit they had received from the use of Wittman's Medical Compound, and began to take it myself. At the end of a few weeks I was eating solid food, and continued to improve until cured. I had forgotten what refreshing sleep was until I began to use your Wonderful Compound, but now I sleep well every night. My general health has become good and I will always keep a bottle of your Medical Compound in the house."

Wittman and his experts are curing these cases every day. Their office is at the corner of Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, in the Vineland block. The hours are from 10 to 12 and from 2 to 4.

Any one that wishes to get a bottle of Medical Compound, and is unable to come to the office for it, please send $1 and the medicine will be sent to you.

RAILROADS
BUSINESS

Local Roads Hustle to Secure the Shriners' Traffic.

There is a merry little war being waged between the Northern Pacific and Northwestern lines for the passenger business that goes with the carrying of the Shriners to St. Paul. The local officials of both lines have shed their coats and are hustling for business out of Duluth.

Word was received by T. E. Blanche, local representative of the Northern Pacific, that a delegation of Shriners from Buffalo was coming by way of the lakes, probably coming on the Tonawanda. They are going down to St. Paul over the Northern Pacific. Mr. Blanche also received word that a strong delegation from New York city would pass through this city. This is one of the largest delegations that is going to St. Paul. It will go from Duluth to St. Paul over the Northern Pacific. The New York delegation includes some of the most prominent Shriners in North America. It is likely that the New York delegation will stay over in Duluth long enough to get some idea of the sights that the Zenith has to offer.

From present indications it is probable that the Northern Pacific will run a second special train through this city. The Detroit Shriners that come in over the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic will go to St. Paul over the Northwestern, and the officials of that road are also making strenuous efforts to round up the delegates.

The board of public works this morning awarded to Hugh Steele, the contract for the construction of a sanitary sewer from Second street to Twenty-ninth avenue west to St. Louis bay at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west. Mr. Steele's bid of $1,700.50 was the lowest submitted.

Under the terms of the will the decedent leaves his real and personal property to his wife, Mrs. Redlock. The income from the real property is to be paid to her for life. The residue of the estate is to be paid to his children.

According to the information, Antilla is 26 years of age, a native of Finland, and has been residing in Duluth. He has no relatives so far as known. DOCTORS GO TO COLERAINE Monthly Meeting of Medical Society Held on the Range.

About thirty-five members of the St. Louis County Medical society yesterday took a trip to Coleraine to hold their regular monthly meeting at the invitation of Dr. N. D. Keane of the Coleraine hospital and J. C. Greenway, superintendent of the Western Mesquite mines.

They left at 7 o'clock yesterday morning on a special over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, arriving at Coleraine at 10 o'clock. At the station they were met by Mr. Greenway and Dr. Keane, with two doctors, on which they were shown over the Canisteo mine. At noon they lunched at the John C. Greenway school building.

Following lunch, the society held its scientific meeting, at which Dr. Fitch of Ishpeming read a paper, which was very much appreciated, on "Some Features in the Diagnosis of Appendicitis." The party was then taken for a launch ride on Trout lake, and did not return until nearly 6 o'clock, when they were banqueted at the school building again. The party returned to Duluth last night at about midnight.

The members of the society were so much pleased with the reception and entertainment they received at Coleraine that they have decided to hold another of their meetings on the range this fall, probably at Eveleth.

HOLDS UP TRAIN.

Spokane, Wash., July 10.—A lone highwayman attempted to hold up Great Northern passenger train yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The highwayman got nothing, but fled after exchanging several shots with the crew and passengers of the train. It is thought that he was shot, as he was seen to fall before he entered the brush a short distance from the train.

"White Flour Boys" You can pick them out—in the school-room, in the street, in the home—they are pale, flabby, sickly—they are fed on white flour bread and soda crackers.

Make sturdy, chubby boys and girls by feeding them the food that builds muscle, bone and brain—the sweet, crisp malted flakes of wheat. Children like it and thrive on it.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Remarkable Nerve Effort of Man Killed by Logging Train.

Akeley, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Gahen of Nevis fell asleep on the railroad track of the Red River Lumber company, north of Akeley, and was struck and run over by the Great Northern logging train yesterday. Gahen was horribly mangled and died at the Union hospital while doctors tried to restore life. The cries being the result of previous will and nerve power or impulse before the pulse ceased to beat. The cries of the unfortunate man were not the result of will or conscious volition, but the consequent result of previous thought and will power before death. Every feasible means were used to restore life, but in vain. The body was interred at Nevis today by friends and relatives.

There has been a marked improvement in Fisher since the fire wiped out a number of the frame buildings last spring, and all the new structures being erected are modern brick buildings.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The board of managers of the Matinee Musical is holding meetings during the summer weeks to decide upon the work for the ensuing year, and to choose the out-of-town artists who will be brought here for the special concerts. At the last meeting of the board it was decided to bring Katherine Goodson, pianist, for a concert. Miss Goodson was heard in Duluth last season in a concert at the First Presbyterian church, under the auspices of the ladies of the church, and few of the musical events of the winter aroused such enthusiasm. Miss Goodson will be heard here in February, under the auspices of the Matinee Musical.

There will be two other concerts by visiting artists, who have not yet been chosen.

The plan of the work committee, of which Mrs. John Miller, chairman, has not yet presented the outline for the regular work of the club. The regular meetings will begin in October, as usual.

Summer Clothes.

Is there any one who does not need linen shirts and shirt-waist dresses? I'm going to tell you about some attractive ones that can be started on a cool day and finished before there is change in the temperature, says Helen Berkeley-Lloyd, in the July Delinquent. The Gibson waist, with a few half-inch tucks, and the blouse with the open throat and soft turn-down collar.

And the skirts? Well, if I were sewing for speed, I would choose one of the new gored circular skirts, with as few gores as possible, unless my avocations absolutely demanded the slender lines of the many-gored skirt. The five and six gored circular skirts are always good, but there is a new three-gored skirt that is very smart. It has a very wide front panel that can button from waist to hem.

If you are looking for an adorable jumper waist for a soft silk or voile dress, let me tell you about one that can be fashioned very quickly. It is made from a perfectly straight piece of material doubled over at the shoulder line. Cut out a round neck, hem the side edges for armholes and join a short seam under each arm, run a few rows of shirring at the shoulders, gather it in at the waist, and when you have put a bit of ribbon or embroidery around the neck and arms, you will have a charming little jumper.

ful Oaths.

With his face distorted with rage, Henry Wilson, who is on trial for the murder of his wife, this noon sprang to his feet in the courtroom, beating his fist upon the table before him, and with a torrent of most frightful oaths, cursed the person who had urged his 11-year-old son to tell the story he had told of the murder of his mother as the witness stand yesterday.

Jallier, Peter McDermid and Charles Johnson, who are contestants in the fight over the prisoner, spring forward and after a hard struggle, succeeded in placing manacles on Wilson's wrists. Even after that he was not let down, but tore at his wrists with his teeth, trying to free himself.

Wilson's passion was aroused and brought about by H. H. Hawkins, the attorney for the defendant, recalling Willie Wilson, who had been in the trial, to the stand to answer the question as to who had told him to tell the jury that he had shot the man.

Pawnbroker Makes Mistake of Swearing at Alderman.

Because the proprietor made unreasonable demands of Alderman T. R. Trevillion, and cursed him roundly.

The Crescent Loan company may lose its license to do business on West Superior street. The proprietor did not know he was talking to an alderman or probably a police officer, and he was more than willing to select his language. It is understood that Mr. Trevillion will bring the matter up at the next meeting of the board on Monday night and ask for a revocation of the license.

The alderman is proprietor of a grocery store and has been in business dealings with several of the north

The man got in a position where he badly needed cash in Duluth last fall but was unable to get it from the bank, says he. He secured $450, and was to pay $5 in return at the end of the month, but did pay the $5 in thirty days. He did not pay the $5 in the month, but did pay 50 cents interest, and has been paying 50 cents a month ever since.

DECLINED THE HONOR

Governor Johnson Could Have Had Second Place on Ticket.

His Friends Appreciated the Compliment, But Flatly Refused.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
 Denver, Colo., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson of Minnesota could have had the vice presidency for the asking, in spite of the plans of the leaders to nominate the man who got it practically by default. However, his friends spurned every suggestion of this nature, and so far as they were able stood by McNeil of Connecticut, in return for that state's friendly act in yielding to Minnesota for the Johnson presentation speech. Yesterday morning representatives of delegation after delegation (led by Mississippi and Alabama, came into Johnson headquarters to say that, if Johnson would take it, they would vote for him for the nomination of vice president. They were told that it could not be considered, though the compliment was highly appreciated, and that if Mr. Johnson could be induced to run for anything this year it would have to be for governor of Minnesota. That Minnesota and Governor Johnson should stand with the delegates has been made evident many times during the campaign.

TALK WITH M'CUMBER

North Dakota Senator Discusses Political Situation in State.

Pleads for Getting Together of the Republican Factions.

Wahpeton, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—United States Senator P. J. McCumber takes an interesting view of the North Dakota political situation as bearing on the result of the primary election recently held and the approaching general election. Previous to the primary election, Senator McCumber was an ardent supporter of the plan of harmony, and the larger part of his address at the Minnesota convention when he was made chairman, was taken up in a plea for harmony. In the light of the recent election, Senator McCumber, in an interview given out here, says: "There has never been a more opportune time to eliminate all factional differences in the Republican party than the present moment. There are, of course, always to be found some who do not want harmony and who oppose any effort to secure it. But every true Republican will use his influence this year to eliminate discord and secure perfect harmony. There is in truth nothing for these warring factions to battle about today. The Republican voters have, by majority vote, nominated a full ticket, and every true Republican should respect their decision and labor to elect the men of their choice."

The senator was asked as to the probable attitude of the stalwart and independent.

STOCKHOLDERS ALLEGE FRAUD

Complaint Filed Asking Dismissal of Consolidated Co. Case.

Helena, Mont., July 11.—A complaint in intervention was filed in the district court here yesterday, asking for the dismissal of the case of the Consolidated Gold Mining company against the Kimberly, Montana, Gold Mining company. The petition alleges that Henry M. Ryan and others so conducted the business of the Kimberly company as to make it apparently insolvent for the purpose of fraudulently foreclosing the interests of a large number of the other holders that ran and others that had shares of the Kimberly company. May 26, 1908, under the laws of the territory of Montana, with a capital stock of $100,000 in order to obtain possession of the property of the Kimberly company, and then agreed to exchange the stock of this company for that of the Consolidated gold mining company, which the Kimberly company sold about 2500 shares of its stock at prices from 10 to 15 cents a share and that the Consolidated company, through Ryan and associates, agreed to loan the Kimberly company money to pay off its obligations. The Kimberly company, it is alleged, at this pretended meeting in Chicago, signed a willingness to be liquidated a bankruptcy, and that the Consolidated company, a pretended liquidator, was then organized for the purpose of defeating the rights of the minority stockholders of the Kimberly company.

AMERICANS DOING WELL

Team From the United States Still Leads at Bisley.

Shooting is Brilliant and Evokes the Greatest Applause.

Bisley, July 11.—The American team won the international shooting match.

Bisley, July 11.—The official announcement of the result of the 300-meters individual match, shot yesterday, gives the gold medal to Helander of Norway, who scored 904; the silver medal to Lieut. Semon of Ohio, with 886, and the bronze medal to Sather of Norway, with 878.

The protest made by Gorman, American, against a noise, with which he was credited, in the individual revolver contest, has been disallowed. The gold, silver and bronze medals awarded, respectively, as follows: Van Aerbroek, Belgium, with 440; Storms, Belgium, with 437, and Axtell, America, with 430.

It is thought generally now that the longer distances have been reached, and that the team contest will resolve itself into a battle between the Americans and the Englishmen. Both teams

HAD MANIA FOR KILLING

Americans Were the Victims of Native Philippine Chief.

Manila, July 11.—A telegram received last night from Lieut. Ahearn says: "While returning with the remains of Everett and Wakeley, our party found their last camp in the Bayang mountains. At first the guides were apparently afraid to lead us near the camp. Luckily we at last secured guides acquainted with Ayaho, the leader of the murderers. Ayaho, it was explained, while gambling with the guides while he was a member of the party, one night dragged the whole party with the fumes from a plant and then, with his followers, killed five guides. It was stated that the reason given for committing the crime was that Ayaho felt like killing some one, when he found the botanica and other equipment and provisions. All Montecito Suites were abandoned on our approach, and we were obliged to discontinue the search for the reason given for committing the crime. Our guides deserted us in the mountains with many followers. We were short of rations, the trails were bad, the rivers rising and becoming dangerous. Our guides deserted us in the mountains. The constabulary has done good work."

Purdy, recently appointed United States district judge in Minnesota, is ill and was not able to come here today, in response to an invitation by Mr. Taft. Representative Burton of Ohio, who has been extensively talked of in connection with the Ohio senatorship, in succession to J. B. Foraker, declared that it is not his intention to enter any senatorial race if party strife of a kind to embarrass the national ticket would result from taking that course. Mr. Burton will sail from New York next Saturday for Europe, to which he is a member. He visited the scene of various improvements to navigation in Europe five years ago, and will hastily look over the ground again to see if there has been the increase in trade that was expected as the result of the improvements. Senator Smoot of Utah will go abroad on the same steamer.

"I have received a dozen checks since I have been in Hot Springs from people who wished to make the first contribution to the Republican party for the campaign," said George R. Says Publicity of Campaign Contributions Will Give People Chance.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 11.—In a speech to returning members of the Lincoln-Bryan Men's club and the Nebraska Traveling Men's Bryan club today, William J. Bryan expressed his admiration for the Democratic platform and for Mr. Kern, his running mate, and declared that the publicity of campaign contributions would give the people a chance to elect their choice to office. Mr. Bryan spoke in part as follows:

"I do not think any state was better represented at Denver than Nebraska, and for proof of that I can simply remind you that you were the only state represented there that secured the nomination of a candidate for president from its own state. Laughter and applause greeted this sally, and Mr. Bryan continued:

"I am as much pleased with the platform as I am with the nomination for the first place, and I am much pleased with the second nomination as I am with the platform."

"I think that this nomination leaves a different impression than that given by the convention in Chicago. In that convention the platform did not present what the reform elements of the party wanted, and when the convention was over, there was a feeling of discouragement and disappointment. But the Democratic party in this convention has given us a platform that I believe expresses the deliberate sentiment of that large and growing reform element in this country. (Applause.) I am satisfied that it is going to support not only the Democrats, but to a lot of Republicans. And I am sure that when people come to know John W. Kern, as I have known him

STRUCK BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Aged St. Paul Woman Likely to Die From Her Injuries.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. John Parks, 50 years of age, living at 386 Charles street, was run down by an automobile, driven by D. J. Bondy last evening, and received injuries from which, it is said, she will probably die. Mrs. Parks was with a young niece, Mrs. Bondy, when the accident occurred. The car, at the corner of University and Virginia avenues, the elderly woman stepped from the curb and was about to walk into the street to flag an approaching street car when the machine came down University avenue at a rapid rate and struck the woman, knocking her down and passing over her body. The child saw the approaching machine just before it struck the older woman and escaped injury.

After being struck and thrown down by the impact of the machine the woman was dragged fifty feet along the pavement before Bondy was able to get the machine under control. The police ambulance was sent for and the woman was rushed to the city hospital, where it was stated that her condition today was precarious, and that she might not live. Bondy and the other occupants of the car were sent to the central police station, where they told their version of the accident, after which they were allowed their freedom, pending the outcome of the woman's injuries. The crowd, which had gathered after the accident, was in an ugly mood and might have done harm to the motorist but for the arrival of the police.

HEARST WILL NOT SUPPORT BRYAN.

New York, July 11.—That William J. Bryan is not to have the support of William R. Hearst is indicated today by the attitude of Mr. Hearst's two New York newspapers, the American and the Evening Journal. The two papers announce a loss of confidence on their part both in the Democratic party and in Mr. Bryan.

CARRY OFF THE TRUNK

Thieves Get "Bank" of Austrian "King" Containing $501.

Trunk Taken From Beside His Bed While He Slept.

Between the hours of 11 o'clock last night and 4 o'clock this morning, an unknown thief crept into the room where Steve Lutia, who manages a boarding house at 124 South Fifty-sixth avenue west, was sleeping, and carried away a trunk containing $501 from beside the bed upon which he slept.

Lutia is known as the king of the Austrian camp, and men turn over their wages of each month to him for safe keeping. From this money the "king" takes his pay for managing the camp and boarding his men. Lutia kept the money in a brand-new trunk, close beside his bed, using it as a table, on which he placed his lamp and alarm clock. Besides being the king of the Austrian camp, Lutia is also a very successful gambler, and he has been known to win large sums of money at the tables.

Whoever took the trunk was a man of nerve, for on such a hot night as last night was, even the soundest sleepers sleep lightly and are disturbed by the slightest sound. To carry away a large trunk from a crowded boarding house was an exceedingly daring piece of work. The only possible clue the police have is that two men, who have been working at the house for several weeks, left yesterday and today. It is doubtful that these are the men, for they bore a good reputation.

SUMMER SCHOOL.

Classes Will be Held in Irving Building as Originally Planned.

The manual training school, which was to have been held in the Irving building, will open at the Irving school at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

This change has been arranged, owing to the cost and unnecessary inconvenience that the school board would have had to undergo in removing the apparatus from the Irving to the Elly school. It was feared that the Irving building would not be ready for occupancy Monday, but the repairs to the basement have been completed. The class of eighty boys, who have signified their intention of attending the summer course, will be under the direction of E. E. Brownman, and in spite of the delay the training school will have met with, it has a very successful outlook.

CAUGHT ON OLD CHARGE.

Roy Dixon Arrested for a Theft Committed a Year Ago.

After a year's absence in the West, Roy Dixon, a West Duluth boy 23 years old, returned a few days ago to his former home, only to be arrested for a theft he committed a year ago last May.

At the time Dixon committed the crime, he was working for T. B. Jones, who is the proprietor of a livery stable on Grand and Central avenues. He drove a delivery wagon. On May 13, 1907, he is charged with having collected a C. O. D. bill for $7.71, which he is alleged to have appropriated to his own use. He left West Duluth shortly afterwards, and no trace could be found of him.

A few days ago he returned to West Duluth and was arrested on the old charge. He was arraigned before Judge Flack yesterday afternoon, when he pleaded guilty, and was fined $10 and costs. He also had to square his account with Mr. Jones.

BATTLESHIP LAUNCHED

The South Carolina Slides
Into the Delaware River.

Is One of the Two
"All Big Gun" Fighters.

Philadelphia, July 11.—Amid the din of steam whistles ashore and aboard and the cheering of thousands of persons assembled to witness the event, the "all big gun" battleship, South Carolina, was launched at 12:05 p. m. today at Cramps shipyard on the Delaware river. As the latest addition to the American navy slipped into the water Miss Frederica Calvert Ansel, daughter of Governor Ansel of South Carolina, broke the traditional bottle of wine against the prow of the great hull and gave the big sea fighter its name. Surrounding the launch, the invited guests, including her father and his military staff, many officials of the navy department, the commandant of the Philadelphia navy yard, officials of the city, officers of the Italian warship Ettore Fieramosca, now in port, and hundreds of other invited guests.

There was no hitch to the launching and after tugs had warped the big hull into the dock the invited guests proceeded to the famous mule loft of Cramps, where many a launching party has been held since the days of the Southern ship.

Later in the afternoon the governor and his party were entertained by local citizens and tonight the governor and his staff will be the guests of the Southern club.

One of the "All Big Gun" ships. The South Carolina is one of the two "all big gun" battleships authorized by congress, the other being the Michigan, which was recently launched at Camden, N. J.

The South Carolina has a length of 270 feet and a beam of 35 feet. Her draft will be 24 feet 6 inches. Her normal displacement will be 16,000 tons. Her maximum displacement will be 17,000 tons. Her reciprocating engines will have 17,000 horse power and will turn the propellers at 18 1/2 revolutions per minute. Her bunker capacity will be 2,100 tons.

The main battery of the South Carolina will consist of eight 12-inch breech-loading rifles, mounted in four turrets and so arranged that each gun can fire two shots a minute. These guns will be able to fire on either broadside and will permit sixteen 350-pound shells a minute. The South Carolina will also have a battery of about thirty-three inch and smaller guns for protection from torpedo boats and destroyers and will carry an armament of submerged torpedo tubes.

A protective deck about the middle height of this armor, varying in thickness from 1 to 3 inches will be provided. The South Carolina will have two of the most modern types of military armor, including the armor, armament and other details will cost about $7,000,000. She will be turned over to the government on Dec. 21, 1909.

BABY DAY IN DISTRICT COURT

Two Pretty Girl Babies
Are Committed to State School.

This was baby day in the juvenile court and two pretty bright-eyed little girls were assigned to the state public school at Owatonna because their parents have either abandoned them or can no longer give them the care that they require.

One child, with black eyes, black ringlets and dusky red cheeks, 3 years old, and lovable in every way, is of Indian-French-Irish descent. Her father deserted her mother some time ago and the mother, recently abandoned the infant, leaving the state authorities to look after it.

The other little girl, a blonde, but just as lovable, belonged to a woman whose husband deserted her, and she was unable longer to look after the child.

Seldom have two prettier children been brought into court and their presence attracted no small amount of admiring attention from the courthouse employees.

The court today discharged four children under 16 years of age, and looked after some other matters of considerable importance from a humanitarian point of view.

BANK ROBBER SENTENCED.

Falmouth, Minn., July 11.—John H. Arthur, who was indicted by the Martin county grand jury for the burglary of the Montgomery bank, was sentenced yesterday in chambers, before Judge Quinn, and was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary. It developed that the accused had spent three terms in the South Dakota penitentiary for bank and postoffice robberies, and the court gave him the maximum penalty for burglary in the third degree.

MANN SITE RETAINED

New School Will be Built on the Old
Lots.

The Board of Education
Finally Disposes of the Question.

The new Horace Mann school will be erected as soon as possible, on the site of the present structure, at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. This was finally decided this morning at a special meeting of the board of education, called for the purpose. For weeks the board has been deliberating on the question of a site for the new schoolhouse. At every meeting for the past three months the matter has come up and received a lot of attention, but it was not until today that a final decision was made to a location for the new building was arrived at.

The motion to locate the new school on the present site was made today by Director Moe and seconded by Director Stevens. Both directors came from the West end and were instructed by the board at its last session to ascertain the wishes of residents of both the Mann and Lincoln districts and report at the special session.

They reported this morning that a majority of the people wanted the new school situated on the present grounds, and they declared themselves in favor of putting it there. Every member of the board was in his seat at the meeting, and the vote on the motion to build on the present site was unanimous. One or two of the directors declared, however, that they were voting against their own convictions.

Two separate delegations were present at the meeting—one composed of two members of the Mann district and the other of two members of the Lincoln district. The delegations were presented to the board, but that body accepted the recommendations of the Mann district and that no hardships would be worked on the others.

The buildings and grounds committee reported that plans for the new schoolhouse were being prepared and would be submitted at the next meeting. The new school will cost from $25,000 to $28,000.

The picnic season in Duluth is at its height.

Duluth people are probably the most persistent and energetic picnicers in the country. The summer season is none too long, and the many attractive spots offered for picnic parties tempt the residents of the city to make the most of every pleasant day during the months of June, July and August.

Probably the most popular form of picnic in Duluth is the beach supper on the Point. A trip down the lake shore of the Point in the evening reveals a succession of bonfires, each fire surrounded with its little gathering of summer girls and summer men.

A supper cooked on the rocks along the lake shore offers many of the attractions, without the inconveniences caused by the sand.

Nearer at home are the parks. West Duluth people have Fairmount park; the West end, Lincoln park; the East end, Chester park and Lakeside, Lester park. Taking supper in the park is a popular form of amusement with hundreds of Duluth families, and every fine evening little parties may be seen gathered about the banks of the creeks which run through these parks.

The Sunday school picnic season is also in full swing. The Episcopal Sunday schools have already held their picnics, and they will be followed by the Methodists, the Baptists, the Congregationalists and the numerous other denominations in Duluth.

Following the Sunday school picnics are the lodge picnics. Every large secret order in Duluth holds an annual picnic, and they are due to begin in the near future.

In addition to these are the union picnics. Nearly every union in Duluth holds a picnic during the summer, and the man, woman or child who does not attend at least one picnic during the summer in Duluth must be either an invalid or possess an inherent aversion to this form of an outing. Even the little inmates of the children's home have had their outing, being guests of St. Paul's Sunday school. The Herald's newsboys' picnic gave hundreds of boys, who might otherwise not have enjoyed such an outing, their taste of picnicking. There is not a section of the city that is more than ten minutes' walk from a good picnic ground, and families who do not enjoy frequent outings of this kind are those who lack the energy or inclination to pick up the family supper and take it to some park to be eaten.

SESSIONS CONCLUDED

Board of Review Gets Through With Open Meetings.

Believed That Superior Street Assessments Will be Reduced.

The board of review today concluded the open sessions which have been held at the city hall for the past two weeks to allow tax payers to offer any objections they might have to what they believed to be unreasonable assessments on their property. The last of the complaints were heard this morning.

The work of the board has not been entirely completed, however, for it will take a few days to consider all the complaints that have been made. The board is believed to make adjustments, where changes seem to be necessary. No decision has been announced as yet in regard to the assessments in the business district along Superior street, and it is likely that some such an announcement will come some time next week.

It is understood that valuations through the business district will be decreased to a certain extent, although not so much as asked for by some of the property owners. The board is believed to be in agreement as to the advisability of making reductions in this connection, one or two members maintaining that valuations are all right as they are, while the others seem to think the increase this year was unreasonably big.

SPRINKLING COMPLAINTS.

Hot Weather Makes It Hard for Board of Public Works.

The board of public works is receiving many complaints relative to street sprinkling. Residents of certain districts maintain that the sprinklers are not making as frequent trips as they ought to. Members of the board say as good service is being given as is possible under the circumstances.

In this hot weather the water evaporates within ten or fifteen minutes after

BRAVE ENGINEER SAVES MANY LIVES.

Bellevue, Ill., July 11.—Just after a cage containing twelve miners had started to descend to the bottom of the Little Oak coal mine today, a steam pipe burst and a jet of steam sprouted from the arm of Sidney Rowland, the engineer, who stood with his hands upon the lever controlling the descent. There was no one to call to, and had he released his hold the cage would have dropped to the bottom of the shaft. He stood with his flesh cooking until the indicator showed that the cage had reached the bottom. Rowland was severely scalded.

PROHIBITIONIST ARRIVES.
Columbus, Ohio, July 11.—Charles R. Jones, national chairman of the executive committee of the Prohibition party, arrived in Columbus early today to attend the national convention of Prohibitionists, which will be held in Columbus next week. He is the first of the important men of the party to arrive for the big meeting. He says there will be a large attendance of Prohibitionists from all over the country.

TWO JUDGES KEPT BUSY

John McAlpine Has Cases in Two Court Rooms.

Wants Mining Company's Officers Punished for Contempt.

John McAlpine is keeping two of the district court judges busy this afternoon.

In Judge Doherty's room his attorney, J. N. Seales of Stillwater, is arguing a motion for a new trial in McAlpine's suit against John Milne. The motion is made on the ground of some newly discovered evidence. The suit was for a partnership accounting.

Before Judge Cant J. B. Richards is arguing a motion to have the officers of the Butte & Superior Mining company cited to appear and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court.

Mr. Richards secured an order from the court allowing him access to certain books and records of the mining company. Mr. Richards claims that the officers of the company refused to comply with the court's order, and denied him permission to see certain books and papers he asked for. He claims that U. T. Jenkins, the secretary of the company, forcibly took from him a memorandum, snatching it away in such a manner as to tear it.

Mr. Richards seeks to have the officers of the company cited to appear for contempt of court.

WESTERN ASSOCIATION AHEAD IN GOLF TOURNEY.

Davenport, Iowa, July 11.—In the Western amateur golf tournament today the first round of medal play for the Olympic cup ended with the Western association team three points ahead of Minnesota state.

The scores of the members of the leading teams were: W. K. Wood, 80; D. E. Sawyer, 80; R. F. Hunter, 80; Kenneth Edwards, 77. Total, 317. Play generally was ragged, six teams finishing the morning round, as follows: Western, 317; Minnesota, 320; St. Louis City, 341; Trans-Mississippi, 343; Iowa, 354; Minnesota, 362. H. G. Legg, Minnesota, played the most consistent golf. Kenneth Edwards saved the lead for the Western lead team, playing the last eight holes four under bogey. The concluding round of the match was played this afternoon.

The outlook at present is for 150 entries for the Western Amateur championship Monday.

SHAH APOLOGIZES TO BRITISH MINISTERS.

Washington, July 11.—The interstate commerce commission today made public the regulations effective in three months which it has adopted for the safe transportation of explosives, including the packing, marking, loading and handling while in transit. Adherence to them is expected to greatly diminish the number of accidents caused by careless or improper packing, loading or handling of explosives. The regulations which were authorized by congress are mainly those drafted by the bureau for the safe transportation of explosives representing the railroad companies. The rules are subject to modification.

EXPLORER COOK IS HEARD FROM

Expected to Dash for the North Pole Last January.

New York, July 11.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook of Brooklyn, the explorer who is trying to reach the North pole by a new route through Nansen Strait and whose friends were fearful that he had met disaster in the frozen north, has been heard from. A letter written by the explorer last December was received by his wife who is living in Brooklyn, stating that he hoped to start for his goal in January. No word has been received from Dr. Cook since last October and his friends anxiously awaited news that he would be made to send a ship to find him.

The letter received today was written at Oumalik, Westendorp Sound and bears the date of Dec. 9, 1907. Dr. Cook says: "I have the opportunity to send a letter to Upernivik by Rasmussen during this moon, and I must hasten to report our progress to present. I have a hundred dogs and as many men as I desire, with fifteen of the best men of the north, and I am ready to start over the new route across Ellesmereland out by way of Nansen Sound and back by Kennedy channel, thus being to good advantage the drift and the musk oxen so abundant in Ellesmereland. All of my equipment is ready and we hope to start for the goal late in January. With men and dogs well fed and under normal conditions, like my predecessors, I feel confident, as our equipment means perfection when we return we will push southward at once to Cape York and Upernivik."

Dr. Cook, accompanied by John H. Bradley and a number of Eskimos left North Sydney, Nova Scotia, early in July, 1907, on the American auxiliary schooner yacht John H. Bradley, which landed the party at Smith's Sound. Mr. Bradley returned to North Sydney on the yacht in October. The expedition was provisioned for two years and was equipped with dogs and sledges for the trip.

The party wintered about thirty miles farther north than Commander Robert E. Peary did two years ago.

Two More Arrests.
Two more arrests of alleged "blind piggers" were made this afternoon. They were: Charles P. Anderson of the Nicol let hotel, and Maude Chilly, 63 West Superior street, both of whom are charged with having sold liquor in the rooms of their places on Sunday.

Install Officers.
Duluth Lodge, No. 28, Odd Fellows, held their installation of officers last evening at the lodge rooms, and the following officers were installed for the coming year: Emil Hollander, noble grand; W. H. Konder, vice grand; and Robert La Fey, recording secretary.

PREJUDICE AGAINST OVERCOATS.
"My venerable grandmother looked at me rather severely when I approached her clad in my first overcoat, and I'll never forget the roasting she gave me for having one."

"She said that no sensible man would descend to the efficiency of an overcoat, and that the effect of wearing one was to render vigor, and the hardness that comes of battling with cold weather. She pointed to the fine example of a statesman with whom she had a personal acquaintance, the Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, elected vice president of the United States with Lincoln, who in his whole career never put one on, no matter how low the mercury dropped."

CAMERA CURED CRIMINALS.

Schemes to Make the Punishment Cure the Crime.

Pearson's Weekly: It has been suggested that intoxicated prisoners should at once be photographed when brought into the police station. The idea is that if a man could only see for himself what a grotesque spectacle he presents when overcome by liquor, he would never again be tempted to overindulge.

Most of our punishments, as appointed by law, are stupid enough. Certainly a burglar, once safe beneath the roof of a modern convict prison, is not likely to trouble society for a space, but that his thievish propensities will be cured is quite another matter. The chances certainly are that, once he is free again, he will resume his old, bad courses.

To make the punishment not only at, but cure, the crime should surely be our object, and we might take a hint from the old Dutch code. Next to the active offender, the passive, otherwise the "won't work," is the case of civilization. The Dutch idea was to put the born-dread man in a pit, into which water was poured. He was provided with a pump or equal capacity to the inflow. So long as he worked the pump he could keep dry. If he slacked, he first got wet, and eventually drowned.

Where the law fails individual ingenuity sometimes provides a remedy. A man at Dainsborough was father of a boy whom a liberal use of the rod had quite failed to cure of playing truant. The father, therefore, procured a small barrel, which he fastened to one of the boy's legs. On one side was painted "Run away from Dainsborough," on the other "Trust yourself to St. John's schools." The device soon checked the boy's love of straying.

In order to cure her husband of coming home every night, a certain Mrs. Garman, who lives at Chester, Conn., adopted the drastic remedy of burning all his clothes, and informed him that he would get no more until he signed the pledge. The wretched man spent three days in bed in the sulks, and then succumbed. He has never since yielded to alcoholic temptation.

A Stepney borough councilor sent to one of his tenants a letter raising his rent. The tenant remonstrated; the landlord replied, giving him notice to quit, whereupon the tenant framed both letters and placed them in his shop window with this notice: "This is the treatment received from one of Stepney's councilmen, after being his tenant for ten years." The councilman, furious, sued for libel; but here the law stepped in. His suit failed, and the tenant, proceeding for malicious prosecution, recovered £10 damages.

Farmers, whose lands lie near towns, are often pestered by trespassers, boys especially, who tramp over crops, break down fences and do all kinds of damage. A Cheadle farmer, whose patience was exhausted by this kind of a watch behind a hedge and at last pounced upon a number of loafing youths. He caught one and obtained from him the names and addresses of the others.

He then sent a message to each, saying that they could take their choice, come next Saturday and do two hours' work or be summoned before the magistrate. Every one of them turned up, and the farmer is now no longer plagued with trespassers.

Of modern rulers the amir of Afghanistan appears to have the nearest idea of adapting the punishment to the crime. A baker, convicted of short weight, he was made to pass out of his own oven, and a man who took unlawful interest had to walk barefooted through the streets of Kabul for a whole day, giving away so much money each hour.

We call such punishments barbarous, but even in Europe there are persons in authority who follow the amir's methods. Signor Toreschini, Socialist member for Verona, in the Italian parliament, declared in public that the local Socialist paper, La Verona del Popolo, was "a dirty rag." He was summoned before the Verona Socialist Federation and informed that he must either read the whole paper every day in the presence of a special deputation or at once resign his seat. Much against his will he chose the former alternative, and every day for more than a year he was forced to peruse the "dirty rag" from first column to last.

CURE NOT PROVED.

Louisville Courier-Journal: It is not every one who proves the ineffectualness of insomnia cures at 7 years of age.

The father of the lad, who was about 7 years old, was a physician, and when the child found difficulty in getting to sleep was ready with advice. "I'll tell you something that will soon put you to sleep," he said. "You begin and count slowly up to 100, and then another hundred, and so on, and before you know it you'll be sleeping. Everything remained quiet that night until the father went to retire. As he passed the boy's bed, a little voice piped:

"Papa."

"Yes, my boy."

"What comes after trillions?" But the wakeful youngster's query was not answered; his father had vanished into his own bedroom.

dash for the other, escaping with the... one week the quick-witted young fellow is known to have made $100 by this plan of operation.

An angel who was something of a figure during the time of his reign, as such in the theatrical world, is now a figure of fun. He was the quick-witted young fellow who was known to have made $100 by this plan of operation.

Langdon Mitchell has completed a play of an incident of the Revolutionary war which will be produced next season by the producers of the play.

Mason Peters will abandon real estate in Long Island the coming season and will take up the cudgels for the Irish. This will be done in a potent but somewhat indirect way, as he will manage Andrew Mack in his starring tour in Irish plays under the financial direction of William B. Harris, whose nearest approach to Ireland could be made by way of Palestine.

Word received from the Far West from Frederick Hallen says that his wife, Mollie Fuller, who underwent an operation in San Francisco, is slowly recovering, and that the Hallens hope to start East in a short time. The Western trip has been a most unfortunate one for them. First Mr. Hallen was taken sick in Los Angeles, and then Mrs. Hallen was taken down, and for a time it looked as if she could not pull through.

Philo's newest play, "The Thunderbolt," seems to have missed its considerably in London. It was run at the St. James theater.

Margaret Anglin has started her Australian tour at Sydney, and is met with a big success. She has been a bigger hit than any American actress to visit in years.

Gustav Linder, who has been visiting London on his way home from his annual spring tour of Germany, is reported to be at work upon a new musical comedy, the book for which was written by George Ade. Linder has also closed a deal for the presentation of his play, "Woodland," at the Adelphi theater in London.

Martin Beck has completed arrangements for a tour of the West in the form of a musical comedy, "It Happened in Nordland." May Booley has been engaged for one of the principal roles in the new company.

Fritz Schell returned last week from Vienna and other European resorts visited by her since the season closed. She will rest up in New York, before resuming her tour in "Mlle Modiste," to be followed by a new comic opera in the near future.

Elizabeth Murray, the American story teller and comic singer, has just opened in London and is playing the music halls there with the same success that so many American acts have been scoring on the other side of the Atlantic.

George Primrose, who will desert the minstrel field, in face of the growing opposition Primrose says there is room for his show, and to this end he is organizing another burnt cork organization for the regular tour next season.

William Farnum is going into vaudeville for a short time. He will try out in Buffalo this week a one-act play called "The Shock Masterpiece," which was written by Edward Felle, the clever author of "The Prince Charming." Farnum is an old stock favorite in Buffalo, and will be welcome there. If the piece is a go he will likely remain in vaudeville for some time.

Walter Hackett's new play, "The Invader," turns out to be quite a melodrama, and has been doing a good warm weather business at McVicker's theater in Chicago. It is not a pronounced success, but it was rather favorably received.

Ward and Vokes will be seen again in their old line of work next season. They will reunite in a big musical comedy, "The Shock Masterpiece," which was written by Edward Felle, the clever author of "The Prince Charming." Farnum is an old stock favorite in Buffalo, and will be welcome there. If the piece is a go he will likely remain in vaudeville for some time.

William Winter, the veteran critic, who was injured in a railway wreck on the Santa Fe road near Baton, N. M., is now resting at his home in Los Angeles. He is expected to return to his work in the near future. The aged writer is slowly recovering from the shock of that experience. He is expected to return to his work in the near future. COYNE LIKES OLD ENGLAND

Says That the Actor Amounts to Something More Than a Hamfatter Over There—Gossip of the London Stage.

London, July 11.—"I am sorry to leave England," said Joseph Coyne to me a few days ago, "because, from the viewpoint of the actor, England is a far better place than the United States. The actor has a standing here; he has none in America. In England he is placed on a level with the artist or the lawyer or any other professional man. If he conducts himself properly he is respected. In the United States he is a hamfatter and more or less of an outcast."

"Behind the scenes, also, the actor in England has a happier time than in the United States. He gets better and more considerate treatment from the managers. The stage hands and other employees show him a deference unknown in America. In the United States a servant is as good as his master, and wants everybody to know it."

"Between American and English audiences I see absolutely no difference. If they like you they like, and if they don't they don't. It is the same in both countries. So far as I have been able to discover, there is no prejudice in England against other American players or American plays."

Coyne said this in talking of his coming return to the United States. For although "The Merry Widow" shows no signs of diminishing drawing power, the American comedian sails for New York on Aug. 1. With Alexander Carlisle, a young English actor who was in Nat Goodwin's support in England, he will appear at the Garrick, New York, in "The Mollusc," under Charles Frohman's management. I don't know of any theatrical change of the near future so interesting as this transition of Coyne from musical comedy to legitimate drama. The comedian himself is delighted.

"I am tickled to death at the change," he told me. "One can't be a musical comedy comedian all his life. When the gray hairs begin to appear—and to disfigure—you're forced in the scrap heap. You're a 'has been' and the younger boys come along and put you out of business. Although I am still a young fellow, the change had to come sooner or later and when Charles Frohman offered me this chance I jumped at it. I have been rehearsing for some weeks and Frohman is satisfied with my work so we have got to worry about it. We all know our parts and could open tomorrow if necessary."

One of the prettiest musical comedies I have ever seen is "The Merry Widow." I hear that after all these months it is to be produced in London at the Adelphi in October. Linder's "Prince Charming" was produced at the Shaftesbury some years ago and, besides pleasing the British public, it served to introduce them to a future peer. The composer had been in Germany, searching, it is said, for a new libretto, but intends to return to the United States in time for the production of his new opera, "Marcelus." An application came in this week, by the way, for the Danish and Norwegian rights of "The Prince of Pilsen."

At last Cyril Maude, who is universally beloved in England, has an unmistakable success, after a long run of hard luck. He has been blamed for producing poor plays, but he retorts that they were the only sort he could get. The audience at the playhouse on Tuesday night, however, cheered itself hoarse over "The Flag Lieutenant." It isn't a great play, but Maj. Drury and Leo Trevor, who wrote it, know their business, and the situations were so well managed and the curtains, in particular, so effective, that everybody was happy, even though it was evident almost from the beginning how the plot was to end.

It was a story without a villain and without a male. Of two pale in the face, he had never had a chance to distinguish himself, and wasn't in a position to ask the hand of his lady until he had won it. He was a bit of a scoundrel, but he was a scoundrel who had come into money and was going to leave the service anyway. The other had come into money and was going to leave the service anyway. The other had come into money and was going to leave the service anyway. The other had come into money and was going to leave the service anyway.

ing the beleaguered men at the risk of his life. Just as he starts to carry it out, he is bowled over by a bullet that leaves him unconscious so jolly, happy-go-lucky, skylarking Pal No. 2 (who is Cyril Maude), takes on the job and gets back alive, though wounded. When No. 1 comes around his memory is gone, and he supposes he has carried out his plan himself. No. 2 has not the heart to undress him, and no one else knows, so he says No. 1 did what he did. When then, was No. 2 meanwhile, asked the superior officer, who never liked No. 2, Cyril Maude says he won't tell where he was, and ugly rumors got about that he got frightened and hid. When they get back home to the ladies in the third act, No. 1 is the hero and gets all the laurels, and likewise his lady love. No. 2 gets threatened with a court of inquiry, and his lady love is heartbroken. No. 1 sticks to him and says he knows his old friend and feeling some one, and implores him to tell the facts, regardless of consequences, not suspecting that he himself is the man who would be ruined by the revelation. It makes a good situation and, of course, all ends happily with a scenic display on the deck of a battleship and with the band playing, God Save the King.

The advance booking for the play already amounts to $10,000. One reason for the success of the play is that it gives William Maude (Mrs. Maude) the best part she has had for many a season.

Sir John Hare began his farewell appearance last week in "A Pair of Spectacles," in which he has been appearing at intervals ever since Sydney Barrett adapted it from the French eighteen years ago. Old-fashioned and out-of-date as it is, the play is one to be seen by every budding dramatist as an illustration of the old advice to playwrights: "tell the audience what you are going to do; then let them see you doing it; then tell them what you have done." And as for the acting, the veteran John Hare supplies all the finesse and delicate effects of light and shade that the play lacks.

Coquelin, who is to France what John Hare is to England, is also here, and playing this week in Sardou's "L'Affaire des Poisons," with a well-nigh perfect company, including the beautiful Gilda D'Arthy, who is the Madame de Montespan of this picture of the days of Louis XIV. The passing years have not robbed Coquelin of one jot or tittle of his greatness.

CAREER OF FRANK C. BANGS

Frank C. Bangs, who died recently at his home in Atlantic City, was one of the last actors of the great age that produced Booth, Barrett, Wallack, Coulton, the elder Drew and the elder Booth. Mr. Bangs was born in Alexandria, Va., on October 25, 1838. He was brought up very strictly by his mother, who desired him to be a minister. He was, however, at the age of 12 he moved to Washington, and at the age of 13 he saw the elder Booth play Richard III. at the Adelphi theater there, and from that time he was determined to become an actor. When he was 15 he was obliged to go to work, and his desire for a better education led him to writing type on a newspaper, where he thought he could learn to write. He went on the Southern Press, a paper in Washington managed by Cooper and De Leon, and was put to writing type. He showed so much interest in his new position that he contracted the attention of his employers, and he was soon allowed to be about after local items and write short articles. For some time he had worked on the paper, and then his modesty led him to Philadelphia to study theology. It took but a few weeks to convince his theological tutors that the story of his various attempts to obtain a footing on the stage would fill columns, but after numerous rebuffs from managers, E. O. Marshall engaged him to play at the Adelphi in Philadelphia on September 27, 1851, in support of the cause of the freed blacks. The novice was to play the part of a young lover, and knew so little about acting or the business of the theater that he was to the greenroom and gave him a private rehearsal, after which he went on stage. Marshall engaged him to play at the Adelphi in Philadelphia on September 27, 1851, in support of the cause of the freed blacks. The novice was to play the part of a young lover, and knew so little about acting or the business of the theater that he was to the greenroom and gave him a private rehearsal, after which he went on stage. He took but a few weeks to convince his theological tutors that the story of his various attempts to obtain a footing on the stage would fill columns, but after numerous rebuffs from managers, E. O. Marshall engaged him to play at the Adelphi in Philadelphia on September 27, 1851, in support of the cause of the freed blacks. The novice was to play the part of a young lover, and knew so little about acting or the business of the theater that he was to the greenroom and gave him a private rehearsal, after which he went on stage.

After two seasons in Washington, he was engaged as first walking gentleman at Ford's theater, and then he went there for two seasons. The second season he was promoted to leading juvenile at a salary of $20 a week and continued with such roles as Romeo, Horatio and Hamlet. After leaving Albany he played short engagements in Washington, Baltimore and Richmond, and then through the influence of Joseph Jefferson he was engaged for Laura Keane's company in New York to take the place of George Gordon. He remained with Miss Keane during the season of 1855-56.

He next joined the forces of James Anthony Absolute in "The Rivals," the duke of Ventnor, with Stuart Robson, in two roles and in the latter success. He then joined Palmer's Union Square company, appearing as John Strobil in "The Banker's Daughter," James Ralston in "Jim the Penman," and Ed. Preston in "Alabama," the latter part on the road for three seasons.

Mr. Bangs next starred in Davenport's play, "St. Marc, or the Soldier of Fortune," which was a success. "INDEPENDENCE DAY" IN FRANCE

The French Fourth is the 14th of July, just ten days after America's independence day. Like ours, it celebrates the throwing down of kings. And while France, later on, had to endure both Bonaparte and Bourbons, the republic always won out—with the people dancing in the streets of Paris on their glorious Fourteenth.

Each ward division in Paris has its central place like the hub of a wheel, from which streets radiate. Here are churches, post-offices, mayors' offices, newspaper kiosques, cab stands and a lot of big cafes and wine shops, whose hospitable awnings overhang the sidewalk. All through the hot afternoon, the millions sit beneath the cafe awnings—and more—beneath the awnings of the closed shops around the place. Seated in this sidewalk shade, overhanging the street, are the people of whatever, the vast population lazes, amused through the afternoon, by the endless music hall turns done beneath their noses by a raft of sassy, jolly wandering actors, singers, dancers, acrobats, sword swallowers, pantomimists, slight-of-hand men and little boys with patriotic speeches—and a hat to take up the collection.

But as the place wakes up, it glows with fairy colors. The householders are illuminating with Venetian lanterns. The municipal lights its vast lines of tinted bulbs. It is a more vivid scene than the one that stands in the center; and its dancing orchestra strikes up.

Hope! You should see them dance the polka; the big butcher with the merry widow of the flower store; our maid of all work Louisa; and the baker's foreman; our janitor's young wife with the wife of a wealthy, rich auto-garager and his comfortable wife; and the jeweler's son with his pretty cousin.

Crash! Bang! It is midnight. Now the breeze is up, the air is cool. Between each dance they led their partners to their mothers or their husbands, at the little cafe tables. Amicable glasses clinking. Light words. Vive la Republique! They are almost assumed to show enthusiasm, feeling. Vive la Republique! They are all carefree, laughing.

You see, most of these men and women are under 40 years of age. In France they dance till 40, but the 40 older really don't have much pull with the ladies; and these ladies—ways under 35—cannot remember any other government but the republic! Thirty-eight years ago, the Napoleonic dynasty lost France a war, a billion dollars and two provinces. Yet all those hateful losses did less harm to the Napoleonic cause than has the quiet passing of time over its neglected and neglected heads!

"Bang!" It is 1 a. m. on the 14th of July—the anniversary of the tearing down of the Bastille, the private prison of the kings of France. "Crash! Bang! The orchestra whoops up the Paraphrase."

"Vive la Republique!" The young men clink their glasses between dances. They have never known anything but that same Republic.

What chances do you think has Louis Philippe, duke of Orleans, the pretender to the ancient throne of France, both for the Bourbon and the Orleans branches? Two years ago, about this time, Philippe pronounced a toast and it is "Philip"—dreamed he had chances. In the previous year, just two deputies had been elected under the party name of Royalist—with some twenty more supposed to be rather in sympathy with the would-be Louis-Philippe. The next day there were probably fifty others openly willing to chance the French constitution by a vote in a strong, militant Napoleonic or a Roosevelt, vote—but a long time.

Then the elections came. A vast Republican tidal wave did its thing. Out of 90 members of parliament, there were not left thirty-five Royalists. The rest were all Republicans. Crash! Bang! It is 3 a. m. And they are at Parandole again! The breeze is out. The breeze is cool.

Taste is the most delightful sense that many men possess. Because it daily Tells a man of good things to eat and drink and fills the mind with pleasant memories.

If this is to be the chief joy of your life, see to it that you do not abuse your sense of taste by a poor selection of foods and drinks.

Cultivated tastes tell the same Tale, which is, in substance, Drink Heileman's Old Style Lager.

You ought to do this because it is pure and good and has a "smack" all its own.

THE TRIUMPH OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC, A FAMOUS FRES-CO IN THE PARIS HOTEL DE VILLE.

The crowds seated at the cafe tables round the place show a reluctance to depart.

The servants now are dancing most; all the brave valies and smart soubs of the neighborhood for three blocks far and near.

Ask them or their employers at the table if they dance round the corpse of dead Royalism, and they'll look up at you in perplexed surprise.

But, if you push further, they may tell you that they have grown up in the republic—thirty-eight years of peace and prosperity that they are making money, bringing up their children, taking their Parisian comforts.

Merel, thank you, quite contented! What Royalism?

THE WILL OF GROVER CLEVELAND PROBATED.

Trenton, N. J., July 11.—The will of Grover Cleveland was probated yesterday. The probating took place at the home of Mrs. Cleveland in Princeton. Surrogate John W. Cornell was there for the purpose. Mrs. Cornell did this out of consideration for Mrs. Cleveland, who did not care to come to the courthouse at Trenton. Mrs. Cleveland arrived in Princeton from New Hampshire yesterday.

day. The will is in Mr. Cleveland's handwriting, and makes no disclosures as to the extent of his wealth. After some minor bequests and the creation of a fund of $10,000 for each of the four children, the remainder of the estate is left to Mrs. Cleveland. In the will Mrs. Cleveland expresses the desire that he be buried in the place where he should die, and that the body of her husband should be reposed by the side of his wife's body.

ARE HITTING THE BUTTERMILK

Hot Weather Affects Appetites of the Hotel Lodgers.

Mary, please pass the buttermilk. Banana belt zephyrs are moulding the appetites and tastes of the hotel lodgers who are spending the tropical, sweltering days in Duluth, where tourists are wont to shiver.

They are quaffing buttermilk in large and copious quantities at all of the hotels. At the McKay, for instance, Mr. McKay says his guests will drink forty gallons a week. When the mercury is on its good behavior the patrons of the McKay drink about ten gallons a week. Next they have swelled the receipts of the milkman, have tabooed meats and have taken to the vegetables and salads.

Down at the Lenox the guests are demanding rooms with baths. They all want rooms facing the street, where the breeze whisks airily in, and, as all cannot have this kind of rooms, there is many an official remonstrance as a result.

At the Spalding, every room fronting on the lake is taken. One irate man, with perspiring, red face, today informed the clerk that he hadn't slept a wink last night. He wants a room that fronts upon the lake and he threatens to go up and camp on the roof, in pajamas attire, until someone moves out of one of those lake-front rooms.

At the St. Louis they have made a material change in their menu card. The heavier dishes have been supplanted by salads, ices and the kind of things that do not do things to the liver.

It is a safe prediction that not many of the tourists who have weathered the present spell of equatorial weather will return Eastward with stories of rigid blasts and tales of silver-producing northeastern.

THE PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS

Public playgrounds have not as yet had a chance to demonstrate what they can do to add to the health and joy of Duluth children, but from the small experiments that have been carried on in two or three of the parks it is evident that the movement here will meet with the same great success it has elsewhere.

The experiments in the parks have been a severe test, for there have been no regularly-appointed attendants in charge, and experience of other cities has shown that public playgrounds, no matter how small, cannot be operated successfully for any length of time unless there are attendants on hand to see that the rights of all the children, young and old alike, are observed at all times. On the other hand, where there are such supervisors, the movement invariably meets with success.

The play apparatus in Portland square was taken possession of by young hoodlums who were too old to be in such a place, but who took delight in annoying the children. They became such a nuisance that the playground had to be done away with.

In Cascade park, where the accompanying photographs were taken, the experiment panned out better, even if there were no attendants. In both places the children entered with great gladness and in great numbers into the sport offered by the grounds, and with the proper supervision there could have been no failure. The hoodlums who destroyed any chances of success the Portland square ground had, did not bother the Cascade location, so the latter met with a greater degree of success.

Not only will the children get more pleasure and benefit from playing on the grounds allotted to them for the purpose than if they played indiscriminately around in the streets, but their parents will be at much greater peace of mind, knowing just where the children are, and that they are in capable hands.

PRODUCTION OF LUMBER

Totals of Output Last Year Furnished by Census Bureau.

Decrease in White Pine
Cut of the Lake States.

Washington, July 11.—The bureau of the census, with the assistance of the forest service of the department of agriculture, has for some years collected statistics concerning the annual production of various forest products, and the preliminary totals for the cut of lumber, in the United States, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1907, have just been made public.

Unusual importance is attached to the reports for the past year, which show that the aggregate cut of lumber in the United States increased from 17,351 million feet board measure, in 1906, to 10,225 million feet in 1907—a gain of 2,053 million feet, or 7.2 per cent. For lath and shingles the total production was 2,694 million and 11,550 million, respectively, in 1907, as against 2,813 million and 11,533 million, respectively, in 1906—a decrease of 119 million, or 3.3 per cent, in lath, and an increase of 92 million, or eight-tenths of 1 per cent, in shingles. The number of mills reporting in 1907 was 23,850, while in 1906 the cut of 22,305 mills was covered.

Effect of the Panic.
The substantial increase in the total production of lumber in 1907, as compared with 1906, in spite of the financial stringency, which measurably affected most lines of manufacture during a part of the latter year, is remarkable, and especially so in view of certain well-known local causes, which also operated during the whole or a part of the year to reduce the output of the regions affected. Aside from the cut shortage, which necessitated a restriction of the cut in many localities during the earlier months of the year, the fact that the industry of lumber manufacturer was practically suspended on the Pacific coast early in the fall, on account of the prospective raises in freight rates by the railroads which handle the product of the mills in this region, materially affected the amount of output. Furthermore, a steady decline from year to year is to be expected in the Lake states, because of the rapid exhaustion of their timber supply. In the Southern states, however, the principal producers of lumber during recent years—local conditions were substantially normal, but the effect of the business depression obtaining throughout the country during the latter part of 1907, while somewhat obscured, may nevertheless be discerned in the showing for that region.

Increase in Production.
The unprecedented volume of building operations under way during 1906, and the earlier part of 1907 had created a demand for yellow pine which reduced stocks and kept the mills running at practically maximum capacity during the major part of the latter year—for some months even after the decline in building activity had become general and pronounced. Furthermore, these conditions brought into operation many new mills, a fact which also contributed to a material increase in the normal cut of the region through the earlier months of 1907. The exceptional heavy production during this part of the year is more clearly indicated by the figures when it is borne in mind that many of the large mills in the yellow pine district were idle, or practically so, for several weeks during the latter part of the year. The greater thoroughness which characterized the 1907 canvass undoubtedly contributed in some degree also to the increased totals for these states as well as for other lumber regions of the country.

Cut of Yellow Pine.
More than nine-tenths of the stand of yellow pine stumpage is in the coast states, from Virginia to Texas, inclusive, and Arkansas. This group, together with Kentucky and Tennessee, reported a total lumber cut in 1907 of 17,042,213 thousand feet by 11,350 mills, as against 15,095,110 thousand feet by 8,141 mills in 1906—an increase of 1,947,103 thousand feet, or 12.8 per cent in production and 32.1 per cent in number of mills. Of this total output, the several species of yellow pine—long leaf, short leaf, loblolly, Cuban, etc.—contributed 12,810,790 thousand feet, or 74.4 per cent in 1907, and 11,230,014 thousand feet, or 74.3 per cent in 1906—an increase in the cut of this wood of 1,580,776 thousand feet, or 14.1 per cent. Other woods showing important gains were: Oak, from 1,062,235 thousand feet in 1906 to 1,465,793 thousand feet in 1907; poplar, from 25,002 thousand feet to 42,740 thousand feet; and redwood, from 6,630 thousand feet to 68,894 thousand feet. Oak and poplar are the principal lumber trees of Kentucky and Tennessee. It is possible that the indicated increase in the cut of these woods was due, in part, to the substantially larger number of mills reported for these states in 1907.

Production in the East.
In New York and New England, where the manufacture of lumber and allied products from standing timber still holds a relatively high place among the industries of the region, the totals were not materially changed from those of the preceding year; most of the states, however, showed gains, and in a few instances the relative increases were considerable. The total cut of New York and New England combined—2,077,482 thousand feet for 1907—showed that of 1906 by 348,214 thousand feet, an increase of 16.7 per cent. Such a showing is noteworthy in view of the waning timber supply in this region, and the fact that the cut of this region is practically a part of the period covered by the census. The production of the entire output of the mills of this section—unlike that of the mills in the Lake states, the Southern states, and the Pacific coast states—is marketed locally and is insufficient in quantity to satisfy the normal demand, a considerable percentage of the product consumed here being shipped in, chiefly from the South and from the Lake region. The falling off in the demand for lumber in these states during the latter part of 1907, therefore, while reflected sharply in the decreased shipments into them, apparently had little or no bearing on the output of the local mills, whose capacity was still short of the demand.

Although the wood pulp industry is making a heavy and increasing draft upon the supply of spruce, this tree still practically shares with white pine the place of first importance among the lumber timbers of this region. The cut of spruce reported in 1907 was 1,083,588 thousand feet, an increase over 1906 of 5,314 thousand feet, or 7.4 per cent. It formed 30.4 per cent of the total output of all the mills in these states in 1907.

while white pine contributed 31.8 per cent.

Decrease in White Pine Cut.
The total production of the Lake states was 6,401,690 thousand feet in 1907 and 6,927,723 thousand feet in 1906, a decrease of 526,033 thousand feet, or 7.6 per cent. Among the various species the greatest loss was in pine, which decreased from 3,650,702 thousand feet in 1906 to 2,457,596 thousand feet in 1907, or 1,193,106 thousand feet, or 32.7 per cent; while for hemlock, maple and basswood the relative decreases were only 8.5, 5.5 and 2 per cent, respectively, and for birch there was an increase of 4.6 per cent. In these states, as a whole, pine still holds the place of first importance, though the history of lumbering in Michigan, where with the passing of pine the cut of the mills ran to hemlock and the hard woods, is being repeated in Wisconsin. In this state in 1907 the reported cut of pine for the first time fell below that of hemlock, the output of the latter exceeding that of the former by 13.7 per cent, while in 1906 the production of pine was greater than that of hemlock by 12.1 per cent. In Minnesota the cut of pine in 1907 formed 91.6 per cent of the total lumber output of the state, and represented 69.3 per cent of the aggregate cut of this wood in all the Lake states.

Comparison With Previous Years.
The report also contains statistics of the cut for the years 1904, 1905 and 1906. The total of 35,094 million feet, board measure, shown for 1901, is comparable with the 37,551 million and 40,225 million feet reported for 1906 and 1907, respectively, as the canvases for each of these years covered both merchant and custom mills. In 1904 and 1905 the recorded lumber cut of the country was 34,135 million feet and 30,500 million feet, board measure, respectively. The figures for 1904 were compiled at the quinquennial census of manufactures of 1905, which was limited to merchant mills, thus excluding small neighborhood mills and those engaged exclusively in local custom sawing, which probably accounts for the fact that the total cut for that year was smaller than in 1901, 1906 or 1907. The figures for 1906, while doubtless correct, are of course for a different period, and the annual cut might be given as wide as scope the canvases of 1904, 1905 and 1906 are presented, as they constitute the most complete record available for those years.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Further Small Net Gains
Recorded in Commercial Progress.

New York, July 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Further small net gains are recorded in commercial progress, favorable reports predominating, although the tendency is by no means definite. In many lines of trade the dullness of midsummer is unusually intense, but each week brings increased manufacturing activity, and instances are noted of orders for fall goods placed too late for delivery at specified dates. More business is coming to the iron furnaces and steel mills, although orders are usually for small quantities, but a good sign is the increase of specifications on old contracts. This extends even to billets, which have been notably quiet for several months. Sales of steel bars during June attained surprising dimensions.

Structural shapes move more freely, several large undertakings and numerous small bridges or buildings calling for a substantial tonnage. Tin plate mills have made satisfactory agreements with employees, and canners are specifying freely against standing contracts, while pipe works increase their active capacity.

Textile mills are still curtailing output, especially in New England, but gradual improvement is noted in some departments. Demand has so long been confined to urgent needs that there is practical assurance of a vigorous movement when consumption discloses the depleted condition of stocks in all positions. A fair export demand for light weight cottons comes from India and Red Sea points, while staple prints go to Manila and South America. New lines of woollens attract little attention, the only business thus far being in standard goods, and the season is not advanced sufficiently to determine anything definite.

Buyers are coming into the Boston footwear market in fairly large numbers, representing wholesale purchasers in West and South, and fairly liberal contracts are placed. Business is largest in men's heavy shoes, although there is a good demand for calf and glazed kid goods. Owing to the late date at which jobbers placed fall orders, it will be impossible to make additions as desired. Leather is stronger in response to the persistent advance of hides, contracts being placed, and many departments are becoming active that have been very dull for many months. One notable case is carriage leather, that was extremely inactive until this week. Harness makers are now paying 4 cents above the recent low record price, and belting butts are also firmer, but in light demand.

Further sharp advances are recorded in all branches of the hide market.

How Capt. John Ryan Abandoned What Became a Big Mine—
New Generation Has Made Millions Out of What a Past Generation Discarded as Worthless.

Houghton, Mich., July 11.—(Special to The Herald).—Among persons having some knowledge of mining, and even of local conditions, it usually is taken for granted that the country in and about the Lake Superior district has been thoroughly explored, and that no important mineral wealth is to be found, except at long distances from the principal points of population. This opinion, however, is of late opinion is being demonstrated frequently, and such demonstrations will continue to be made for many years to come. One of the mines in the Baltic mine was opened in 1881, and that of Hill, Michigan, south of Houghton, on the old Ontonagon road. A shallow shaft was sunk to a depth of 100 feet in 1881, by Capt. John Ryan, father of John D. Ryan, present manager of the Amalgamated mine. The object of this exploration recourse was had to the diamond drill, when it was found that the vein of pyrite and the drill hole was pitched at the same angle as the dip of the beds of the country. The dip of the beds of Huron, only three miles to the north. Unfortunately for Capt. Ryan, the bedded nature of the country was not known, and takes a sudden twist, shortly south of the Huron mine, and with this change the dip of the vein, with the dip and strike are entirely different on the Baltic than on the Huron. The dip of the Baltic is 15 degrees, while that of the Huron is 30 degrees. The drillhole at too flat an angle, the drill left the copper-bearing bed at shallow depth, and the result was that the copper was lost. Simple as the explanation is, it is not generally known. No one, however, nobly knew the facts a quarter of a century ago, and what might have been the result had the mine not been abandoned, for reasons that were then considered good by the best miners of the district. Mining successes in this district are few, and failures are many. The projectors of the ances, the Wolverine began making money the day its stamp mill was started. It has since sold its output of refined copper at the lowest price for which the metal ever has sold, and has returned to the owners of the property a large sum of money, during the past decade, with twice as much realized as it had invested. It has been in operation for twenty years, and enjoys the local nickname of "the little mine that could."

The Keweenaw series consists of upwards of two hundred old lava flows, andesites, and basalts, and is composed of strata, and any one of which may carry copper in payable quantities so abundant that it is not necessary to be bothered employed on roads, sewers and water main extensions, find copper every square foot of the surface, and dig up several hundred pounds in weight. Only three miles from the mouth of the Keweenaw, Capt. A. M. Dunn, who opened the Big Butte, cut a copper-bearing apophysis into the western part of the town. This lode is of about eighteen feet thick, carrying from 10 to 15 per cent of copper. Apparently this is not the Montezuma lode, but a new one, and it is probable that work has done about fifty years ago, as is a lode that has lain undiscovered, and is now being worked, for about thirty years, where a city was built over it. If such discoveries can be made, the Keweenaw will be a very important town of the district. It is evident that the Keweenaw is a very richly endowed territory, and it is very properly explored. In fact it is a statement within the bounds of truth to say that the Keweenaw contains almost all the mines of the district—where one mine alone has more than two hundred million dollars' worth of copper available for exploratory work, the district would remain far from a barren one, and the Keweenaw would be a very rich field, with richer ones than those of Lake Superior, and more than those of the Lake Superior.

Likely to Remain Out of Commission for Another Month---Boston & Montana Mines Will Curtail Output to Forty Per Cent.

Butte, Mont., July 11.—It is quite likely that the Great Falls smelter of the Boston & Montana company will remain out of commission for another month, as the big flood did great damage to the plant. In the meantime the mines of the company are running.

Butte will operate at about 40 per cent of their capacity. Mining is being done at the Butte, Anaconda and Colusa mines, which produce about 1,200 tons of ore a day. The Great Northern railroad, between Butte and Anaconda, has been closed for several days because of being tied up through washouts for more than three weeks. With the exception of the Boston & Montana and the Anaconda subsidiary companies, all the Amalgamated are again running at full capacity and so are the Northern and Colusa companies. They lost about a week during June because of interruption of ore transportation by floods.

The Parrot Mining company has not yet reached a normal production, but it is expected that the output will rise as the lower levels with the object of opening the veins down to 2,000 feet.

It is expected that the company will start mining the Silver vein, of which the Butte Coalition owns thirty-one thirty-sixths. In the Silver vein, about 600 tons of copper are mined every day. The average is around 6 per cent copper.

About 7,000 men are now employed in the amalgamated mines since mining has been resumed in the Never-west, West Gray Rock and Mountain iron mines.

A new shaft was sunk at Coeur d'Alene through a shaft 2,200 feet deep and will yield about 500 tons of

THE GUGGENHEIMS' EXPERT

Visits the Helvetia Company's Property and Makes Inspection and Rumors Started That Guggenheims Will Take Over the Mine.

Tucson, Ariz., July 11.—Prof. Spurr, chief geologist for the Guggenheim interests, has left for his headquarters in New York city, after spendings a couple of weeks in this section during which time he paid a visit to the Helvetia district and put his staff to work examining the mineral character of the ground thereabouts. He is a citizen of the United States, and it is believed made an examination of the district in the interests of the Guggenheims.

Prof. Spurr arrived in Tucson about six weeks ago, accompanied by his assistant, Mr. Farrell, and went immediately to work mapping out the work to be done by his assistants when they arrived. A short time later he returned to New York, and will be immediately to the camp. Prof. Spurr returned to Tucson and then left for the East.

It is impossible to learn at the present ent time that the object of the geologist's examination is but significance is attached thereto, it being believed that such examinations have been interested in the mining district and intend to commence operations. It is also rumored that the Government has also removed from the Hava Company's property, but it is impossible to get any information of this rumor. The stock of the company is valued at $100,000, advancing on the strength of the news.

Prof. Spurr himself is a distinguished geologist, having been one of several standard bodies on geology and having held several prominent positions in his profession. REVISION OF MINING LAWS

Montana Engineers' Memorial to Congress—Present System
Wrong—Memorial Voices Complaints Which Are Now Growing Very Common—Existing Method Faulty and Results in Injustice.

By the courtesy of Horace V. Winchell, the Mining and Scientific Press, presents a draft for a memorial to congress, submitted for the consideration of a committee on the revision of the mining law of the United States, appointed by the Montana Society of Engineers. Mr. Winchell remarks that "it voices the complaints which are becoming very common against the present system of inspection of mining claims located under the mineral land laws of the United States. I am aware, from personal inspection, of the extreme faulty character of the present system." The memorial recites:

chief forester, a book intended for the reading public, the following directions are given, under the heading "Prospect-ors":

"Proceed just as on the open public domain. National forests do not interfere with the rights of the citizen. These sentences, we maintain, are misleading for, as a matter of fact, a prospector is not permitted to proceed just as on the public domain, and it is not true that national forests do not interfere with the rights of the citizen. Acquisition of title to mining claims in the 'Use Book,' consisting of regulations for the management of the forests, of the officers of the forest reserves, such minute and exacting requirements are made in regard to the location of mining claims by the forest officer as to make it a very exceptional and rare prospect, for the forest officer requires that the officer must measure the width of the vein, sample each grade of ore, care for the mine, and, in addition, that it under lock and key to prevent 'salting,' and, in the event of a contest or adverse report by the inspector, the mine is to be assayed by the mint at Denver, Carson City or Seattle to be assayed. Upon the basis of this investigation, the forest officer determines not the claim is of commercial value, but if not of commercial value, nor capable of being developed into a mine, the claimant's application is rejected."

of an agricultural contest for the land, some scientific evidence of actual ore-veining is required to determine the mining location. It is a fact practically universal in the courts that the vein or lode located is such as to give the claimant the best evidence in following up the indications of ore, and in expending his time and money in the search for a sufficient discovery to justify and uphold the location. But the officers of the United States Department of the Interior are not bound to follow more stringent tests. They apply such tests as are applied to a fully developed lode, and they are not bound to apply these tests are unauthorized by law, and are entirely unreasonable, and unduly exacting, and have been formulated by some person or persons who are ignorant of the facts of mining law. Such tests have never been applied before in the history of mining in the United States, and the United States requires work only of the worth of work to be performed or to be proven to exist. The United States requires no more any party for patent. When these improvements have been made, if he has a vein such as to give him the best evidence of the lode, the location, he is entitled to a patent under the laws of the United States, and he is entitled to the support of a forest reserve or elsewhere. The officers of the national forests have formulated rules practically nullifying the laws of the United States, and it is almost an impossibility to comply notwithstanding the entire good faith of the officers of the United States. The officers do not go far, as a rule, toward

Salt Lake, Utah, July 11.—A deal has just been closed by which the Idaho Copper company, a newly organized concern, has purchased the claims of the Men men are the controlling factor. The possession of fifty-one of the claims owned by the Welmer Copper company on Birch Creek, Idaho. The Idaho Copper company has a lease on the claims and is obligated to pay about $15,000 in indebtedness of the Welmer company and to clear up the title to the claims. In the deal, The Idaho Copper company also agrees to pay a rental royalty of $6,000 for the first two years and a premium of $20,000 a year thereafter. The Idaho company also has the privilege of purchasing the claims for a total of $200,000. The new payment of $2,000,000. The men in the new company announce their purpose to build a tramway from the claims on Birch Creek, where a smelter is to be built.

The Colorado and Dragon lode on mine at Silver City, in Tintic, has been bought by Jesse Knight, who now has control of the mine. The Colorado vein from the Beck Tunnel for a distance of two miles, except a strip of 600 feet between the Beck and the Beck and Beck tunnels, will be sold to

The Tintic Smelting company has decided to double the capacity of the lead smelter at Ogden, Utah, and to quadruple the capacity of its copper furnace.

A strike has been made in the Diamond lode in Tintic. Good droppings were found at the surface and at a depth of 100 feet in the shaft the vein was traced down to a depth of 200 feet, where it was estimated to contain one and one-half tons of lead, 14 ounces silver and $4 gold.

The Utah-Idaho Mining company has just purchased a large tract of land situated over or from its property at La Plata district, twenty-two miles northeast of Ogden. The ore carried 74.6% iron, 18.9% manganese and 1.5% nickel with a trace of gold. This is the first shipment after three years of development work on the property.

The new plant to be built will be built in the Sierra Madre district, just north of Ogden. Work will be resumed on the Eldorado, Colorado lode, near the Elmore and Prince of Wales.

DREDGING FOR YUKON GOLD

First Dredge of Yukon Basin Company Being Put in Readiness for Operation---Valdez Creek District a Great Placer Field.

Seattle, Wash., July 11.—The plans of the Yukon Basin Gold Dredging company are now rapidly materializing. The face of the mountains in the vicinity of the 10,000 acres of rich placer land by direct concession from the Canadian government has brought it very prominently before the public eye. The project has been a force throughout the Northwest. The project is a great dredge, to be of mammoth proportions, was built in the United States, and is now in readiness for operation on Nelson bar, just below the mouth of the Mesquito river. The dredge is to be operated by miners with only shovels and cranks, and the gold is to be washed out of the sand in those sand bars, but have no more than a few shovels and cranks. The project also recalled that Mining Recorder Burdett, who was stationed for some years in the Yukon basin, had estimated many millions in gold in the Yukon basin, and the project is the progress of this enterprise is being closely watched by the company, and is likely to be reported shortly.

The Yukon dredge is now proving to be a great success. It is now being found on twelve streams running from the Yukon river, and the project is now in the district are still unlocated, according to the project. The project is now in the hands of the project, and the project is now in the hands of the project, and the project is now in the hands of the project.

Narrow Interpretations. In the United States nearly all of the mountains have been set apart as national forests, leaving only the bare bench and valley lands open to the people under the national laws. Since the mountain districts are practically the only regions where mines can be expected to form, the prospect as it exists nearly all of the territory in the state of Montana upon which a prospector can look for mines. The coal and iron fields, however, are located upon national forests, as elsewhere. And if this law were extended by the officers of the land department to the bare bench and valley lands, a prospector would have with him, we should have no complaint to make. But it is interpreted in so narrow and exclusive a spirit that the mining is exceedingly difficult, and in many cases impossible, to secure patents for mining claims upon forest reserves. In a mining state like Montana, the "National Forests," by Gifford Pinchot, examination and tests of materials. The inventor must also be made aware of the fact that the patent office is not a very exceptional and far prospect. Indeed, that will pass the scrutiny. The officer must measure the material, and if it is a very exceptional and far prospect, fully wrap and label the sample, place it under lock and key to prevent "sneaking" and then the inventor must appear before the inspector. He must and it to the assayer of the mint at Denver, Carson City or Seattle to be tested. If the material is found to be of high quality, the officer decides whether or not the claim is of commercial value. If not of commercial value, the claimant's application is rejected. Immediately, the claimant's application is rejected.

Sirrington Tests

The laws of the United States permit a claimant to apply for and secure a patent after the expenditure of $200 worth of work upon an invention. The inventor could, of course, in any state, have held that in the absence some person or persons who are ignorant of the conditions of ordinary mining law, and who have been misled by a claim which has been established and upheld before in the history of mining in the United States. The laws of the United States require only a small amount of work to be performed upon a claim before one may apply for patent. When these improvements have been made, if he has a vein such as the one in question, he is entitled to identify the location, he is entitled to patent under the laws of the United States, whether the claim be situated upon a forest, or upon a place where the laws of the nation for the purpose formulated rules practically nullifying the laws of congress, and with which it is almost an impossibility to comply notwithstanding the fact that the laws of the applicant. OLD PICACHO HAS A HISTORY

Mine on the Colorado River Takes New Lease of Life---Mill's Crushing Capacity Estimated at 1,000 Tons Daily.

Disbrow, Jr., July 11.—The old placita mine, located just across the Colorado river, about twenty-five miles above Yuma, is again to take on a new lease of life. By many it will be remembered that this mine was abandoned in 1902 and on for fifty or more years, at first on a very small scale, but later on a scale of crushing 1,000 tons of ore a day was put in, the expense of which was considerable. The ore is low grade, but lies in vast detached bodies frequently fifty or more feet thick, and is easily mined. Work on the property was discontinued, and a reorganization of the company effected, the result of which was to enable it to do with the mine proper, but had it not been for the fact that the owners view the elimination of the mill as a necessary step, it would now suppose it to be in readiness to resume. This company is financed by the mine before mentioned, and is owned by G. H. Blaisdel. He missed success only by one of those turns of circumstance which no man cannot see farther into the ground than another. On one claim, known as the "Big Red," he had a very rich strike, and, Blaisdel determined to explore

It. With this end in view he sunk a shaft sixty-five feet deep and then drifted thirty feet to the west, where he found a vein of ore. He moved his machinery around the river, while the little stars twinkled in the sky, and the moon shone brightly. Then he came into possession of the present company, and the work of exploitation began. It was not long before the mine was worked, however, before much work had been done elsewhere and the Apache was again on the move. He was not to be deterred. After carefully examining the ground, he determined the location of the vein. It was a continuation of the old shaft and the strange part of it is that the drift was not there. The mine was then drifted exposed a body of ore more than fifty feet thick and of an unusually high grade. The mine was then worked under the Blaisdell regime and the history of the Piacacho would have been differently told.

The mine proper is about three miles from the Colorado river, and through the mountains of the Colorado range is located near the water and the ore train needs no further transportation. The mine is to be moved to the mine and the river the river pumped to it.

RAIL

Head Carrier System

Mesaba Ores

While the Jones & Laughlin Steel company will continue the experiment with the grab and overhead carrier system at its Grant mine, at Bulli, this season, Mesaba range mining men in general are not much taken up with it. While possibly it will be perfected so as to serve adequately in stripping work, the apparatus is not considered sufficiently flexible to meet the demands of the miners. It is unlikely that the steam shovel will ever be supplanted. The ore in the big pits is of various grades. There are areas of Bessemer and stretches of non-Bessemer. Consequently it is necessary to transfer operations from one point to another, making long hauls.

The steam shovel is ideal for the purpose. It can be moved anywhere, and it is operated at low cost, whereas as the grab can serve only a limited area and with its cables and power plant is expensive to maintain.

It was the idea formerly that it would be unprofitable to remove much more than thirty feet of overburden. Now as much as 100 feet of overburden of surface materials is being stripped, and it does not appear the limit has been reached. At the Hibbing plant, Mesaba, production of 2,000,000 tons of ore to date, the stripping so far done amounts to 4,500,000 cubic yards. At the Mountain Iron, which is the largest plant, some 20,000,000,000 million tons of ore, the largest outgo of any iron mine anywhere, and this is the largest plant, and which will be a giant producer far in future, will nearly 5,000,000 cubic yards of overburden have been removed. Stripping amounting to 4,000,000 cubic yards has been done the past three years at the Steel corporation's Monroe-Tener property, where some lively work is in progress to get out all the ore possible before the expiration of the lease. It was only a few years ago that the great Mahoning mine at Hibbing aroused a great awe in those who saw the big excavation. Tho ore was estimated by the acre. The Mahoning is a great mine yet will be for many years, but leading from it and developed on the same formation, is the Steel corporation's mammoth Fullerton mine, which has been removed with the Burt, opened on the same deposit, much the largest in the world. It already removed 5,000,000 cubic yards of overburden. The stupendous ore body at this point extends for several miles, the amount of stripping yet to do can be realized.

Some tremendous stripping is being done at the Steel corporation's new properties at the Western end of the Mesabi range, where the ore is found at the Canisteo, Walker and Holman mines within the past two and one-half years an aggregate of approximately 5,000,000 cubic yards of overburden. Eventually the three pits will be merged into one, making an excavation 1,000 feet wide. It is quite certain, too, that the formation extends westward even to the Mississippi river, and that the iron-bearing sands mine will be developed. The deposits where now being opened average about 170 feet

Nith Grab and Ore to Treat Western Star Falls District.

In thickness and are overlaid with eighty-five feet of drift. It will be possible to ship about 25 per cent of the ore as it lies in the ground. The remainder, because of the sand with which it is mixed, it will be necessary to wash. As it lies in the beds, it runs from 30 to 60 per cent metallic iron. Taken to the separating plant, and treated, some 75 to 90 per cent of the original value of the iron ore are extracted from the bulk of the material concentrated, the metal being an ore of high-grade, though one of exceptionally fine grain a characteristic, however, that is longer frowned upon in furnace practice.

Great Washing Plant.

Millions of tons of ore will be mined in this Western Mesaba district annually, and the washery at which the product will be treated, will be of corresponding large capacity. This great plant will be located on the east shore of Trout lake and will cost, it is estimated, approximately $1,500,000. It will be a mammoth structure, 1,000 feet out, and at the dump the waste product will be washed into the lake by means of a series of chutes. The beds are both Bessemer and non-Bessemer, and they remain so with concentrated the washing process. The sand only is not a phosphorus. At a point six miles distant from the Canisteo mine the St. Louis and Northern Pacific has an opening still another big prospect. This will be known as the Hill.

It is the reported intention of the

New Strike on Three Hundred Foot Level Looks Good---Machinery Installed at the Two Queens Group Near Winkleman.

Douglas, Ariz., July 11—L. K. Houlton, who has charge of all the operations at the Anderson-Apache mine, arrived at Douglas last evening. He reports that the new strike in the cross cut on the 1000 level is about 100 feet in length and better than ever, being now in about six feet in good sulphide ore. Silver content is about 100 to 120 ounces per ton, and copper 3 1/2 per cent. He also reports that the strike on the 1100 level is about 100 feet in length. These two strikes look very encouraging to the stockholders of the Anderson-Apache mine, and the fact that the ore bodies from which so much of the output of the mine has been taken out on the upper levels is still intact is a very encouraging factor. The general manager of this property says that it will only be a matter of time before the strike on the 1100 level will be as smelter, and that all preparations are being made to continue taking down the strike on this level.

agically of the mining outlook in Yuma county especially of development in the North Star divide. This was the original source of the wealth and the basis of its present fortune.

Winkelman, Ariz., July 11.—With their latest large order of machinery installed at the new mine, the Two Queens are on the crosstoad toward the ore vein, the management of the Two Queens regarding every effort towards the decisive stroke which will place them on the winning production stage. The fact that a well known Kansas City brokerage house has been retained to handle the affairs of the enterprise is taken to indicate that development work is now to be taken in earnest and that the mine will be developed more thoroughly than heretofore. It also appears likely that an aggressive campaign will be conducted at annual stockholders' meeting to be held in Phoenix early in the fall to place the Two Queens on a new basis coming from the Two Queens workers no longer leaves any room for question that the future of the mine is bright, and rapid development is likely to be the watchword from this time forth.

PLANS OF ORPHAN COMPANY

Sinking to be Resumed Until at Least 500 Feet Depth Has Been Reached---Good Ore Expected to be Encountered.

Globe, Ariz., July 11.—The local directors of the American Copper company, who are on a tour of inspection through the week, and expressed themselves as very much pleased with the progress so far made.

An office and camp house has been completed, which will later be used as an assay office. The main road, the main wagon road of the property was the main wagon road from Globe to the Gibson camp, has been finished. The work of the company will now commence during the coming week. Two strong hoists have been put down and are now at Globe, ready to move to the mines.

Mr. Clark, general manager of the property, has just received from the United States an apron from the collar of the mine in the crooked tunnel on the Lone side claim to the main shaft. The apron is 100 feet long and 10 feet wide will be cut into a shaft, and will be pushed to the 600 as rapidly the bottom of this shaft is reached, a hoist will be erected thereon, and the whole shaft cut out to one and one-half square compartments.

As the shaft is hoisted until at least 500 feet depth has been reached, the Orphan shaft is upon the contact between the schist and the granite, and the Miami schist belt, the directors expect to encounter good ore in depth at least 500 feet below the surface. The intention of the company to push both shafts to the 500 before attempting to crosscut the contact between the schist and granite, as there are considerable bodies of ore at both places; this plan, however, may be changed as developments warrant.

The surface evidences of extensive fracturing of the country within this group is attested by nine principal faults, and a conspicuous fault plane between the precambrian schist and the latter, which is a local fault, and is known as the Long grain, classified by Ransome as a schist granite. Two of the modifications being a greater fracturing of the schist, and the other group of faults afford very favorable structural possibilities for the occurrence of large ore bodies.

Y & Y

THE tennis racquet has at last come into its own, and this summer it holds a prominent place among the golf sticks and paddles, used by the girl athletically inclined.

Instead of the desultory interest taken in this sport in previous years, a lively attention is being paid to the game.

The fine new tennis courts about the city offer splendid opportunities for playing. The Duluth Boat club has three good courts at the main house and two at the Spirit Lake branch. The Northland Country club has one court, and there are three at the Normal school, all being used continually.

In the East the game is very popular. There is no better exercise in the world than swinging a racquet, and if the game is scientifically played, it is by no means a sport for "mollycoddlers."

Outdoor sports and picnics are holding the center of the social stage at the present time. The war canoes at the boat club have been seized upon by the younger girls of the city, and this afternoon there will be a race between two picked teams.

Sailing is also proving very popular among those fortunate enough to possess brothers or friends who are yacht club members.

It is encouraging to notice that people are becoming aroused to the great importance of pure food and food preparations. One of the greatest obstacles to digestion is fermentation of food or acidity in the stomach. This can be prevented by eating pure and wholesome food like

There is no exaggeration to say that the army and navy—for some months past—probably more in the public eye than in any other time of peace—today literally swarm with representatives of practically all those old fighters who, in the years that are gone, made the army and navy world-famous in history by their stirring victories gained by daring strategy and equally daring personal bravery.

Many of these heroes of the republic are represented in one or the other branch of the service, and sometimes in both, by men who bear the family name. Of such are the Stevens, the Breckinridges, the Porters, the Biddles, the Grants and the Washingtons, collateral descendants of the immortal George. Others of the old-time warriors are represented through the female line, and not infrequently it happens that one officer will represent the blood of several famous warriors in the cause of liberty. The two Cravens, now in the navy, for example, have back of them the fighting blood not only of the Cravens, but also of the Truxtons, the Beales, the Houstons and the Tingeyes. And not a few of the old fighters have been represented unintermittently in the service, directly or indirectly, right down to the present day. The Rodgers family, for one, has been in the navy ever since there was a navy on this side of the water, and a Rodgers married a daughter of Oliver Hazard Perry, the hero of Lake Erie, so that the family represents the Perry blood in the service.

The Rodgers' now in active service number eight, one on the retired list, and all are in the navy. They are Frederick Rodgers, rear admiral, retired four years ago; Christopher Raymond Perry, a young ensign, on assignment on the battleship Nebraska; John A., a captain, now on duty with the light-house board; Raymond Perry, chief of the bureau of intelligence; John, a midshipman; Thomas, a commander, now captain of the cruiser Dubuque; and William L., on special duty at the Naval War College at Newport. Rear Admiral Frederick Rodgers was chief of the board of inspection and survey during the Spanish war. He was graduated from the naval academy while the Civil war was going on and saw service in various blockade fleets. After that he was assigned to many important commands on foreign stations, and now, from the "Admiral's Corner" in the Metropolitan club at Washington, he can look back on a long and useful career spent in the service of his country. In an inferior grade to that which they now hold, the two Captains Rodgers saw service during the Spanish war and have done their share of cru-ing and exploring in many quarters of the globe.

Capt. John Rodgers. One of the many picturesque Rodgers' of years ago was that Capt. John, who commanded the frigate President in 1811. Capt. Pechell of the British frigate Guerriere—afterward destroyed by the Constitution—boarded at sea the American brig Spitfire and impressed a native American seaman. Naturally, the Yankees were indignant, and Capt. Rodgers, when he heard of it, was especially so. To make matters worse, Capt. Pechell had a big sign painted with the name of his ship on it, and went sailing up and down the coast. Capt. Rodgers got on board the President and went to sea. He had the name President painted on his forehead in big letters and went looking for the Guerriere. There was no war between Great Britain and the United States then—but it was coming.

About forty miles west of Cape Henry, Rodgers sighted a British man-of-war, which he thought to be the Guerriere. He hailed the ship, and she responded with a shot in his malmust. It took Rodgers about five minutes to stop that, for he opened with broadsides. The stranger proved to be the British man-of-war Little Belt, Capt. Arthur Batt Bingham, and, after standing by her all night and getting her captain on board to explain, Rodgers sailed away. Capt. Rodgers' fire had killed eleven and wounded twenty-one on board the Britisher.

The Rodgerses have had two admirals on the list at the same time. Admiral Christopher and Admiral John. Admiral Christopher used to be called "the Chesterfield of the American navy."

The present Rear Admiral Holdup Stevens, retired, is the most prominent representative today of the several Stevenses, whose fighting fame is woven with that of the Rodgerses and the Perrys. There is a Stevens in the army, but it is as a naval family that it is best known.

When the battle of Lake Erie was raging and veterans of Nelson's fleet were being lashed by the sailors when Perry had brought overland, not only to build ships, but to fight them, Lieut. Thomas Holdup of Georgia had commanded the sloop Trippe, which carried one lone 32-pounder gun. Lieut. Holdup ranged himself alongside of the Queen Charlotte. He was so close alongside that the Queen Charlotte could not bring her guns to bear—only a few of them—and Holdup was pumping iron into her hull as fast as his gunners could load. Down upon him bore the bigger ship, the big Niagara, Master Commandant Elliot in command.

"Fire and be damned!" "Get away from there!" shouted Elliot through his trumpet; "let me tackle her!" Holdup made no reply except to urge his gunners to hasten their work. Elliot was afraid that the little Trippe would be sunk. Also his orders had been disobeyed.

"Get away from there!" he shouted; "I am going to sink her. Get away, or I will fire through you!" "Fire and be damned!" answered Holdup, and the Queen Charlotte surrendered.

After the war of 1812 Capt. Holdup added the name of Stevens to his own for family and financial reasons, and Holdup-Stevens the family has been ever since, though its members refuse to use the hyphen. Some one once asked Rear Admiral Thomas Holdup Stevens what the motto was on his coat of arms. He had at the time a miniature of the old fighter of Lake Erie in his hands. "Fire and be damned," said the admiral.

The elder Admiral Thomas Holdup Stevens was a valiant officer, who kept good, as all his people have, the traditions of the family. He was in command of the Ottawa in Dupont's expedition, the Winnebago in the battle of Mobile Bay, and, in fact, had a long and honorable career as a fighting man in the United States navy. One of his sons went into the army, another was secretary to Vice Admiral Rowan, and the other is the present Rear Admiral Holdup Stevens, retired, who entered the Naval Academy in 1863. It was too late when he was graduated to play a part in the Civil war. In the years of peace that followed, Stevens went through the usual course of a naval officer when no war is going on. He cruised in men-of-war all over the seven seas and studied his profession. He was one of the officers of the Franklin when that big sailing frigate, now the receiving ship at the Norfolk navy yard, made her trip to Europe, shortly after the Civil war, and once, on the North sea, showed his seamen blood by the magnificent way in which, as officer of the deck, he handled her in a sudden gale.

Admiral Stevens has written some very good poetry. His father also wrote poetry, as did his brother Bow, now dead. The Stevenses have a curious combination of the fighting sailor and the poet in their composition. When the war with Spain broke out the present admiral was captain of the yard at Norfolk. He was sent out to the Philippines after Dewey's victory, and after seeing service aboard and among the islands was made captain of the ship at Manila, where he was on duty until his promotion and retirement a short time ago.

The Breckinridges.

The celebrated Breckinridge family of Kentucky is a service family to the extent of generally keeping a representative in both the army and navy. Lieut. H. B. Breckinridge distinguished himself in the war of 1812 by his defense of Craney Island, near Norfolk, and before that there were Breckinridges fighting in the War of the Revolution. In the Army, Inspector General Breckinridge became well known in recent years, and there is also a Lieut. Ethelbert L. D. Breckinridge of the Tenth Infantry. James C. Breckinridge is (or was a few years ago) an officer of the marine corps, and Lieut. Castellan of the navy is a nephew of the late Judge Breckinridge of St. Louis. Take up an old army and navy list of the past years and you will be sure to find the name of Breckinridge in it, no matter what the vintage of the soldier or sailor.

Inspector General Breckinridge was a young man when the Civil war broke out. He chose the side of the North and went into the volunteers as a lieutenant. He was transferred shortly to the regular establishment, becoming a second lieutenant of artillery. He saw much service and so distinguished himself in the battles about Atlanta that he received the brevet of captain. When the war was over he was breveted major "for gallant and meritorious services during the war." When the Spanish war came on Breckinridge was a brigadier general and inspector general. He was made a major general of volunteers and went to the front. At one time, when the American army lay before Santiago and Gen. Joseph Wheeler was ill, there was a plan to give Breckinridge an active command commensurate with his rank. But before it was decided to give Gen. Breckinridge Gen. Wheeler's command "Old Joe," with the wonderful pluck and vitality which always permeated his meager frame, recovered, and Breckinridge continued his inspector general's duties. He was many times under fire, and had a horse shot under him in the fight for Santiago.

Another name more "august" even than Breckinridge is seldom absent from the army or navy lists. It is the name of Washington. The army and navy career of the Washington family seems to have begun on this side of the water when George Washington's brother Lawrence got his commission in the British navy and went with Admiral Vernon to fight at Cartagena. George took most to the army than the navy—with what results it is hardly necessary to say. But from the days of the Revolution until now the name of Washington appears again and again in naval and military lists.

The Washingtons.

It is the Washingtons collaterally related to the immortal George, of course, who now represents the family in the services. Some few years ago, Paymaster Washington of the navy represented the family. Now the best known representative of it in the service is Lieut. Commander Thomas Washington. The list also shows a Lieut. Pope Washington, Lieut. Commander Thomas Washington, after graduating from the naval academy, began his nautical career as an officer of the coast survey. Then he was on duty in Washington, and then he went to sea again. In the Spanish war he saw service with the fleet against the North and went into the regular infantry, saw service with the fleet against the Philippines and kept up the military reputation of the family.

The Wheelers are another southern family whose names appear again upon the army list. Maj. Joseph Wheeler, Jr., is the son of that cavalry leader who fought so gallantly in the Civil war in his youth and in the Spanish war in his old age. Maj. Wheeler was graduated from West Point in 1885, and was made a major general of volunteers and went to the front. Dr.

Guthrie has seen service in all parts of the world, especially in remote parts of the Philippines, has visited many little-known Pacific islands, and has written several pamphlets on the treatment of diseases peculiar to the tropics. His house at Portsmouth, Va., is the same house in which old Commodore Richard Dale once lived, and is filled with rich and rare curios brought by his ancestors from all parts of the world or descended to him from his fighting forefathers.

Formerly the Guthries were an army family, the doctor's father being the first to take to the water. This Capt. Guthrie was with Perry when he opened Japan, and he distinguished himself at the battle of the Canton forts, when Commander Foote found it necessary to teach the Chinese a lesson. When the Civil war broke out, Capt. Guthrie went with his state, and reverting to the older traditions of the family, took a commission in the Confederate army. When the war was over he was made superintendent of the life-saving service along the Virginia coast, and died in a gallant attempt to rescue the crew of the ill-fated Huron, when that man-of-war went ashore on Virginia beach.

The Lees of Virginia.

In speaking of the service families of the South, it is interesting to observe that no sooner was the Civil war over than the names which had been dropped off the lists for a time, appeared again, as of old. The Lees of Virginia, as everyone knows, have been an army family from Revolutionary days, beginning with Light Horse Harry. A direct representative of the family in the army today is Fitzhugh Lee, son of the same name. Capt. Fitzhugh Lee entered the service as a lieutenant of engineers at the outbreak of the Spanish war and was honorably discharged at the close of that short conflict. He then went into the regular infantry, and from there was transferred to the cavalry. He has seen service in the Philippines and kept up the military reputation of the family.

The Wheelers are another southern family whose names appear again upon the army list. Maj. Joseph Wheeler, Jr., is the son of that cavalry leader who fought so gallantly in the Civil war in his youth and in the Spanish war in his old age. Maj. Wheeler was graduated from West Point in 1885, and was made a major general of volunteers and went to the front. Dr.

Spanish war came he was made a major of volunteers and a chief of ordnance officer on staff duty. Before the war was fairly over he managed to see some service at the front, and in the Philippines afterward. People say he is a "chip of the old block."

The two officers of the navy who carry on in the service the honored name of Craven are Commander John E. and Lieut. Thomas T. Besides representing their own name in the service, the Cravens represent that curious old-time Commodore Thomas Tunis Macdonough, the victor of Lake Champlain, and Capt. Thomas Tingey, a famous fighter of the Revolution, who also distinguished himself in the naval war with Spain. Through marriage also the Cravens represent the name of Truxton, a name which has but recently disappeared from the roll of officers. The Truxtons came in with the navy itself, and it seems strange not to see the name in the register. Probably the best known Truxton was Commodore Thomas, who, with the Constellation, won such famous victories over the French in the West Indies. Admiral William Truxton distinguished himself during the Civil war, and before on many expeditions, and "little wars with the heathen."

There is a torpedo boat named Truxton to keep the name still alive, at least on the records. The Cravens, the Tingeyes, the Truxtons, the Houstons, the Beales, have all intermarried, being navy families of the "first chop." The Beales are now represented in the service by Grafton A. Beale, a young ensign. Truxton, former minister to Greece, is well known in civil life.

John E. Craven entered the service in 1884, going to the naval academy under an appointment at large. He was graduated in 1888 and saw much service, both on home and foreign stations. During the war with Spain he was attached to the Solace, Lieut. Thomas Tingey Craven was graduated from the naval academy just in time for the Spanish war and the operations about the Philippines.

It was one of the Cravens, Thomas Augustus Tingey Craven, who commanded the Tumach when she was blown up by a torpedo at the battle of Mobile Bay. Craven and the pilot were in the pilot house when the explosion came. The passage-way out was not large enough to allow of both getting out at once. "After you, sir," said Craven to the pilot. "But," says the pilot in telling the story, "there was nothing after me; the whole ship dropped from under me."

The Biddles of Philadelphia.

Like the Truxtons, represented by the Cravens, the Biddles of Philadelphia have been a navy family from the earliest times of the republic. In the war with Tripoli in 1803, James Biddle, one of Bainbridge's officers, was taken prisoner and confined by the dey for some time. It was this same James Biddle who afterward in the War of 1812, commanded the American man-of-war Hornet and fought the British ship Penguin with her. But it was Nicholas Biddle who laid the foundations of the family's naval greatness.

The naval histories are full of this enterprising and gallant Nicholas. He sailed at the beginning of the war of the Revolution in the fourteen-gun brig Adrea Doria on the expedition against New Providence. A little later he went cruising off the coast and soon sent ten prizes to port, two of which were transports with Highlanders sent over to "whip the Yankees." After a gallant career, he was killed when his ship, the Randolph, blew up in her fight with the British ship Yarmouth in 1778.

The two Biddles now in the navy are Clement C., medical inspector, and William P., a colonel of marines. Col. Biddle entered the marine corps in 1875 and has served about everywhere on land and sea since then. He saw sea service in the war with Spain and then went out to command the marines at Cavite and take such part as he could in suppressing the Philippine insurrection. The medical inspector has been in the service since 1878, taking the usual routine of land and sea service. During the war with Spain he was surgeon of the Texas.

Commodore Bainbridge, the famous sea fighter of the early days of the republic, is now represented most directly in the service by Lieut. Com. Arthur Bainbridge Hoff. There is said never to have been a generation since the famous commodore that the Bainbridges have not been represented in the navy. Lieut. Com. Arthur Bainbridge Hoff entered the naval academy in 1885, making his final graduation six years later. His service has been varied and extended the service in 1884, going to the naval academy under an appointment at large. He was graduated in 1888 and saw much service, both on home and foreign stations. During the war with Spain he was attached to the Solace, Lieut. Thomas Tingey Craven was graduated from the naval academy just in time for the Spanish war and the operations about the Philippines.

DAKOTAS

RELEASE HARVEY HE IS INNOCENT

Can't Connect Youth With Robbery of Emerado, N. D., Store.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 11.—(Special.)—The Herald.—John Harvey, who has been held at the county jail, booked to be imprisoned in the State Penitentiary at Bismarck, N. D., after being released on order of the State's Attorney, when not being again arrested, and is now being held in the county jail. Harvey is an 18-year-old lad that had been hanging out with the late Emmerado, and was about to leave the county when he was arrested on a complaint made by T. P. Ricard, on suspicion. The innocence of the lad has been made evident by the fact that he has been held in the county jail, and his hearing was set for yesterday, but the State's Attorney, Ricard, decided to drop the charge for lack of evidence.

Robert Day and John Hoff, the other two that are held on complaint, are being held in the county jail, and the pair being caught with some goods, evidently taken from the store, and are being held before Judge McLaughlin for trial tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is believed that the pair are accomplices in the Ricard robbery. Hoff is a bad character.

DURUM WHEAT GROWERS

Third Convention at Devils Lake Next Tuesday.
Devils Lake, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald).—The third convention of the North Dakota Durum Wheat Growers' association will be held at Chautauqua here, Tuesday, July 14. The program arranged for this meeting assures a large attendance. Several well-known speakers who are familiar with the milling qualities of this wheat will be present and address the convention, and the legislative committee will attend and have a very interesting report to make. Commercial organizations throughout the state are expected to send delegates, and a general invitation is extended to all durum wheat growers and to others who are interested, either directly or indirectly, to be present. The cultivation of durum wheat and a better market for it is of especial interest to the farmers of the western part of the state, it being much better adapted to the conditions of climate and soil than are the other grades of wheat. In addition to the interesting program at the convention the visiting farmers and delegates will have an opportunity of enjoying the delightful resorts around Devils Lake where the attractions are now seen at their best.

MANY SALES OF HOMES AND UNIMPROVED LOTS

Local Real Estate Market Shows a Steady Movement of Property During the Warm Weather—People Are Waking Up to the Fact That the Present Season is the Best Time to Build by Reason of the Reduced Cost of Material—Quite a Number of Building Loans Are Being Made and There is Plenty of Money Available on Real Estate Security.

The local realty market showed a fairly active movement this week in small residence properties and unimproved lots bought for improvement this year. There are quite a number of similar deals pending, the earnest money having been deposited, and some of these are likely to be closed today or early next week. The fact that the present season is one of the best for years to carry on building operations from an economical standpoint to the builder is being realized more by local people as the season advances, and many who had planned on waiting another year for their building operations are making an effort to get the funds and make their improvements this year, with the prospect of saving money. Some of those who postponed building operations last year are pleased because of their delay, as they find they can do much better this year in the way of cheaper material. The local loan agencies claim there is no trouble in getting all the money wanted on building loans with real estate security, and a large number of such loans have been negotiated already this month.

N. J. Upham & Co. report the following sales for the week: A residence property at 320 East Sixth street, from Peter Wolf to John Albstadt, for $3,000; a residence property at 614 East Seventh street, from George Pifer to Charles Leistik, for $2,200, and another at 614 1/2 East Seventh street from Mr. Pifer to D. Kern, for $1,300; a lot on West Third street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues, from the Duluth Home company to J. F. Gustafson, for $1,000; a lot on southeast corner of Sixth street and Seventh avenue east from Robert C. Ray to T. Thallin, for $1,800; two lots on Sixth street near Eighth avenue east to Hilda Person, for $1,000; a residence property at 1424 East Fifth street from W. F. Wright to J. E. Goodman, for $4,650. Representing the Duluth Home company, the firm has purchased from the Zenith Telephone company, for $1,900, the southwest corner of Sixth street and First street. The company has taken earnest money on several other deals that are likely to be closed during the coming week.

Through the office of Stryker, Manley & Buck, H. F. Salysards of Ely, Salysards & Co., has bought of Jonathan Rees, eighty-five feet on the upper side of Third street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues east, for $3,400, and will immediately build a handsome $10,000 or $12,000 residence. All property in this locality is being sold with certain restrictions as to preventing any flat buildings, double houses or stores being erected in this locality. The same real estate firm has sold the dwelling at 422 Second avenue west, for Mrs. Henrietta E. Barnes to Paul Luhn, for $3,350, and a dwelling on Minneapolis avenue, at Hunt's Park, from Stephen Culford to Albert Gillis, for $2,000. Mr. Gillis also bought four lots adjoining.

Other lot on Victoria street, Glen Avon, to Thomas Odgaard, who will at once build a residence there.

F. S. Easton has sold J. O. Lenning the property described as lots 9 and 10, block 14, Highland Park addition, and all that part of block 34, East Lawn division, for $2,750.

Fred A. Parkhill has purchased from Frances M. Seaton, for $2,700, the property described as lots 1 and 2, block 35, Endion.

Among the transfers of the week was a deed covering lots 317 and 319, block 72, Second division, from Ray T. Lewis to Erick Olson, the consideration being $5,500.

OLD ENGLISH COTTAGE, WHICH WOULD COST $3,500 IN DULUTH.

The above illustration shows a well-planned and compact six-room home with an exterior design of the English cottage style. The construction is frame with finish of stucco and English half timber work. The trimmer work and exterior wood finish is of birch stained dark and varnished. The kitchen single space is provided for all fixtures, the arrangements of which is most convenient. The communication between the kitchen and the front hall is through a small passage which also connects with the cellar stairway.

In the second story are three light and airy bedrooms with ample closet space, a bathroom and a large storeroom. The bedrooms are all corner rooms with windows on two sides, thus insuring perfect ventilation. The ceiling heights are seven feet, eight and one-half feet and eight feet. The inside finish is of English oak and the floors are also of oak.

Including furnace heat and plumbing, the estimate of cost complete for such a home built in Duluth or vicinity is $3,500.

Chief Stockholders Said to be Satisfied With Showing.

Although the mine was operated only the first five months of the fiscal year, the annual report of the Chief Mining company shows that during the last twelve months, $1,000 of the company's indebtedness had been paid, $6,575 had been spent in improvements and that, plus to the value of $14,000 was on hand.

During the year, the company shipped 6,000 tons of ore, for which it received after smelter and freight charges had been paid, the sum of $1,000, out of which was paid an indebtedness of $10,000 to McCormick & Co., $100 for development work and nearly $500 for buildings. The officials of the company are very optimistic about next year. If the condition in the metal market continues to show improvement, a better smelting contract has been secured and the company intends shipping from 1,200 to 1,500 tons monthly from now on.

S.S.S. HEALS

S.S.S. SORES AND ULCERS

Sores and Ulcers are indications of impure blood. They show that the circulation has become infected with germs and poisons, which are being constantly discharged into the open place to irritate the delicate nerves, tissues and surrounding flesh and keep the sore in a state of inflammation and disease. Whether these impurities in the blood are the result of some debilitating sickness, an old taint from a former disease, or whether it is hereditary bad blood, there is but one way to cure sores and ulcers, and that is to purify the blood. Washes, salves, lotions, etc., are often beneficial because of their cleansing, antiseptic effects, but nothing applied to the surface can reach the blood, where the real cause is, and therefore cannot cure. S. S. S. is the remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It gets down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes every trace of impurity or poison, and makes a lasting cure. S. S. S. changes the quality of the circulation, so that instead of feeding the diseased parts with impurities, it nourishes and heals the irritated, inflamed flesh and causes the ulcer to fill in with healthy tissue by supplying it with pure, rich blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

WOMAN MURDERED ON PIKE LAKE ROAD—MURDERER COMMITS SUICIDE

Max Hochsworth Shoots Mrs. Ada Loos and Then Himself.

Insane Jealousy Believed to Have Been Cause of Crime.

The Tragedy Was Witnessed by Two Duluth Men.

Max Hochsworth, a gambler, shot and killed Mrs. Ada Loos of Pike Lake, on the Pike Lake road, about 9 o'clock Saturday night, and then committed suicide, also by shooting, after running a few hundred feet back from the road into the heavily timbered swamp.

The man's body was found at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Capt. Piskett and Lieut. Herman Fritz of the local police department, with the assistance of bloodhounds loaned by the Superior police. Jealousy is said to have prompted the crime. Both bodies are now at Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms in Duluth.

Mrs. Loos, who was 39 years of age, lived with her mother at Pike Lake. She was married and her husband is at present working on the Panama canal. The couple had no children. The woman had many admirers, and this fact is thought to have made the gambler insanely jealous. Mrs. Loos, Hochsworth, Alice Cullum and Martin E. Prager were arrested for disorderly conduct, April 20 last, in a house at 232 West Second street, where the two women were then rooming. At that time Hochsworth had assaulted her with a beer bottle, and at the police station Mrs. Loos told him to go or she would kill him. The daughter had been released. When she left the police station that night, she was assaulted by the man, and he called upon the police for protection. Since then she has, on several occasions, expressed the fear that he would kill her.

Two Witnesses.
The murder was witnessed by E. A. Thompson of 142 East First street and Robert H. Haire of 801 East Third street. The crime was committed at a lonely spot on the Pike Lake road, five miles north of Duluth. The woman was driving home alone. In a dip in the road Hochsworth stopped from the brush and halted the horse. He took the reins in his hands, and seemingly, with her consent, stepped into the buggy, and at first seemed to caress his occupant. The horse was going along slowly, and Thompson and Haire, who were coming from behind with a horse that was traveling at a lively clip, soon almost overtook them.

When the two rigs were scarcely thirty feet apart, the woman suddenly turned in her seat and, leaning from the buggy, but without making any sound, she drew a revolver and, addressing the two men behind, she attempted to spring from the buggy, but her companion, seeing her in a tight embrace, and pressing a revolver to her head, shot once. She sank back into the buggy, and Hochsworth, evidently losing his balance, for he was standing when the bullet was fired, fell to the ground. The shot frightened the horse, and it turned in the road and started in the direction of Duluth.

The swinging of the rig caused the woman's body to fall. Hochsworth ran to the body, hesitated for an instant as if to bend over it, but seeing the rapid approach of the two men, darted around a bend in the road and disappeared in the underbrush. About three minutes later the occupants of the second rig heard two more shots fired at an interval of a minute or more. The first shot fired in the road killed the woman, the second was probably fired through the woods to intimidate the men if they started a pursuit, and the third bullet ended the life of the gambler. The bullet that ended Mrs. Loos' life entered just below the left jaw bone and emerged at her right ear. The wound must have caused instant death.

Thompson and Haire went to the body of the woman, which had fallen face down ward. They were unarmed and did not dare to pursue Hochsworth, so they started to drive on to Pike Lake, leaving the woman where she had fallen. A few minutes later they met C. C. Cookfair in his automobile and told him of the crime. He drove to Duluth Heights and notified the police department by telephone.

Inside of half an hour after the murder had been committed Chief of Police Meyer, Captain Piskett, Detective Irvine, Walsh, Schutte and Patrolman Wanwick were speeding towards the scene of the crime in automobiles, loaned by friends of the department. When the officers arrived on the ground the woman had not yet been identified. She still lay as she had fallen. Capt. Piskett, with Detectives Schutte and Irvine, continued on to Pike Lake, leaving Chief Troyer, Captain Piskett, Detective Walsh and Patrolman Wanwick to guard the body and search in the vicinity for the murderer.

Woman Identified.

most immediately afterwards to Duluth, and quickly got the wires working in getting the police departments and sheriff's offices of nearby towns to be on the look out for Hochsworth.

Mrs. Mary Butler, mother of the murdered woman, gave the first clew to the detectives. "Maybe he was Max," she cried, as she sank back on the bed in a swoon. The daughter had been in Duluth shopping, and Mrs. Butler was anxiously awaiting her return. When she was sufficiently revived she told Captain Piskett and the detectives that her daughter had been working at the business for a long time. That Max would kill her. She dreaded his appearance in the neighborhood, and it is said he frequently went to Pike Lake to spy on her.

Hochsworth made his home at the Clarendon hotel, at the corner of Gardell avenue and Superior street. He claimed to the police that he was a bartender, but it is understood he has worked at the business for a long time. He has made his living by gambling. He served as a private in the Philippines for five years, and several years ago was sent to Duluth to discontinue duty for Fort Snelling. He obtained his discharge soon after coming to the city. He was seen at the Clarendon hotel at 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

MINNESOTA DELEGATION CALLED UPON MR. BRYAN

A talk to go over and ask the nominees about an audience, and at the station made arrangements for the party. Bryan called upon him at his farm. At 4 o'clock a chartered street car gathered up the crowd, all but two who were left on the car by the heat that nothing could tempt them forth from the hotel lobby, and started for the city. The car was packed in twenty-five minutes. From the end of the car line there was a walk of a quarter of a mile along the road, and then a short trip to the handsome Bryan home, standing upon a knoll in the center of a splendid view of the broad Bryan acres and of the country roundabout.

At the Bryan Home.
In from the house stood a gentleman who beckoned the crowd to follow him over the velvet lawn to the rear of the house, where, in the shade of the Bryan home, stood the expectant statesman.

Mr. Bryan has changed. The years have passed over him since 1896, and it was to be expected that he would change. He is heavier, very much heavier. His curly locks are scattered, very much scattered. His face is not quite so mobile, so warm, as it was when in the fire of his youth, he electrified the country a dozen years ago. His ever-ready smile seems a little mechanical, a little more weary and a little less spontaneous than it used to be. He looks a little more like his cartoons than he does like the ideal pictures of him used for campaign purposes.

Yet he is the same old Bryan in many respects. His cordiality was unimpaired. Clearly, he meant it when he said that he was glad to see the Minnesota delegation. Capt. Jack Hardy of St. Paul, who had charge of the Minnesota train on the Denver trip, introduced the party to the Commissioner. Each was greeted with a firm handshake and a pleasant word. He had apt replies for all, and he could think of anything to say except the conventional "pleased to meet you." The irrepressible P. M. Donnell, in a voice considerably the worse for much speech-making and convention shouting, announced to Mr. Bryan that he was going to dig the big canal.

"If you intend to build it with voice, you are a poor man for the job," said the Commissioner. Each was greeted with a firm handshake and a pleasant word. He had apt replies for all, and he could think of anything to say except the conventional "pleased to meet you." The irrepressible P. M. Donnell, in a voice considerably the worse for much speech-making and convention shouting, announced to Mr. Bryan that he was going to dig the big canal.

It is surmised that he rode to the end of the car line at Duluth Heights, and then walked out along the Pike Lake road, to await his victim. The police and coroner have not been able to locate any of the murdered woman's relatives. Fully a dozen letters were found by the police in his clothing, mostly from young women from different parts of the country. They were of the "love letter" variety, and in every instance only the first name was signed. In the batch of letters was one from the dead woman's husband, written from the canal zone last January. In the letter, Loos spoke kindly of his wife, and said he would be in Duluth in about five months. The man is an engineer by profession.

The bloodhounds were taken to the scene of the murder yesterday afternoon. They got the scent from the man's hat, lying beside the road, and in a few minutes had located the body of the victim. The police and coroner were then able to locate the body of the murdered woman. The police and coroner were then able to locate the body of the murdered woman.

Dakota said that he was a member of the G. A. R., who was going to vote for Bryan, and the latter replied with a smile that he is the only candidate with a war record.

The Introductions over. Mr. Bryan, explaining that he was tired, seated himself on the grass, and begged his guests to follow his example. They did so, forming a ring about him, and for a few moments there was pleasant conversation, mostly between Mr. Bryan and the candidates.

Mr. Bryan, who was seated in the center of the ring, was the only one who did not make speeches on the car out from Lincoln in favor of T. D. O'Brien of St. Paul.

"Any man who attempts to enumerate all of Mr. O'Brien's virtues is certain to lose his sanity," said the only one who did not make speeches on the car out from Lincoln in favor of T. D. O'Brien of St. Paul.

The Delegation Photographed.
The next step was brought about by an enterprising photographer, who wanted to make a picture of the Minnesota delegation. Each was greeted with a firm handshake and a pleasant word. He had apt replies for all, and he could think of anything to say except the conventional "pleased to meet you." The irrepressible P. M. Donnell, in a voice considerably the worse for much speech-making and convention shouting, announced to Mr. Bryan that he was going to dig the big canal.

governorship talk among the Minnesota delegates, and the situation, when home was reached, was about this. The Minnesota crowd appeared to want John Lind to run if he will, but they do not believe he will. In that event almost without exception they want Thomas D. O'Brien to make the race. They all believe that he would make a winning one. He is as able a man, as Minnesota possesses. His advice has been a strong factor in both the Lind and Johnson administrations, and has always been sound, intelligent, conscientious and to the point. He has a strong personality, which commands both respect and admiration, and his qualities have made him one of the ablest lawyers in the state and one of its best and most prominent citizens.

"My compliments and most sincere thanks to the men from Minnesota who during the week so signally honored me. I shall never forget or cease to appreciate their enthusiastic support in the face of great odds and which lasted to the end. My gratitude will abide forever if possible thank every one of the Minnesota contingent for me."

JOHN A. JOHNSON.

Lynch a National Figure.
About this man Lynch. He has become a national figure and rightly. He has mixed with the big men of the party and they like him. He is a man of breadth, of poise, of self-confidence and of aggressive personality, yet, withal, a modest man. He didn't with his fight, but he made Governor Johnson's name a national possession, and against overwhelming odds, with a campaign begun too late to succeed, he has won a victory that commanded the respect of his opponents. He impressed those who came in contact with him as being a big man, a man who can be depended upon, a man whom you would trust with your affairs in perfect confidence that the best results would be done for you.

The trip to Denver would have been a harder if it were not for the presence of P. M. Donnell of Duluth, who was the life of the party. He was an irrepressible and unceasing speaker, and ever and anon he could be heard making various and sundry remarks, to quote words of the party, and apt figures made the crowd merry on many occasions. Mr. McDonnell, who has long been an ardent Bryan man, occupied part of the return trip by saying plans for the Bryan inauguration, when he will go in a special car accompanied by a number of guests.

The Denver crowd was impressed very much by the loyalty of the Johnson adherents from Minnesota. There was not a candidate in the field, nor has there ever been a candidate in the field, with more loyal and devoted support. Practically all of the Minnesota folks laid their voices as a sacrifice upon the altar of the Johnson cause, and it was very much the fashion, on the return trip, to speak in a hoarse whisper, "nominate a winner" was the slogan, and it was shouted about the streets of Denver until it had to be.

The others righted the boat and reached the fort safely.

Although the mine was operated only the first five months of the fiscal year, the annual report of the Cliff Mining company shows that during the last twelve months, $1,000 of the company's indebtedness had been paid, $2,000 had been spent in improvements and that it stood to the value of $12,000 more on hand.

During the year, the company shipped 8,000 tons of ore, for which it received after smelter and freight charges had been paid, the sum of $1,000, out of which was paid an indebtedness of $1,000 to McCormick & Co., $1,000 for development work and nearly $1,000 for buildings.

The officials of the company are very optimistic about next year, if the conditions in the metal market continue to show improvement. A better smelting contract has been secured and the company intends shipping from 1,200 to 1,500 tons monthly from now on.

SORES AND ULCERS
Sores and Ulcers are indications of impure blood. They show that the circulation has become infected with germs and poisons, which are being constantly discharged into the open place to irritate the delicate nerves, tissues and surrounding flesh and keep the sore in a state of inflammation and disease. Whether these impurities in the blood are the result of some debilitating sickness, an old taint from a former disease, or whether it is hereditary bad blood, there is but one way to cure sores and ulcers, and that is to purify the blood.

Washes, salves, lotions, etc., are often beneficial because of their cleansing, antiseptic effects, but nothing applied to the surface can reach the blood, where the real cause is, and therefore cannot cure. S. S. S. is the remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It gets down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes every trace of impurity or poison, and makes a lasting cure. S. S. S. changes the quality of the circulation, so that instead of feeding the diseased parts with impurities, it nourishes and heals the irritated, inflamed flesh and causes the ulcer to fill in with healthy tissue by supplying it with pure, rich blood. WOMAN MURDERED ON PIKE LAKE ROAD—MURDERER COMMITS SUICIDE

Max Hochsworth Shoots Mrs. Ada Loos and Then Himself.

Insane Jealousy Believed to Have Been Cause of Crime.

The Tragedy Was Witnessed by Two Duluth Men.

Max Hochsworth, a gambler, shot and killed Mrs. Ada Loos of Pike Lake, on the Pike Lake road, about 9 o'clock Saturday night, and then committed suicide, also by shooting, after running a few hundred feet back from the road into the heavily timbered swamp.

The man's body was found at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Capt. Fiskett and Lieut. Herman Fritz of the local police department, with the assistance of bloodhounds, and by the superior police. Jealousy is said to have prompted the crime. Both bodies are now at Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms in Duluth.

Mrs. Loos, who was 39 years of age, lived with her mother at Pike Lake. She was married and her husband is at present working on the Panama canal. The couple had no children. The woman had many admirers, and this fact is thought to have made the gambler insanely jealous. Mrs. Loos, Hochsworth, Alice Cullum and Martin E. Brazor were arrested for disorderly conduct, April 20 last, in a house at 232 West Second street, where the two women were then rooming.

At that time Hochsworth had assaulted her with a beer bottle, and at the police station Mrs. Loos told Lieut. Fritz that she feared the man would kill her if he were released. When she left the police station that night, she was again assaulted by the man, and she called upon the police for protection. Since then she has, on several occasions, expressed the fear that he would kill her.

Two Witnesses.
The murder was witnessed by E. A. Thompson, 1422 East First street, and Robert H. Haire, of 801 East Third street. The crime was committed at a lonely spot on the Pike Lake road, five miles north of Duluth. The woman was driving home alone. In a dip in the road Hochsworth stopped from behind and halted the horse. He took the reins in his hands, and seemingly, with her consent, stepped into the buggy, and at first seemed to caress his companion. The horse was going along slowly, and Thompson and Haire, who were coming from behind, were scarcely thirty feet apart, the woman suddenly turned in her seat and, leaning from the right, said: "Get out of this car."

When the two men were scarcely thirty feet apart, the woman suddenly turned in her seat and, leaning from the right, said: "Get out of this car."

She attempted to spring from the buggy, but her companion seized her, and she heard a loud crack, and a revolver to her head, shot once. She sank back into the buggy, and Hochsworth, evidently losing his head, for he was standing when the shot was fired, fell to the ground. The shot frightened the horse, and it started back and started in the direction of Duluth.

The swearing of the rig caused the woman's body to fall to the ground, and she lay there for an instant as if to bend over it, but seeing the rapid approach of the two men, she turned a bend in the road and disappeared in the underbrush. About three minutes later the occupants of the second rig heard two more shots fired at an interval of a minute or more. The first shot fired in the road killed the woman, the second was probably fired through the woods to intimidate the men if they started a pursuit, and the third bullet ended Mrs. Loos' life.

The bullet that ended Mrs. Loos' life entered just below the left jaw bone and emerged at the top of the skull. The wound must have caused instant death.

Thompson and Haire went to the body of the woman, which had fallen face down ward. They were unarmed and did not dare pursue Hochsworth, so they started to drive on to Pike Lake, leaving the woman where she had fallen. A few minutes later they met C. O. O'Connell in his automobile and told him of the crime. He drove to Duluth Heights and notified the police department by telephone.

Inside of half an hour after the murder had been committed Chief of Police Troyer, Captain Fiskett, Detective Irvine, Walsh, Schulte and Patrolman Wanvik were speeding toward the scene of the crime in automobiles, loaned by friends of the department. When the officers arrived on the ground the woman had not yet been identified. She still lay as she had fallen.

Capt. Fiskett, with Detectives Schulte and Irvine, continued on to Pike Lake, leaving Chief Troyer, Detective Walsh and Patrolman Wanvik to guard the body and search in the vicinity for the murderer.

Woman Identified.
At Pike Lake the officers were able to identify the woman and learned her history. From information gleaned there they were almost sure that Max Hochsworth had committed the crime. Chief Troyer returned at the crime.

most immediately afterwards to Duluth, and quickly got the wires working in notifying the police departments and sheriff's offices of nearby towns to be on the look out for Hochsworth.

Mrs. Mary Butler, mother of the murdered woman, gave the first clue to the detectives. "Maybe it was Max," she cried, as she sank back in the chair.

He had been in Duluth shopping, and Mrs. Butler was anxiously awaiting her return. She had seen him in the company of the "love letter" variety, and in every instance only the first name was signed. The bloodhounds were taken to the scene of the murder yesterday afternoon. They got the scent from the man's hat, lying beside the road, and in a few minutes had located the body. The police and coroner have as yet been unable to locate any of Hochsworth's relatives. Fully a dozen letters were found by the police in his clothing, mostly from young women from different parts of the country. They were of the "love letter" variety, and in every instance only the first name was signed. The last of the letters was written from the canal zone last January. In the letter, Loos speaks kindly of his wife, and said he would be in Duluth in about five months. The man is an engineer by profession.

CASSIUS BAGLEY, Pres.

governorship talk among the Minnesota delegates, and the situation, when home was reached, was about this. The Minnesota crowd appeared to want John Lind to run if he will, but they do not believe he will. In that event almost without exception they want Thomas D. O'Brien to make the race. They all believe that he is a strong personality, which commends him to both respect and admiration, and his qualities have made him one of the ablest lawyers in the state and one of its best and most prominent citizens.

"My compliments and most sincere thanks for the very kind and generous letter of the week so signally honored me. I shall never forget or cease to appreciate their enthusiastic support in the face of great odds and which lasted to the end. My gratitude will abide forever. If possible thank every one of the Minnesota contingent for me."

JOHN JOHNSON.

Lynch a National Figure.

About this man Lynch. He has become a national figure and rightly. He is mixed with the big men of the party and they like him. He is a man of breadth, of poise, of self-confidence and of aggressive personality, yet, withal, a modest man. He didn't with his fight, but he made O'Brien Johnson's name a national possession, and against overwhelming odds, with a campaign begun too late to be successful, he did it.

The trip to Denver would have been a soldier, tamer affair if it had not been for the presence of P. McDowell of Duluth, who was the life of the party. He was an irrepressible and unceasing speechmaker, making various snappy and corroboratory remarks, to quote words coined by him for the occasion, whose real wit and apt figures made the crowd merry on many occasions.

McDowell, who has long been an ardent Bryan man, occupied part of the return trip by layover plans for another trip to the Bryan campaign, when he will go in a special car accompanied by a number of guests.

The Denver crowd were impressed very much by the loyalty of the Johnson and Bryan men, and the fact that there was not a candidate in the field, with more than a devoted support. Practically all of the Minnesota folks laid their voices as a sacrifice upon the altar of the Bryan cause, and it was very much the "fashion" on the return trip, to speak in a hoarse whisper, "Nominating a winner" was the slogan, and it was shouted about the streets of Denver until it had to be.

While the heat was terrific on several occasions, there were no prostrations and who overtook an opportunity to make the trip pleasant and comfortable for the people in his charge. E. A. Whitte, who contributed to the enjoyment of the trip.

WITNESS TELLS STORY WITH DRAMATIC EFFECT

Details of Wilson Family Quarrel.

Two Physicians Express Belief That Wilson Was Insane.

Miss Nina Snook of West Duluth was the star witness in the Wilson murder trial this morning. She was called to testify for the defense and with dramatic effect, Miss Snook told of the trouble and conversations said to have taken place at the building occupied by the Wilsons in West Duluth some time last fall when Mrs. Wilson sprang her attack on her husband, following a quarrel with her husband over the young man, Douglas Glazier.

Miss Snook, it appeared from her testimony, happened to be present when Wilson accused his wife of having been walking with Glazier and called her a "dirty rat," and several other names, and threatened to tell her parents of her unfaithfulness.

Although Wilson himself talks with a heavy drawl and is rather unattractive in his language, Miss Snook for about half an hour related in smooth and flowing English what purported to be the words used by Wilson when he made the verbal assault on his wife.

Miss Snook said that when Wilson threatened to tell her aged parents of her conduct towards him Mrs. Wilson began to beg and weep.

"Oh, Henry, please don't tell me and me,"

Wilson was quoted as replying in an impressive manner:

"Any time you do not want your father and mother to know what you have been doing, you must be doing wrong."

Sprained Her Ankle.

The witness said that following Wilson's lecture of which the above expression was only a small part, Mrs. Wilson ran to the stairs and either threw herself or fell down their entire length, hitting her ankle to such an extent that she could not rise and Wilson had to carry her into Mrs. O'Brien's apartment.

Miss Snook said that Wilson told her that he had detected his wife out walking with Glazier and wound up with the plea:

"I cannot stand it any longer. Flora, I love you even after what you have done to me, and if you will only be true to me you will make me the happiest man on earth. If you will leave Douglas and be faithful to me I will take you back. It is something terrible what I have to put up with. Give me my check book, my money and let me go with you as I can but you have not done right by me. You cannot deny that you were out with Glazier for a walk."

Mrs. Wilson, the witness said, denied that she had been walking with Glazier, when Wilson, continued: "Flora, if you will brace up and be faithful to me I'll stay with you for your sake and Willie's, for if I leave you you will go down and further."

To this plea Mrs. Wilson is said to have exclaimed:

"Oh, my ankle, how it hurts!"

"Saying that he could not turn his wife from her wrong doing," testified Miss Snook, "Wilson then turned to his little boy and said: 'Come on Willie, I'll always stick by you and care for you.'"

The Prisoner Wept.

During this testimony Wilson crouched down in his chair, wept and sobbed, his face worked convulsively and his hands were rapidly clenched and unclenched. His mouth set close to him weeping softly in sympathy.

The cross-examination was said to exasperate Miss Snook when she was requested to repeat her story a second time. She refused to do so until instructed by the court. After her testimony had been finished over, County Judge Norton asked Miss Snook if she had been a star witness in the recent trial that brought the young Mrs. O'Brien of West Duluth against Mrs. Helen O'Brien for damages for alleged seduction of the son of the former's husband, a son of Mrs. Helen O'Brien.

Mr. Jack for the defense objected to the question and Mr. Norton asked Miss Snook if she did not have direct general knowledge of the family troubles in West Duluth. She claimed that she did not.

Was Insane Patient.

Miss Snook admitted that she had been an inmate of the state asylum for the insane at Fort Snelling and had been discharged from that institution about six months prior to the incident that she testified about. She declared, however, that she was not insane when kept at the asylum.

The defense was closed shortly before noon with expert medical testimony by Dr. David Graham and Dr. S. S. Shannon of West Duluth. Wilson was taken to Dr. Graham's hospital for treatment for the self-inflicted wound in his neck following the killing of Mrs. Wilson.

Dr. Graham, who treated his wound declared that in his opinion Wilson was suffering from emotional insanity while he was at the hospital. Dr. Graham said Wilson was nervous and would cry sometimes, a few minutes afterward laughing as though he had forgotten his troubles.

Under cross-examination Dr. Graham said he had not made a special study of insanity and admitted that Wilson's nervous condition mentally at the time he killed Mrs. Wilson.

Dr. Shannon, who is Dr. Graham's assistant, is a graduate of a Canadian medical college after a four years' course. In the last year of his schooling he had a special course at the Norfolk hospital in the treatment of insane cases. He came to Duluth about a year and a half ago.

Circular Insanity.

Questioned as to his opinion of Wilson's mental condition the morning Wilson killed his wife and was in the police station and the hospital, Dr. Shannon expressed belief that the defendant had "circular insanity." The witness said Wilson was in a much better condition when he was taken to the hospital. Under cross-examination Dr. Shannon admitted that in "circular insanity" certain "exhaustion" conditions were of a recurring nature and that he had not observed any such in Wilson's case, only detected one or two symptoms. Dr. Shannon said he never saw Wilson prior to the time he was called to attend the defendant at the police station on the morning of the murder.

This afternoon the state expected to introduce testimony of several witnesses, including Miss Snook and some relatives of the defendant.

He Will Probably Address
Meeting of Business Men Here.

John A. Fox, special director of the river and harbors congress, is spending the day in Duluth on his return from the range cities, where he went to deliver an address Saturday night, before the convention of Commercial clubs. He will remain in the Northwest during the month of July, visiting the various waterway cities and in arranging public sentiment in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

A meeting will be held at the rooms of the Commercial club today, where a number of the business men of Duluth will meet with Mr. Fox to discuss the advisability of getting up a large gathering here in Duluth, some time during the next two weeks, for the purpose of having the business men here thoroughly understand the work of the congress.

In an interview today, Mr. Fox said: "The national river and harbors congress is an organization made up of boards of trade, chambers of commerce, river improvement associations and kindred bodies from every part of the United States. Its formation was suggested by the river and harbors committee of congress, about two years ago, and its mission is to awaken public sentiment generally throughout the whole United States, through an appreciation of waterway development, so that large and regular amounts may be appropriated annually by congress for carrying on such improvement work as is now needed."

"It is the policy of congress today to appropriate sums of money about every three years, without having any fixed or comprehensive plan upon which to make appropriations. The mission of our organization is to establish a new policy, such as will cause congress to look upon these great internal improvements as an investment, and to cause it to make appropriations upon the same plan as appropriations are now made for the navy, the army and the judiciary."

"We have done some work so far, and the $84,000,000 appropriated by congress in 1907 for rivers and harbors was a direct result of the agitation carried on by this organization. Duluth and the other lake cities shared greatly in this liberal response upon the part of congress and I am anxious that these cities should know more about this great national movement and take a more active part in the work of our congress."

WEST SUPERIOR STREET REPAIRS

Contractor Will Begin Work on Pavement This Week.

The contractor who laid the West Superior street paving, which is in bad condition now, largely as the result of the treacherous condition of the ground upon which the material was laid, will begin to make repairs this week, between Sixteenth and Twenty-fourth avenues west.

The street railway company will at the same time repair its tracks through the same district, and repair the pavement between the tracks and rails and as far as the outside of the rails as the contractor is authorized for five years, dating from 1907, so he will have to keep the pavement in repair.

The ground over which this section of street is laid is of a soft, swampy nature, making the work of paving very difficult.

New Street work in Duluth is progressing in good shape. The work of paving Third street, between Broadway and Second, will be completed tomorrow, and the far macadamized work on Broadway between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth streets will also be completed tomorrow. The preliminary grading is finished on Third street

Contractor Will Begin Work on Pavement This Week.

The contractor who laid the West Superior street paving, which is in bad condition now, largely as the result of the treacherous condition of the ground upon which the material was laid, will begin to make repairs this week, between Sixteenth and Twenty-fourth avenues west.

The street railway company will at the same time repair its tracks through the same district, and repair the pavement between the tracks and rails and as far as the outside of the rails as the contractor is authorized for five years, dating from 1907, so he will have to keep the pavement in repair.

The ground over which this section of street is laid is of a soft, swampy nature, making the work of paving very difficult.

New Street work in Duluth is progressing in good shape. The work of paving Third street, between Broadway and Second, will be completed tomorrow, and the far macadamized work on Broadway between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth streets will also be completed tomorrow. The preliminary grading is finished on Third street and the contractor will begin the work of laying the material this week, between Sixteenth and Twenty-fourth avenues west.

DULUTH A COOL OASIS ON THE JOURNEY OF THE MYSTIC SHRINERS TO ST. PAUL

THE AAD TEMPLE PATROL.

CHIEF JOHN T. BLACK AND HIS TWO LIEUTENANTS, CHARLES WILSON AND JOHN OLSON.

Welcome to Duluth, Shriners!
With the music of the Third Regiment band as the introduction to the hospitable that were to follow, and with the Duluth AAD Temple members, sixty strong, waiting to give them welcome, the New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts temples were greeted this morning on board the steamer Pioneer. The patrol led by the band marched aboard the boat and bade the visiting Shriners welcome to the city.
Headed by the AAD patrol, the visitors marched to the St. Louis hotel. The local reception committee was awaiting the coming of the visitors and lost no time in filling their every want. After an informal reception in the lobby of the St. Louis, where enthusiasm was shown by the bedlam of ringing bells, shrieking whistles and chorused greetings, the delegates were taken for a carriage ride around the boulevard.

Take Hotel by Storm.
Later the visitors returned to the hotel for lunch. Here more merry-making was indulged in. The Cyprus temple of Albany, N. Y., had a huge gong and yell that would make a college enthusiast provoke soundless and tame. Other temples had noise and fun-making devices, and the lobby of the St. Louis rang with the shouts of the invaders.

After lunch had been served the Duluth patrol escorted the visiting temples to the depot, where the two special awaited them. There were fully 400 Shriners in the parade that marched to the depot. Headed by the brilliantly uniformed patrol, it made an imposing sight.

Upon all sides was heard enthusiasm and praise for the decorations that were made in honor of the visitors. The line of march, from the depot to the St. Louis, presented one line of brilliant decoration.

Shortly after 12 o'clock the local reception committee gathered at the Fifth avenue slip to welcome the Toronto and Buffalo temples. The first welcoming sign that met the eyes of the visitors was a huge emblem of the order, painted on the top of one of the warehouses near the dock.

The Toronto and Buffalo temples were escorted to the hotel, where they greeted the members of the other visiting temples. The atmosphere was vibrant with welcome and good fellowship. Many vowed that they were going to return by way of Duluth, and they also stated that they were going to make a longer stay the next time they came.

The McCann party, including temples from Wilkesbarre, Pa., Watertown, N. Y.; Binghamton, N. Y.; Troy, N. Y.; Albany, N. Y., and Springfield, Mass., arrived on the Pioneer. One of the most prominent Shriners among the New York state crowd is James T. Rogers of the Kalamazoo Temple, Binghamton. Mr. Rogers is an illustrious potentate, and was for a number of years a member of the New York state assembly. He was chairman of the ways and means committee of the assembly, and was also a member of the Armstrong committee, which investigated the famous New York insurance scandal. This committee worked with Governor Hughes, at that time unknown to fame outside his immediate circle of professional acquaintances.

Brigadier General James H. Lloyd of Troy is another prominent Shriner from New York. General Lloyd commands the third brigade of the New York national guard and is a veteran of the late Spanish war. He is a delegate of Oriental Temple of that city. Frank Detrick, illustrious potentate of Iren Temple, Wilkesbarre, is at the head of the delegation from that city. Col. Charles L. Young is past illustrious potentate of Melba Temple of Springfield. Colonel Young is one of the most prominent Shriners in the United States and has been actively identified with Shrine work for years.

Robert F. Cunningham of the same temple is an illustrious potentate. Mr. Cunningham is also one of the best known Shriners in the country. Fred B. Pitcher, illustrious potentate of the Midia Temple of Watertown, is prosecuting attorney of Jefferson county, N. Y. Mr. Pitcher is state. Luther C. Shiner, illustrious well known in politics in New York state. Luther C. Warner, past illustrious potentate of the Cyprus Temple of Albany, is chairman of the county Republican committee of Albany county, N. Y., one of the most important Republican strongholds in the state.

The Ramones Temple of Toronto is headed by James Glenville, illustrious potentate. William P. Ryle, R. C. Newman and Norman E. Rogers are representatives to the imperial council. F. J. Skill, J. J. Zeck and R. E. Forsyth are prominent men of affairs in the Dominion, who are with the Toronto Shriners.

L. L. Westbrook, illustrious potentate of the Ismailia Temple of Buffalo, headed the delegation from that city. William L. Alexander, William S. Rissley and Will H. Dich are representatives to the imperial council.

The Syria Temple of Plattsburg, the Osman Temple of St. Paul, the Lulu Temple of Philadelphia, the Ohmed Temple of Soo, Mich., and the Kadesh Temple of Reading, Pa., all have delegations here.

It is probable that many of the delegations will return home by way of Duluth. It was stated today that the Chicago Temple would return by way of the lakes, while some of the Eastern delegations have expressed a preference for coming back this way on their return trip.

Up to a few years ago Mr. Ritchie lived alone in a little house on West Fourth street but growing infirm and with no relatives to care for him, he was finally taken to the county farm. He was born in Ireland and came to America in 1844 living at Detroit, Mich., and Ontonagon before coming to Superior. Mr. Ritchie took an active part in the building up of the city and was one of the first to occupy a block which he built and which still bears his name. He was at one time district attorney. A. Booth conspiracy case next Thursday.

MADE RIGHT.

It Won the Banker.

"At the age of seventeen I was thrown on my own resources," writes the cashier of a Western Bank, "and being low in finances I lived at a cheap boarding house where they served black coffee three times a day.

"I first my very nature rebelled but I soon became accustomed to it, and after a while thought I could not get along without it between times. At the end of three years I had finished my course—my nerves, too, and I went back to the farm to rest. This did me some good but I kept on drinking coffee, not realizing that it caused my trouble, and later accepted a position in a bank.

"About this time I was married and my acquaintances called me 'Slim.' On the advice of a friend, wife began to serve Postum and she made it right from the start (bottled it 15 minutes after boiling actually starts). I liked it and have used it exclusively for three years. I am no longer doctored slim, my weight has increased 60 pounds and I have no strain on my brain without a finish. And I have increased my salary and my share of bank stock. I can now work 16 hours a day, sleep soundly and get up feeling like a healthy boy." "There's a Reason."

Josephine Gagnon Weds William Foubister Without Parents' Consent

Action may be taken by Joseph P. Gagnon for the annulment of the secret marriage of his daughter, Josephine Gagnon to William Foubister, which took place Friday evening without the consent of the parents.

Mr. Gagnon says that his daughter is only 17 years of age, and that the marriage license was obtained from the clerk of district court under the pretense that the girl was of age. The father is unwilling that his daughter should be married while so young, and if possible, will try to have the marriage annulled.

Rev. Rodrick J. Mooney, who was quoted in the News Tribune as having made statements concerning the marriage, claims to have no knowledge of the affair, and is very indignant that his name should have been used in cutting the clerk of the district court as was also stated in the morning paper.

PROHIBITIONISTS ALL AT SEA FOR A CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

SEABORN WRIGHT, Leading Prohibitionist, Who Refuses to Become the Party's Candidate for the Presidency.

Seaborn Wright Refuses to Allow Use of His Name.

Plenty of Other Candidates, But the Choice is Uncertain.

National Convention of the Party Opens at Columbus.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—Today opened up lively for the prohibitionists, with delegations from various states arriving and being escorted to their respective hotels by a band headed by a gaily decorated water wagon, drawn by four milk white horses, and attached to the rear a mule bearing a big placard "Missouri, 2-3 dry." The state convention opened at 8:30 o'clock, but there was more interest in the arrival of the national delegates than in the state meeting.

H. L. Deek of Sandusky did not preside as chairman of the state meeting, but as a delegate. Mr. Deek's speech, as temporary chairman of the convention, Mr. Deek lost the honor of presiding as permanent chairman and Jay Phiney of Cleveland was picked for that place. Mr. Deek's speech was a stinging attack on the churches and the Anti-Saloon league, and against woman suffrage, was the subject of bitter comment today.

He shouted that "decent preachers" were making their living out of the Anti-Saloon league, and charged the churches with insincerity because they do not support the prohibitionists. Not only was Mr. Deek refused the honor of presiding as permanent chairman for what the delegates thought his intemperate remarks, but it is said today that they will refuse to name him as one of the members of the national committee from Ohio.

At Sea for a Candidate.

The refusal of Seaborn Wright of Georgia to allow his name to come before the convention as a candidate for president left the delegates in a quandary as to candidates, but certainly not for a lack of material. A new boom makes its appearance every two or three hours.

Following the boom for Dr. A. B. Leonard, came one for Prof. Charles S. Scandon of Pittsburgh, field representative of the Presbyterian church in its temperance work. Prof. Scandon, who has been in the city since his arrival here, is still strong, and Joseph P. Tracey of Detroit, Daniel R. Shoen of Peoria and Alfred L. (Continued on page 6, seventh column.)

MYSTERY BAFFLES

Police Unable to Account for Murder of Troy Girl.

No Motive for the Crime Can Thus Far be Found.

Troy, N. Y., July 14.—More and more baffling as investigation proceeds becomes the mystery surrounding the tragic death of 15-year-old Hazel Drew, whose body was found in Troy's pond on Sunday with the skull crushed and a carotid vein knifely knotted about the neck. That she was murdered there has been not the slightest doubt from the first. But there is no known motive or even conceivable combination of circumstances which point remotely to a reason for the crime. It is not known that the girl had an enemy. She had no sweetheart as far as is known, one has been able to learn.

From the moment she left the home of her sister on July 3 until her body was discovered in the pond not a trace of her has been found save for a story told by Frank Smith, a dull-witted farm lad, Smith said he met Hazel Drew on last Tuesday he met Miss Drew not far from where her body later was found. Little evidence is given this story, inasmuch as it leaves four whole days unaccounted for between the time the girl left her sister and the time Smith claims to have seen her. They have taken it around, however, that Smith may have been mistaken in the date. The official has drawn from Smith a statement that Randolph Cundrum, another farm hand was with him when he met the young woman wandering up the hill near Troy's pond. He is being sought by the police.

DYNAMITER IS ARRESTED

Man Who Blew Up Oakland Residences Confesses.

San Francisco, July 14.—John Claudians, a Greek, 23 years of age, who was arrested by detectives employed by the district attorney, has made a confession to District Attorney Langdon that he is the man who dynamited the residence of James L. Gallagher in Oakland, and afterwards wrecked with dynamite two houses owned by Gallagher in Oakland which were unoccupied. Gallagher is a former supervisor of San Francisco, who has testified against Alvin Karpis in the graft cases.

The information regarding the arrest which was made on last Saturday night, has been withheld because the district attorney hoped to be able to capture Peter Claudians, an older brother of the man arrested, who is believed by the district attorney to be the man who inspired the younger brother to do the deed. It is in nearly every locality. Branch line towns of the Great Northern report similar conditions.

Incomplete reports from points in the Canadian Northwest indicate that the damage there was greater than in North Dakota. The wheat was farther advanced and the severe heat had a worse effect than in North Dakota. The Red river valley counties are feeling reasonably sure of a fair crop. There will be no bumper yield, but the stand of wheat is good and it is heading out in fine shape. Oats, barley and flax will be fair crops.

THE BATTLESHIP FLEET APPROACHES HONOLULU.

On Board United States Steamship Company at San, by wireless to Honolulu, July 13.—The position of the fleet at 8 p. m. was 244 north, 148 west. The distance from Honolulu is 66 miles. The Nebraska is fifty miles behind the fleet, and is now in wireless communication with the flagship Connecticut, having averaged 134 knots an hour since leaving San Francisco. The fleet will arrive at Honolulu intact. Fleet evolutions during the afternoon show increased proficiency on the part of all the ships of the fleet.

SELECTION OF CHAIRMAN

For Democratic National Committee to be Left to Nine.

Bryan Desires Sub-Committee to Report in Two Weeks.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 14.—Members of the Democratic national committee and a number of others holding proxies conferred with W. J. Bryan and J. W. Kern, the presidential and vice presidential nominees respectively at the Bryan home today with reference to vital matters of the campaign.

The visitors arrived at Lincoln over the Rock Island road on a special train at 8 o'clock, were given a trolley ride about the city, and gathered at 9 o'clock in the lobby of the Lincoln hotel where sentiment for Urey Woodson of Kentucky, the present secretary of the committee, loomed up forthrightly.

"I vote yes," laughed Roger Sullivan of Illinois as he grasped the Kentuckian's hand. Several others followed suit in the lobby of the Lincoln hotel where sentiment for Urey Woodson of Kentucky, the present secretary of the committee, loomed up forthrightly.

The national committee members present were: Mack, New York; Taggart, Indiana; Sullivan, Illinois; Tucker, Arkansas; Pomplison, Alabama; Coughlin, Massachusetts; Wood, Michigan; Daniels, North Carolina; Greene, Rhode Island; Brady, Oklahoma; Cummings, Connecticut; Donnelly, Idaho; Wade, Iowa; O'Brien, Kentucky; Williams, Mississippi; Talbot, Maryland; Kerr, Pennsylvania; Jones, Texas; Schicker, Utah; Jones, New Mexico.

A practically has been decided that the question of a chairman shall be left to a sub-committee of nine. It is said to be the desire of Mr. Bryan that this sub-committee shall make the selection inside of two weeks.

At 9:30 o'clock the committee, the proxies and others interested boarded a special trolley train for Fairview where they arrived at a half hour later, and threatened and they had no time in making their way to the Bryan home.

Talk of Ollie James and of National Committee member Atwood of Kansas was not lacking.

WONDERFUL AIRSHIP DESIGNED AND SAILED BY COUNT ZEPPELIN

ZEPPELIN'S AIRSHIP. Now on a 24-hour Trip Through the Sky, Having Started From Lake Constance.

FAMOUS AIRSHIP STARTS ON REMARKABLE VOYAGE

Zeppelin's Masterwork Sails Away From Lake Constance With Fifteen Men on Remarkable Trip.

Friedrichshafen, July 14.—The Zeppelin airship made a successful departure from its shed on Lake Constance at 2:22 o'clock this afternoon, on its much heralded twenty-four-hour trip through the air. It started in the direction of Constance, and sailed majestically away on its long journey.

When the king and queen of Württemberg reached the vicinity of the floating shed, on board the royal motor boat at 2 o'clock, enthusiastic cheering for their majesties and the airship sounded over the lake. Steps were at once taken to bring the airship out, and she emerged from her floating house stern foremost like a vessel leaving the slip. She slowly reached the open lake and was clear of her shed, and with her keel even with the surface of the water. She hung in the air like a gigantic and serene leviathan, forced by some mysterious power out of the element which should be its home. The supporting balloons were rapidly withdrawn by a numerous detachment of the balloon corps, and then, amidst roars of applause from the hosts on the lake, the crew and passengers, fifteen men all told, stepped on board the famous airship for the remarkable voyage in the history of aviation.

When all was ready the structure, which gave evidence of solidity and immensity that it seemed impossible for it ever to leave the spot where it hung over the water, slowly raised its bows.

The rear platform skimmed over the water at great speed for 300 yards, and then the whole ship rose into the air. This maneuver created a weird impression; it was as though a large steamer was quitting its natural element.

Count Zeppelin, the Septuagenarian aeronaut, was at the helm and he soon turned the bows of the ship in the direction of Constance. It is estimated that the airship started out at the rate of thirty-two miles an hour. It easily outdistanced the speedy motor boats which attempted to follow it from the lake, and the slower excursion steamers were soon left far behind.

BOY KILLED AT MINNETONKA

Dwight Baldwin Accidentally Shot at Target Practice.

Minneapolis, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dwight Baldwin, 18 years old, was accidentally shot and instantly killed by Kell Tullian, a playmate at Cottagewood, Lake Minnetonka, about 6 o'clock last night while the boys were target shooting with a small rifle. The boy was the son of Dwight Baldwin, a four-year merchant, 22 Metropolitan Life building, Minneapolis. Kell Tullian lives in St. Louis.

Both boys were at the summer home of their parents at Cottagewood. In company with other boys they had been shooting at a target, a tree and Baldwin went behind the foliage. Just as Tullian took aim for his turn at the target Baldwin appeared in front of the tree. Tullian pulled the trigger before he saw his friend in front of the target.

The bullet passed through the flesh of Baldwin's arm and then penetrated the heart, causing instant death. Realizing what he had done, Tullian ran home to tell of his act, while the other boys summoned help. No aid could be given, as the boy was already dead. Coroner Kistler pronounced death due to accidental shooting.

The little Tullian boy became hysterical after the accident and was placed under the care of a physician.

FIRST TWO TO AMERICA

Hammer Throwing and 1,500 Metre Races Won by Yankees.

McGrath Takes the Second Prize in Hammer Throw.

London, July 14.—The sun shone bright in the stadium this morning, giving promise of perfect weather for the second day of the Olympics in contrast to yesterday's drizzle, which threw a damper over the opening ceremonies. The flags of all the nations that have sent athletes to compete in the games, with which the stands are decorated, floated in light breeze, added further touches of brightness to the scene, while among the competitors the improved climatic conditions had a good effect, lightening their spirits and increasing their enthusiasm. The spectators, however, were slow in coming when the hammer throwing, the first event on the program, commenced, the stands were almost entirely deserted.

For Americans the interest centers today in the hammer throwing, and in the final heat of the 1,500 meters run, in which J. P. Sullivan and Melvin W. Sheppard of the American team compete against Tait of Canada and five Englishmen, winners of the preliminary heats run off yesterday.

The Americans also make their first appearance today in the cycling events, W. Wintz and Cameron having been drawn in the third and fourth heats of the twenty-kilometer race, the final of which will be run off later in the afternoon. Competitors being the winners of the various heats and three leaders making the greatest number of laps in the three fastest heats.

STATE FAIR IS ON NEXT WEEK

Annual North Dakota Show to be Given at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota state fair, which opens in Fargo Monday for all week will be a greater exposition than ever if the increased number of entries in all departments are any guarantee. The fair is on wheels, alternating between this city and Grand Forks, this being Fargo's turn, in the "off" years each city holds a local fair to maintain interest.

The Fargo management has a splendid equipment for an exposition. The grounds are just a mile from the business district and the transportation facilities are very satisfactory, the street car company having a loop for more than half the distance which enable the cars to handle the crowds speedily.

The grounds are large, beautifully laid out with numerous artistic and utilitarian structures. Several have been added this season with thousands of yards of cement sidewalks. One of the new buildings is a pavilion by the merchants in which there are booths rented by different local dealers. It covers a large area, has a grand stand near the stretch and is most advantageously located.

In an amusement way there will be the "Round-up" drive on both sides of which there will be all kinds of amusements furnished by a well known carnival company. The entries in the horse races are large and there will be thrills and excitement and one or two running events daily concluding with the free-for-all steeplechase.

Charles J. Strobel of Toledo, the ex-battle-magazine, will have charge of airship exhibitions to be given daily. His airship is already here. All this is needed to make the fair a huge success in a favorable weather.
